FORECAST FOR RACING WEATHER TO-DAY—Fair weather for leaders; light rain or snow for others; colder.

Special to The New York Times.

GRANGER, Wyo., March 12.—Barring a break-down, the Thomas car, which arrived here this evening after a run of 90 miles, will roll into Ogden to-morrow night, and the Rocky Mountain lap of the New York to Paris race will be a thing of the past. I expect to turn the car over to Harold Brinker with a clean lead of at least four days on the nearest competitor. How much more will depend entirely on the style in which the Italian car negotiates the mountain grades.

The Zust is heavy and carries a lot of her weight high in the air and her tussle with Rocky Mountain going will be interesting to watch. The "Macaroni" fleet, however, is hot after us. We hear that they arrived at Cheyenne this afternoon.

The Thomas needed an overhauling after her tussle with the snow, and she got it at Bitter Creek this morning. It was 8:20 when we pulled out up Bitter Creek cañon, a bad piece of road, cut with small gullies which threatened to break the car in two every time she had to be dropped into one.

Fording of Bitter Creek.

At Thayer Junction we were forced to ford Bitter Creek. The ice was breaking, and after a short consultation the little pilot car was stripped of all unnecessary weight and sent at the stream. The baby tucked up her skirts and took it on the run, doing the "Eliza crossing the ice" specialty with great success. Then the Thomas car charged the stream, and pulled through two feet of mud and water without a stutter.

Six miles further on the pilot car tried to cross another stream and stuck in the mud. The Thomas hitched a rope to her and pulled her out in about seven seconds, and then splashed through herself. She took in so much water through the radiator that the fan was badly bent. This is cited as an indication of the depth of the water she passed through.

A few miles further on we picked up another pilot car, sent out by the people of Rock Springs. The pilot said she would show us the way into that place, fifteen miles, but, the roads being good, the Thomas walked away from her and beat her into town by about fifteen minutes.

Rock Springs is the biggest coal mining town in Wyoming, and shows thirty-two nationalities on the census list. They were all Americans to-day, but the spokesman informed us that they would all be Italians when their friends of the Zust arrive.

The run from Bitter Creek to Rock Springs, fifty-one miles by the wagon road, was made in four hours, and, considering that half of the road was in frightful condition, the showing was very gratifying. We stopped twenty minutes in Rock Springs to take on a new guide and a load of provisions, the latter internally. The Reception Committee desired to make speeches, but we impressed them that it was a case of eat and run, and got out quickly.

Country Mostly Up on End.

From Rock Springs to Green River is fifteen miles, mostly on end. Bitter Creek Cañon may be all right for goats, but automobiles have their troubles there. The snow just melted, left the sticky blue clay road in awful shape, and it was like pulling up the side of a house plastered with chewing gum. We did fifteen miles in two hours, and stopped at Green River for gasoline.

The inhabitants of the only brewery town in Wyoming informed us that it was worse than lunacy to try to get out of Green River Cañon and up on top of the range. They said that the road had not been traveled this Winter, and, judging by the condition we found, they were probably telling the truth.

The grade was a heart-breaker for the little pilot, and we had to pick her up and carry her most of the way to the top of the mountain, but our old reliable took the ascent without a break, and made it in good time, too. From the top of the range we rolled dead westward for thirty-five miles, the first fifteen miles through slush and the last twenty through the snow. Twice we crossed the Black Ford River on the ice, the second time cutting off two hours' hard climb by virtue of its thickness.

Ready to Drive All Night.

The car is now being overhauled here, preparatory for the last day's run. We have 145 miles before us and a portion of the country is said to be by far the worst we have yet encountered. We will get away before daylight, and by driving hard expect to get through some time before 8 o'clock in the evening. I will stick to the wheel until we get there if it takes all night.

After crossing into Utah we expect to find fairly good roads. From Ogden on Brinker will have easy going and should open a tremendous gap on the Italians before they get through the snow. It will then be a case of "Come catch me, boys."

This is the fourth day and I have driven every foot of the way, and barring a slightly sprained wrist, am as good as new.

HUGH BONNER DEAD.

Recently Appointed Fire Commissioner and Long a Chief in the Department.

Fire Commissioner Hugh Bonner, who had been ill of pneumonia for the last two days at his home, 636 West End Avenue, died at 12:30 o'clock this morning. His illness took a turn for the worse in the night. Commissioner Bonner contracted a cold a week ago, but persisted in attending to his duties at his office daily despite the advice of his physician. On Monday he was compelled to take to his bed.

Mr. Bonner succeeded Fire Commissioner Francis J. Lantry less than two months ago. Before that he had been Deputy Fire Commissioner.

Mr. Bonner was 68 years old. He was born in Ireland, and came to this country when a boy. When 17 years old he joined a volunteer fire engine company in this city, afterward becoming its foreman.

When the present department was organized he was appointed Foreman. In 1872 he was made a Chief of Battalion, and in 1883 he became Second Assistant Chief of the department. A year later he was made First Assistant Chief, and in May, 1889, Chief.

He held his place for about ten years when he was retired and Edward Croker, the present chief, was appointed. It was generally believed at the time that the influence of Richard Croker had forced out Mr. Bonner, and had led to the appointment of the present chief.

Hugh Bonner owed his position in the Fire Department to his high sense of duty and his disinclination to talk. There was nothing spectacular about the man. When he entered the department engines were little more than large-sized pumps and the men themselves, by their strength and enthusiasm, had to make up the many deficiencies.

At that time Mr. Bonner was a member of Volunteer Engine Company No. 40. It was in 1865 and the company was working in the early morning in a fire in Grand Street, when word reached it that, at a session of the Fire Commissioners they had been incorporated into the paid department at that very hour and were no longer volunteers.

This message proved the turning point in the life of the late Commissioner. He chose fire-fighting as his vocation, and devoted all his talent to making it a success. He was appointed a foreman within a year and from that time his advance has been steady. The rates for fire insurance were the lowest in the history of the city while he was Chief.

Almost his last act was to order new hose to replace the rotten hose which was in part responsible for the loss of life at the Parker Building blaze and the damage at other recent fires.

GREETING BLOCKED TRAFFIC.

Ten Broadway Cars Held Up While Drummers Recalled Old Times.

Charles Harris of 231 Seventh Street and Meyer Finstein of 111 Monroe Street, each a successful young traveling salesman, met yesterday in Broadway, between White and Franklin Streets, by chance. They had not seen each other since their school days. They ran into the street and clasped hands, standing on the car tracks.

"Do you remember?" demanded Harris, and "Don't you recall?" replied Finstein until ten Broadway cars were lined up behind them. Their reminiscences had got nearly to the point where they lost track of each other, and nearly a score of motormen were clanging their gongs when Policeman Murphy arrested them for blocking traffic.

Magistrate Herrman discharged them in the Night Court.

PRETTY NURSES BARRED.

Only the Plain Kind Wanted in Panama, Cupid's Own Realm.

Panama is one place where Leap Year is not needed, Miss Helen Varick Boswell, who organized the women's clubs on the Isthmus at the instance of the Government, told the members of the Portia Club yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Astor.

"Cupid is tremendously overworked down there," said Miss Boswell. "It is impossible to keep a woman single. At one of the hospitals they told me they had lost seventeen nurses by matrimony from April to June, and sent word up to the States that they positively would not take young nurses, and very plain ones must be sent. The nurses become engaged to the men returning to Panama on the way down on the steamers.

"Everything is provided for the married quarters, house, furniture, drinking water, and there is nothing to get but food and clothes. A wife is a very comfortable adjunct to a man's life, and the bachelor quarters are being constantly depleted. A man in Panama gets about twice the money that he would here for the same work, and there is no way to spend money. I think that is one reason it has been hard for the women. It is a very good place to save."

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper read a paper on the relation of women to the Federal Government.

BARNARD CAN'T BAR HER.

President Butler Decides That Miss Elder's Age Is Not Vitally Important.

President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University has diplomatically decided that it doesn't make any difference whether Miss Mabel Frances Elder is only as old as she says she is or whether she is two years older. In either event he has decided that she may be a member of Barnard College.

Miss Elder's case has attracted widespread attention and has been unsettled since a year ago, when Dean Laura D. Gill of Barnard College deprived the young woman of the privileges of the college for the alleged misstating of her age. The rights of her case have been argued before President Butler and Dean Gill, and two lawyers have submitted, one 15,000 words and the other 22,000 words on the subject.

Miss Elder on entering Barnard in 1906 said she was born in 1888. Records at a school which she had attended made it appear that she had been born in 1886. President Butler says he doesn't care which year is right.

ROOSEVELT READY TO FIGHT CONGRESS

Determined That His Reform Bills Shall Be Passed at This or Extra Session

DESPITE SPLIT-PARTY BOGY

Measures to Permit Restricted Railroad Pooling and Licensing of Corporations Discussed at White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The time when Congress will either begin to occupy itself actively with certain of the measures recommended by President Roosevelt or face an open fight with him is not far off. The bills forming the principal part of the legislative programme which constitutes the President's irreducible minimum are nearing completion, having been the subject of numerous conferences between the President's advisers and some of the interests concerned.

These conferences culminated last night at a long session at the White House, attended by Secretaries Root and Garfield, Attorney General Bonaparte, Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations; Francis Lynde Stetson of New York, Seth Low, representing the Civic Federation; Victor Morawitz, Vice President of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, and Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

The out-of-town members of last night's White House meeting were again in session to-day with Secretary Garfield and Corporation Commissioner Smith. The bills under discussion were:

First—To amend the Sherman Anti-Trust act along the line frequently recommended by the President to permit railroads to form traffic associations for the purpose of agreeing on rates, regulations, and practices, subject to approval or disapproval by the Commerce Commission.

Second—A bill to repair the damage done to the Erdman act by the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Adair case and to exempt labor organizations from classification as conspiracies in restraint of trade, thus repairing the damage done to them by the Supreme Court decision in the Danbury Hatters' case.

Third—A bill covering the Federal licensing of inter-State corporations.

Stock and Bond Issues.

This last bill will provide for the organization of industrial combinations on condition of their submission to certain supervision by the Commissioner of Corporations. And either this bill or another, yet to be drawn, will deal with the matter of stock and bond issues by inter-State corporations, in the effort to control over-capitalization of such concerns.

The President also wants the addition of the Employers' Liability law.

The President is determined to have these bills enacted by this Congress, and that means either at this session or at an extra session to be called just as soon as this session adjourns without having done the work he demands. Some of his closest advisers have been urging him to let it be known that he will call the extra session right after adjournment and keep Congress here all Summer, if necessary, to obtain these laws.

Mr. Roosevelt feels that the present House was elected on a square promise to the country to put through such legislation. He recalls the wide and effective use that was made throughout the last Congress campaign of the letter he wrote to Representative Watson of Indiana, in which he appealed to the country for the election of a Republican House in order to continue the programme of legislation begun by the enactment of the Hepburn law.

Moreover, he has had ample evidence recently of his own continued personal popularity throughout the country and the popularity of his "policies." Several times heretofore the President has been induced to give up some of his programme by the threat that insistence would split the party. This is the bogy that has always been trotted out by the anti-Roosevelt men in Congress whenever they felt themselves being pushed into a corner by the President. But the indications now are that it will fail to work this time. He has discounted the possibility of such a split.

Split Is Inevitable.

There is ample evidence that a certain split in the party is inevitable, but the President has had information as to the extent of such a split and does not believe it would affect the result at the election. He is in position, therefore, to force the issue with Congress, and if either the House or Senate undertakes to block the bills he demands, the responsibility for the failure to enact this legislation will be placed before the country squarely where it belongs.

The members of the House who get in the way will have to defend themselves before their constituents, and there is already ample evidence that that procedure will not be at all popular with them this year.

As he promised in his special message of Jan. 31, the President will send to Congress a series of other special messages covering specifically the measures he advocates. Definite determination has not yet been reached as to the order or contents of these messages, but they will probably go one at a time and each will be devoted to one of the measures he desires.

The conferences which have been going on have cleared away the preliminaries so that the drafts of the various bills will probably be ready within a week or ten days. Then the firing will begin. The bills will probably be introduced in the House by Mr. Hepburn, Chairman of the House Committee on Inter-State and Foreign Commerce, which reported the Hepburn Rate bill, and in the Senate by Senator Dolliver, who has had a hand in preparing them, and who was a leading factor in the Administration fight for the rate law.

Mutterings of Rebellion.

There are already mutterings of rebellion at the Capitol. There was talk to-day, especially among some of the most active of the Senatorial managers of the anti-Roosevelt-Taft "allies," that if this continued threatening of special messages did not stop very soon there would be open and outspoken retort. It was the first trial trip of the "split-the-party" bogy for this session. But it will not get far.

Nothing would please the President better than for his opponents in the Senate and House thus to put themselves on record now against the legislative programme.

Stuyvesant Fish Is President's Guest.

TWO NEW OCEAN RECORDS.

Mauretania Makes Fast Eastern Trip—Lusitania Sets New 24-Hour Mark.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 12.—The Cunarder Mauretania arrived at Queenstown at 4:14 o'clock this afternoon, breaking the eastward transatlantic record by covering a distance of 2,932 miles in 5 days and 5 minutes, her average hourly rate being 24.42 knots.

The Mauretaina's passengers will be in London at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

QUEENSTOWN, March 12.—The Cunard turbine steamer Mauretania established to-day a new transatlantic record, beating her own best previous eastward record by 2 hours and 36 minutes. She arrived off Daunt's Rock at 4:14 this afternoon, so that her time in transit was 5 days and 5 minutes. She cleared Sandy Hook Lightship at 11:09 A. M. March 7.

She traveled over the long route, the total distance traversed being 2,932 knots. The average of knots an hour for the whole trip was 24.42, as against the Mauretania's previous record of 23.90 knots. The best day's run, which was made on Tuesday, was 575 knots, with an average of 24.77 knots an hour. This was an exact duplication of the Mauretania's previous best day's run, made on the day ended at noon of Jan. 29, the ship being on an east-bound voyage.

The highest average run per hour made by the Lusitania, going eastward, was 23.62; the highest by a German transatlantic liner was 23.58, and it was made by the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

LIVERPOOL, March 12.—A wireless message received by the Cunard Steamship Company states that the Lusitania, which left here for New York on Saturday, made a run of 627 knots from Monday noon to Tuesday noon, the equivalent of 706 land miles.

This establishes a new world's record, the best previous daily westward run being 624 knots, made by the Mauretania.

SAGAN WITH MME. GOULD ?

Friends of Prince Helie Believe He Is Aboard the Adriatic.

PARIS, March 12.—Prince Helie de Sagan has left Paris, and some of his friends think he is aboard the Ardiatic along with Mme. Anna Gould, bound for America. Up to the present it has been impossible to ascertain whether this conjecture is well founded. Prince Helie's passport was taken out in the name of De Benevent, which is one of his titles.

Mme. Gould also is traveling incog., having booked under the name of Miller. It is said she used this name for fear Count Boni de Castellane might at the last moment undertake to keep her from taking her children to America.

Nothing could have been further from Count Boni's intentions. This appears from the fact that he telegraphed a farewell to the children. This message, by the way, failed to reach the addressees, because it was forwarded to the North German Lloyd steamer, Count Boni not having been advised that Mme. Gould had transferred her booking to the Adriatic.

Count Boni has issued a letter characterizing as a piece of buffoonery the suit brought by Prince Helie de Sagan, his cousin, accusing him of forging certain letters signed with Sagan's name and reflecting upon Mme. Gould. Count Boni declares this suit evidently was brought upon the eve of the departure of his children and their mother for America for the purpose of furnishing American newspapers with material for sensational articles upon their arrival in New York.

PARADED AS ALONZO KIMBALL.

Young Man Who Impersonated New York Artist Duped Asheville Society.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 12.—A telegram sent to Alonzo Kimball, the young New York artist, to satisfy a rumor that Alonzo Kimball had not been in Asheville recently, develops a story of an impostor who has been here for several months, parading under the name of Alonzo Kimball, who has been lionized by society and who has completely duped the town.

The bogus Kimball was a prepossessing young fellow, good-looking, and clever at drawing. He also was possessed of a good tenor voice. He publicly exhibited some of his drawings, which were those of the original Alonzo Kimball.

"Kimball" would often sing at afternoon teas. He was engaged by the First Baptist Church, the largest Baptist Church in the State, as soloist.

Some time ago a young Asheville society woman, in writing to a girl friend in New York, who was an admirer of Kimball's, mentioned his being here. The New York young woman mentioned it to Kimball, and he denied it.

To-day a telegram was received from Alonzo Kimball in New York, saying: "Have never been in North Carolina."

The bogus Kimball has disappeared.

IT'S TAFT, SAYS DALZELL.

Sensation at Banquet Over Speech of Supposed Knox Champion.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, who, it is said, has been slated to put Senator Knox in nomination for the Presidency at the Chicago convention, created a sensation at the Yale dinner here to-night, predicting the election to the Presidency of Secretary Taft.

"There are some people," said Mr. Dalzell, "who favor the nomination of Vice President Fairbanks, there are some who favor Senator Knox, and others who favor New York's Governor, but the man whom eighty-five million people will elect President of the United States next November is William Howard Taft."

For a moment the diners looked at each other in amazement and then wild cheering began.

In the gossip which followed it was suggested that Dalzell had never forgiven the Republican organization of Pennsylvania for electing Knox to the Senate instead of himself. Others regarded it as the beginning of a grand band wagon rush to Taft. Politicians regard it as the most significant speech of the year. Comment was particularly made on the fact that he omitted to mention Speaker Cannon.

Senator Depew followed the lead of Dalzell and declared himself for Taft.

"I am from New York," said the Senator, "and so am for Hughes—instructed for Hughes. But in my heart I am for the Secretary of War."

Justice Brewer made a speech, in which he showed that he was not in sympathy with the President's desire for more legislation. He declared there was too much legislation. Secretary Taft replied, saying it was not so much the quantity of legislation that is enacted as the poor quality of it.

Secretary Metcalf, who presided at the dinner, announced that he expected to retire from public life when he left the Cabinet at the close of this Administration.

CANNON INVOLVED IN LILLEY CHARGES

OFFERED COMMITTEE PLACE

Lilley Restates His Charges Under Oath—Tells of Lawyers Retained in Naval Committeemen's Districts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Representative Richmond P. Hobson brought Speaker Cannon into the submarine scandal resulting from Representative Lilley's charges against the methods of the Electric Boat Company at the hearing before the special committee to-day. Mr. Hobson testified that Lawrence Y. Spear, construction officer of the Electric Boat Company, had asserted that he had influence with the Speaker which, he affirmed, he would use to get Hobson on the Naval Committee if Hobson was "straight on submarines."

"Spear was a classmate of mine at Annapolis," said Capt. Hobson, "and we kept up our cordial relations for a number of years after we were in active service. I got a letter from him last November in which he said he wanted to see me in regard to a matter that would be for our mutual benefit. This did not surprise me, as he had already spoken to my secretary.

"I was ill with the grip at the time and did not answer his letter. He then telephoned to me. He said that if he was assured that I was in favor of submarines, for which the Electric Boat Company is a contractor, he would see to it that I got a place on the Naval Committee. I told him then that I did not want anybody's influence, and that I would not discuss my position."

"In what direction did he say that his influence lay?" asked Mr. Olmsted.

Said He Could Influence Cannon.

"Through the Speaker," answered Mr. Hobson.

Mr. Olmsted of the committee who conducted the investigation did not press the investigation on that point. Capt. Hobson's examination was soon over. He was on the stand about seven minutes.

Mr. Lilley was the first witness. He came prepared with a bundle of statements. His statements did not add much light to what he had said before. He denied to-day that he had ever intended to cast any aspersions on members of the Naval Committee or of the House.

Mr. Lilley was on the stand for three hours, spending fully half that time in reading typewritten statements. Later, under cross-examination by Representative Olmsted, he admitted the statements had been compiled after receiving advice on the matter from ex-Senator John M. Thurston, attorney for the Lake Torpedo Boat Company, a rival concern of the Electric Boat Company.

Mr. Lilley's typewritten statements were for the most part simply expansions of the vague charges he had preferred before the House Rules Committee. Under cross-examination, however, he named Representative Hobson as the member of the Naval Committee who had refused the offer made by Lawrence Spear to put him on the Naval Committee, through his influence with Speaker Cannon, "if he was straight on submarines."

He also mentioned three attorneys of the company who he said were active in the districts of members of the Naval Committee. They were John B. Kellogg in his own district, W. D. Gordon in the district of Representative Loud of Michigan, and "a man named Cowart," who he thought was in Representative Gregg's district of Texas.

Gregg Denies Lilley's Statement.

At the afternoon session Gregg voluntarily appeared before the committee and swore that what Mr. Lilley had said about his district and "a man named Cowart" was "made out of whole cloth."

"Nobody of that name lives in my district," he said, "and no constituent of mine ever mentioned submarines to me. In my part of the plains they don't know anything about submarines."

Mr. Lilley said that the motion introduced by Representative Loudenslager of New Jersey, which in his opinion cut off all competition and gave to the Boat Company $1,000,000 undeserved profit, had been drawn by ex-Senator Marion Butler, attorney for the company.

"He read his motion," said Mr. Lilley, "from a typewritten sheet, and from the looks of the sheet, and from the looks of the typewriting, my mind went back in recollection to very similar documents I had received two years before from Mr. Butler."

Mr. Lilley, before answering questions, frequently consulted with his counsel, Frank P. Brown and Stiles Jefferson, both of Connecticut.

"Do you mean to imply," Mr. Olmsted asked, "that in the district of every member of the Naval Committee there is an attorney for the Electric Boat Company trying to influence his vote or fight his election?"

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Lilley, with his nervous smile. "I think they have given up trying some of the members. I think they have given up trying Mr. Foss, Chairman of the committee."

"Does the gentleman mean us to think," asked Mr. Olmsted, "that they haven't given him up?"

"Will the gentleman tell the committee," said Mr. Olmsted, "what part of his statements this morning were suggested by Mr. Thurston?"

"I am not on trial," burst out Mr. Lilley, "nor is the Lake Torpedo Boat Company, and I do not see what this has to do with the issue before us."

May Involve Lake Company.

"The investigation may finally include both companies," replied Mr. Olmsted.

Mr. Lilley replied:

"I will gladly move to have them investigated, too, if there is any evidence against them. A man named Neth or Neff, I forget which, did once ask me to introduce for the Lake people a bill granting them a fair opportunity in open competition, but I refused because I did not like to tie myself to anybody. After that Mr. Loudenslager made his motion, which gives to the Electric Boat Company $1,300 per ton for construction, instead of the $745 declared sufficient by experts."

Mr. Lilley's Statement.

"I now insist," said Mr. Lilley, "that you summon as witnesses Isaac S. Rice, President of the Electric Boat Company; Elihu B. Frost, Vice President; Maurice Barnett, Treasurer; August Treadwell, Assistant Treasurer, and they be required to lay before the committee documentary evidence in their possession.

"I am not qualified in person to examine witnesses, and therefore I requested that I be placed in a position to develop

MRS. HUBBARD TO PAY $2,500.

Guardsman Who Was Hurt by Her Automobile Wins His Suit.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, March 12.—Mrs. E. Gates Hubbart of New York, or, as she prefers to be styled, Mrs. Edmund Hubbard, has been mulcted in damages to the tune of £500 in the suit brought against her by Lieut. Harford of the Scots Guards, who was injured by her motor in 1906.

Mrs. Hubbard told the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES that she felt very much disappointed at the outcome of the trial and that in her opinion the judgment of the court was extremely unjust.

"I don't think," she said, "the fine would have been nearly so large had I not been an American.

"I want to explain," she continued, "that though I am the defendant in this case, a Paris firm of insurance agents with whom I am insured for $20,000 are financially responsible. I made a special trip to England in order to assist this firm to obtain justice, as well as to aid my chauffeur to retain his reputation as a careful driver.

"Had we been responsible I should not have taken the stand I did; but if, as I hope, the insurance company obtains an appeal, I am willing to make another trip to England at my own expense in order to assist it to get justice."

To-day's proceedings, like yesterday's, were enlivened by a bit of humor from the bench.

"The plaintiff," said Justice Darling, in summing up, "is an officer of the Scots Guards. It was necessary for the good of the country that no harm should come to him, because, as I understand it, officers are very scarce."

The court usher, who at once recognized this as a humorous gem, shook with laughter, and all the other discreet persons in the courtroom followed suit.

OUR MAIL MAY BE IN JAPAN.

British Officials Say Registered Packages Possibly Went Astray.

LONDON, March 12.—The British postal officials are not so confident to-day, as they professed to be yesterday, that the fifteen registered mail packages which disappeared last January were put aboard the White Star liner Celtic and forwarded to New York.

They now recall that mails were dispatched for Japan and Chile on the same day the Celtic sailed, and say there is a possibility that mail bags intended for New York were sent aboard the wrong steamer.

If this is so they soon will be heard from.

HURRYING TO PRIEST, DIES.

Man Drops in Street After Trying to Enter a Church to Pray.

A well-groomed man of middle age last night ran up to several women standing before St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, at Fourth Avenue and Forty-second Street, Brooklyn, awaiting the beginning of the Lenten mission services for women, and exclaimed:

"Please let me enter the church. I think I am dying. I want to pray."

Frightened, the women urged him to go around to the rectory, in Forty-second Street, and see Father McGuirl. The man started, but suddenly, with a cry, sank to the sidewalk. Stanley Price of 144 Twentieth Street caught the man as he was falling, and, with Father McGuirl, carried him to the Fourth Avenue Police Station.

Lieut. Convoy called Dr. Norton from the Norwegian Hospital, but the man was dead when he arrived. His clothing was of fine material and finish, but there was nothing in his pockets by which to identify him.

AUSTIN LOSES BOND SUIT.

Court Decides That Cortelyou Had Authority to Reject Bids.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has dismissed the proceedings instituted by George W. Austin of New York to compel Secretary Cortelyou to issue to him $3,000,000 worth of Panama Canal bonds.

The court held that the Secretary had the right to reject any or all bids, and to consider the financial conditions of the country, and that, if the courts were to enjoin such proceeding, a syndicate might get control of an entire bond issue and cause financial ruin. Austin appealed.

BELL'S AERODROME TESTED.

Flies 319 Feet and Then, Losing Part of Its Tail, Is Stopped.

HAMMONDSPORT, N. Y., March 12.—Prof. Alexander Graham Bell's new aerodrome, the "Red Wing," had its test flight over Lake Keuka to-day. After gliding over the ice of the lake for about 200 feet, the aerodrome rose gently to the height of about ten feet, and then sailed at that elevation for a distance of 319 feet, at the rate of from twenty-five to thirty miles an hour. After having covered this distance, a portion of the "tail" gave way, and the aerodrome was brought down for repairs. This is declared to be the first successful public flight of a heavier-than-air flying machine in America.

The aerodrome proper weighed 195 pounds, the engine and apparatus about 200 pounds, and the operator 175 pounds, thus giving the entire machine and operator a weight of 570 pounds. The total supporting surface, including tail and rudder, was 453 square feet.

WINDOW OPENING DAY.

A Straw Hat Also Seen Yesterday on Blizzard Anniversary.

Though yesterday was the twentieth anniversary of the blizzard that made 1888 famous, it was really the great window-opening day of 1908. Even the east side windows were shoved up, and it takes an appealing call to get air into some east side houses.

All day the mercury gamboled around 45 and 50 in the thermometer. Some people wore no overcoats at all, and the rest wore Spring coats.

"I saw a robin this morning near Hackensack when I was coming to work," said one incoming commuter.

"I saw a violet last Sunday," answered another.

"And I saw a bock beer sign," said an unpoetic friend, who joined them.

One man was seen out yesterday under a straw hat. He appeared in Times Square, and received a greeting that far transcended that bestowed in New Jersey on the early robins.

ASKS REMOVAL OF BINGHAM AND MAYOR

Dr. Parkhurst Carries Charges of His Society to the Governor in Albany.

SUNDAY LAW UNENFORCED

He Declares, Though the Theatre Crusade Showed Saloons Could Be Closed—His Own Complaints Ignored.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—Petitions asking for the removal of Mayor McClellan and Police Commissioner Bingham were filed with Gov. Hughes to-day by the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, as President of the Society for the Prevention of Crime. In the petition the Mayor is charged with inefficiency, neglect of duty, and violation of his oath of office and obligations as a public official in failing to enforce the excise law. Substantially the same charges are made against Commissioner Bingham. One of the things held against the Mayor is that he has failed to remove the Police Commissioner.

The removal of the Mayor and Police Commissioner is asked for under Section 122 of the New York Charter. The specifications annexed to the charges are the result of work done by sleuths of the society in the successive Sundays of a period beginning Dec. 8, last year, and ending last Sunday.

To show that Mayor McClellan and Commissioner Bingham would have been able to close them, the petition refers to the fact that on Dec. 8, last year, in deference to a decision of the Supreme Court, the Mayor and Police Commissioner, acting in concert, contrived to stop all Sunday performances in theatres and concert halls without making a single arrest.

Dr. Parkhurst came to the Capitol in person and filed the charges with the Governor. Under the provisions of the charter, the Governor, should the charges be sustained, could remove both the Mayor and the Police Commissioner, for, although the latter is an appointive officer, there is a specific provision in the charter giving the Governor power to remove him.

Gov. Hughes declined to make any comment on the charges beyond saying that he would take them under consideration.

In explaining his action, Dr. Parkhurst said at his home, 133 West Thirty-fifth Street, last night:

"We are not asserting that we believe in a closed Sunday in taking this action. We are merely taking the position that there is a law upon the books for a closed Sunday, and that it is the duty of the Mayor and the Police Commissioner to enforce this law. We may have our own ideas as to what the law should be, but we are not going into that at this time."

"Have you given copies of the charges to the Mayor and Commissioner Bingham?" he was asked.

"Yes," Dr. Parkhurst said, "and copies have also been sent to the Excise Department. We received answers to our letters to the Mayor, but Commissioner Bingham did not reply."

Dr. Parkhurst added that the Board of Directors of his society were with him in the matter. The Directors of the Society for the Prevention of Crime are Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, the Rev. Dr. Abbott E. Kittredge, Frank Lugar, Thaddeus D. Kennesson, Frank Moss, Francis E. Laimbeer, J. M. Hallock, C. E. Bruce, John S. Huyler, John H. MacCracken, Seth Sprague Terry, David Blaustein, Charles R. Saul, Samuel Marcus, Robert A. Kelly, and William Sheafe Chase.

The specifications, which are signed by Dr. Parkhurst and the Secretary of the society, Thaddeus D. Kenneson, hold that the recent closing of theatres on Sunday was the result of the exercise of their powers by the Mayor and the Commissioner "in a spirit of earnestness and determination" and demonstrated their ability to enforce the law without additional expense and without interfering with the enforcement of the law against other crimes. On the same Sunday, the specifications allege, intoxicating liquors were sold with the knowledge of the Mayor and the Commissioner.

It is further charged that the excise law was violated on these Sundays in 1907: Dec. 15, 22, and 29, and on these Sundays in 1908: Jan. 5, 12, 19, and 26; on every Sunday in February, and on the first two Sundays of March. The law was violated particularly in seventy places in Harlem, with the knowledge of the Mayor and Commissioner.

The correspondence appended to the specifications shows that upon Dec. 12, 1907, Dr. Parkhurst wrote to Commissioner Bingham congratulating him upon the excellent work done by the police in enforcing the theatre law, and calling upon him to proceed with excise violations. On Dec. 21 another letter inclosing the list of seventy-one saloons was sent with the statement that they had been violating the Sunday closing law before and since the enforcement of the theatre law. Copies of these letters were at the same time sent to the Mayor.

In the correspondence made a part of the charges against the Mayor there was this letter written by Dr. Parkhurst to the Mayor under date of Jan. 3, 1908:

> Our complaints made to the Chief of Police having failed to bring satisfaction, we make our demand upon you who, by the form of your oath and the terms of our city charter, are responsible for the inaction of your Commissioner and for the lawlessness to which inaction gives occasion. Your oath of office * * * allows you no privilege of selecting between statutes which you will enforce and those you prefer to ignore. Your method of dealing with the statute against Sunday liquor selling is evidenced by the fact that, having reported to you by street and number the cases of 71 saloons doing Sunday business in a restricted area of the city, the same saloons were running in the same unconcerned and undisturbed way the two Sundays following the date of our report to you. * * * Ocular proof of our work in those saloons in the shape of 284 flasks of whisky which our detectives purchased there, are subject to your inspection if you care to visit our museum at 1,437 Broadway.

The letters previously sent to Commissioner Bingham, copies of which had also been sent to the Mayor, had produced an acknowledgment of receipt from the Mayor's secretary. The letter quoted from above also was acknowledged, but with the additional statement for the Mayor that the matter had been brought to the attention of the Police Commissioner.

On Feb. 19 Dr. Parkhurst in a letter to the Mayor complained that the excise situation had shown no improvement. This letter is acknowledged by the Mayor's secretary. In the collection of letters sent to Commissioner Bingham at various times no acknowledgment from either the Commissioner or his secretary is added as having been received by Dr. Parkhurst or the society.

Set into both of the pamphlets dealing with the Mayor and the Commissioner is an appeal to the clergy signed by the Directors of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, which contains this passage:

> One who has not been himself a Mayor can hardly imagine probably the little obstructions that incumber a Mayor's path of duty, the subtle influences that operate to chill a moral enthusiasm that might otherwise be warm and productive. * * * It seems * * * to be fit that before resorting to more drastic measures we should bring to the Mayor the assistance of our own moral support as counterweight to any detaining influences operating adversely. As conducing to that end, will you not secure and send to us to forward to him as many signatures as possible to the cards of protest just mentioned, or let us call for them?

Mayor McClellan, after the filing of the charges became known, said that he had understood that they were to be presented.

"I have not, however," said he, "seen the specifications, and until I have opportunity to read them I shall not discuss them."

Commissioner Bingham said at the Hotel Iroquois, 49 West Forty-fourth Street, where he lives:

"I knew that the charges were being prepared and that they were filed. Further than that I have nothing to say now."

It is understood, however, that the Mayor is provided with documentary proof to the effect that each of Dr. Parkhurst's communications was referred to Commissioner Bingham. This also appears partially in the replies that were sent to Dr. Parkhurst by the Mayor's secretary. It is also understood that Commissioner Bingham is provided with proof that the list of saloons was referred to his Inspectors and that each of the Parkhurst communications was made known to them officially.

the facts. This request has been by the committee refused.

"The witnesses I have named are nearly all officers, attorneys, agents, and representatives of the Electric Boat Company, or have been such, and they are the persons—if any—who have been engaged in the improper efforts to influence Congressional action.

"I had supposed that it was the function of this committee to sit here as Judges and not to act as prosecutors or defenders and, therefore, that the orderly and effective procedure would be to have witnesses examined in the first instance by some other than a member of this official tribunal.

"I ask your honorable committee whether or not, after consideration of what I have just stated, the committee still adheres to its determination to prohibit me from calling the witnesses, and presenting their testimony under the examination of my attorneys?"

This request being denied by the committee through Chairman Boutell, Mr. Lilley said:

"I now feel that I am relieved from any responsibility of this investigation, and as an individual I submit myself to the direction and orders of this committee in such a manner as would enable it to prepare for a possible defeat of the purposes of the investigation."

Mr. Lilley suspended his statement long enough to be sworn, and proceeded under oath. The Chairman announced that Mr. Olmsted, one of the members of the committee, would ask whatever questions might be necessary in the conduct of the investigation.

His Charges in Full.

Mr. Lilley's statement under oath was as follows:

"I propose to show that for several years prior to the Lessler investigation the Holland Boat Company and its successor, the Electric Boat Company, maintained in Washington an organized lobby for the purpose of influencing legislative appropriations in favor of the submarine boats built by that company, and that it had under annual retainer C. E. Creecy, Gen. Eppa Hunton, ex-United States Senator Marion Butler, S. C. McNeir, Dr. W. R. Kerr, and others.

"That for several years Elihu B. Frost, Vice President of the said company, has been a continuous visitor at Washington during Congressional sessions, and has spent large sums of money in furnishing entertainment to members of Congress.

"That the Senate amendment to the Appropriation bill of March 2, 1907, was prepared and drafted by the attorneys for the Electric Boat Company for the purpose of and with the intention to eliminate competition in submarine construction, and to prevent the Secretary of the Navy from exercising discretion in awarding contracts.

"That a thorough investigation by an impartial committee will show that large sums of money have been by the Electric Boat Company, its officers, or agents contributed to campaign funds of members of Congress, who favor and have favored the Electric Boat Company monopoly of submarine construction; also that large sums of money have been spent to accomplish the defeat of members of the Naval Committee who did not favor the Electric Boat Company.

"That an examination of the books and records of the Electric Boat Company and of its predecessor, the Holland Boat Company, will show this.

Reprimanded by Navy Officials.

"That continuous and repeated efforts have been made by representatives of the Electric Boat Company and its predecessor to influence the action of the officials of the Navy Department, and that such efforts in the past were so persistent and notorious as to call forth the condemnation and criticism of high officials of the Navy Department whose testimony can be secured by the investigation committee.

"That from 1893 up to the present time, these efforts of the Electric Boat Company and the Holland Company have resulted in absolutely suppressing any possibility of competition in submarine construction, and securing and awarding of all contracts to this company without possibility of competition.

"That it can be shown by former investigations before the Naval Committee of the House, upon which no report was made to the House of Representatives, that the Holland Boat Company and the Electric Boat Company have been engaged in reprehensible efforts to influence members of Congress and officials of the Navy Department in favor of their boats and appropriations therefor.

"That it can be shown upon investigation that certain representatives of leading newspapers have been subsidized and paid by the Electric Boat Company for favorable newspaper articles and reports in behalf of said companies.

"If these things are not actually without the pale of the law, they are wrongful practices and tend to throw discredit upon the Congress of the United States."

Orders in Exchange for Influence.

Mr. Lilley repeated to the committee the incident related by him to the Committee on Rules, wherein an intimate friend of his, a large manufacturer in his home town, told him that he (the manufacturer) had the promise of a large order if he (Lilley) would vote for the submarines, and that a lawyer of his own city came to Washington and stayed with him and endeavored to influence him in favor of the Electric Boat Company.

"I am prepared to give the committee the name of this lawyer," said Mr. Lilley, "and my statement can be verified if you will call him as a witness. I make the same offer with regard to the manufacturer referred to.

Mr. Lilley said he had learned that the Electric Boat Company had employed as its attorney W. D. Gordon, in the Congressional district of Representative Loud of Michigan, "where the company had or could have had no possible business for an attorney in the conduct of its legitimate affairs, and this attorney was employed for the sole purpose of endeavoring to secure favorable action on the part of Representative Loud for such legislation as the Electric Boat Company might desire.

Offered a Committee Place.

"I state also that a man in the service of the Electric Boat Company approached a member of the House of Representatives, then a candidate for membership of the Naval Committee and now a member of that committee, and offered his services to secure for said member of the House a place on the committee. The offer was peremptorily declined, and the matter proceeded no further. I am willing to give the name of the member referred to, as I make this statement on his authority.

"I also submit that in my judgment, under special and exclusive legislation, the Electric Boat Company and its predecessor already have received from the United States an excessive profit of more than $1,000,000, and that under the proposed legislation now pending it will receive a profit of more than $1,000,000 in excess of what ought justly and fairly to be paid."

Mr. Lilley said that investigation would also show that the submarines already constructed by the Electric Boat Company, or now under contract, as well as those provided for in pending legislation, are inferior in type, speed, power, armament, and efficiency to those now under contract for construction for foreign Governments.

Lawrence Y. Spear is the naval architect of the Electric Boat Company and his office is located at Quincy, Mass. Five years ago he was a Lieutenant in the navy, but resigned to become the naval expert of the Electric Boat Company. He was, according to Isaac L. Rice, President of the Electric Boat Company, which owns the Holland Submarine Company, in the same class at Annapolis with Congressman Hobson and the two are close personal friends.

"Lieut. Spear is capable of explaining all that he has done," said Mr. Rice last evening. "It is now a question of giving testimony under oath, and Lieut. Spear can give an account of himself. One thing I can say with certainty, and that is that the Electric Boat Company never had any influence with Speaker Cannon and never has claimed to have had.

"I am surprised at the affair, and it looks absurd to me. Spear and Hobson are old friends. I do not believe that the Lieutenant ever said what he is alleged to have said. But that is his affair and not mine. The Electric Boat Company never had influence enough to get any one on any committee.

"What was more natural than that Hobson should get a place on the Committee on Naval Affairs? That was his specialty. He had been in the navy, had studied the subject, and his selection came naturally. He surely did not need influence to get a place on the committee."

THAW SERVED WITH PAPERS.

Special to The New York Times.

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., March 12.—The summons and complaint in the suit of Evely Nesbit Thaw against Harry K. Thaw for the annulment of their marriage were served on Thaw at 6 o'clock to-night by John McCourt of Daniel O'Reilly's office. A copy of the documents was first placed in the hands of Dr. Robert B. Lamb, Superintendent of the hospital, who is now Thaw's legal guardian.

The patient was at supper when the papers arrived. He was taken to the reception room to receive them and greeted McCourt with a smile.

"Thank you. I'll place the papers in my lawyer's hands," said Thaw.

He sat down and read every word of the documents before returning to his room. Thaw exchanged messages with his mother to-day through Mr. Parker of A. Russell Peabody's office.

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw, having ceased to pay visits to her husband at Matteawan, was downtown yesterday, and quite bright and content with life. She said she was perfectly satisfied with matters as they stood.

An afternoon newspaper printed the old rumor that she would relinquish an agreement with the Thaws in the matter of her support and demand $200,000 cash and after her marriage was annulled would marry a wealthy Westerner.

"We have had no intimation of any such demand," said A. Russell Peabody, counsel for Thaw and attorney with Col. Franklin Bartlett, counsel for Mrs. William Thaw. "It's a fake."

"How about the new marriage to a Westerner?" was asked.

"I heard that the man referred to was a wealthy dentist of Memphis," he replied, "but as this gentleman has a wife and a large number of children I am inclined to think that this report also is exaggerated."

Dan O'Reilly, counsel for young Mrs. Thaw, accepted the yarn as a good joke.

Young Wife Not to Live in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, March 12.—Mrs. Harry K. Thaw had arranged to take a residence in the fashionable district of Pittsburg within a short distance of the home of Mrs. William Thaw, but something has occurred in New York which has caused the young woman to stop negotiations for a lease. It is said here that Mrs. William Thaw has made it an object for Evelyn to promise not to reside in Pittsburg.

Herrick Not a Candidate for Senator.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 12.—Ex-Gov. Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland to-day made the announcement that he is not a candidate to succeed United States Senator Foraker. His friends had urged him to-day to make the race. He will leave for New York to-night.

HUGHES GETS FOUR VOTES IN MISSOURI

Eleventh and Twelfth Districts Declare for New Yorker, and Twelfth Instructs Delegates.

FIRST IN UNITED STATES

Candidate Who Stands for the "Square Deal" Should Be Selected as Roosevelt's Successor, Say Resolutions.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 12.—Resolutions instructing the delegates to the Republican National Convention to vote for Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York for President as long as his name is before the convention were adopted at the Twelfth District regular convention to-day. They are the first instructions that the New York candidate has received from any district in the United States. A slight attempt was made to defeat the Hughes resolutions, but the effort proved of little effect when the Easterner's name was mentioned in the convention hall.

The Eleventh District convention to-day also indorsed Hughes, but did not instruct for him. The Hughes resolutions as adopted in the Twelfth District follow:

"We, the Republicans of the Twelfth Congressional District of Missouri, in convention assembled for the purpose of selecting delegates to represent us at the Republican National Convention, to be held in Chicago, Ill., on the 16th of June, 1908, at which the party will select its candidates for President and Vice President, and adopt a platform of Republican principles and policies, do hereby commend the able and patriotic Administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

"In the language of an eminent public citizen, we are contemplating a new Administration at the close of one which to a degree almost unparalleled has impressed the popular imagination and won the confidence of the people.

"To secure a continuation of the splendid policies and work of the present Administration, we believe a candidate should be selected who is honest, aggressive, and fearless, but who combines with these excellent qualities the judicial poise and instinctive fairness which is a guarantee against injustice and error.

"In the selection of a successor to President Roosevelt, we believe the party's choice should fall on a candidate who stands for the 'square deal,' and for unwavering application of those policies which insure the greatest individual freedom consistent with the public safety.

"So believing, we indorse the Hon. Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President, and do hereby instruct the delegates and alternates this day chosen by us to represent the Republicans of this district at the Chicago Convention to work and vote for the Hon. Charles E. Hughes in said convention until he is nominated as the candidate of the Republican Party for President or his name is withdrawn from the convention.

"We view with alarm the action of the last State convention in placing its stamp of disapproval on active, earnest, and honest work in behalf of the Republican Party of Missouri, by refusing to indorse for National Committeeman, Hon. Thomas K. Niedringhaus, the man who above all others is responsible for the appearance in our midst of the 'mysterious stranger.' Ingratitude is the worst of sins. Having this in mind, we hereby instruct the delegates elected to the National Convention from the district to vote for Hon. Thomas K. Niedringhaus for National Committeeman for the State of Missouri.

"We heartily indorse the able administration of the present Republican State officials, who have so fearlessly and honestly discharged their duties. And especially do we congratulate Hon. Herbert S. Hadley and John E. Swanger upon their magnificent records."

NEBRASKA INDORSES TAFT.

Movement for La Follette Dies Out Before the State Convention.

OMAHA, Neb., March 12.—The Republican State Convention to-day instructed the delegates selected to vote for Secretary Taft for President and to give him their support until he is nominated.

The sentiment for Secretary Taft was apparently unanimous. The Lancaster County delegation, which was sent to the convention on a platform favoring the policies of President Roosevelt, was headed by Judge Allen W. Field, an avowed supporter of Mr. Taft and candidate for Delegate-at-Large.

A large delegation from the Fifth District, where a movement to indorse United States Senator La Follette for President received its greatest impetus, arrived late last night and at once made it distinctly known that opposition to Secretary Taft had ceased.

"Tony" Donahue, a local labor union leader, who was a delegate to the Second District convention, spoke against the nomination of Secretary Taft. He said:

"It is a matter of common notoriety that Secretary Taft is an enemy to organized labor, and I want to place the union labor of Omaha on record as opposed to him. If this convention indorses Taft we will not support the ticket."

No other delegate attempted to press the matter, and Donahue's talk was received in silence.

ODELL MAY CONTROL STATE.

Ex-Governor Gaining Ground in His Fight Against Parsons.

Ex-Gov. B. B. Odell has already made his activity felt in several of the districts over which Congressman Herbert Parsons, Chairman of the County Committee, was supposed to have absolute domination. There is every reason to believe that, while the ex-"boss" may not actually be in control of the Republican Party in this State at the present time, he will be after the primaries on March 31.

In the last week several district fights have broken out that show that the Odell forces have been busy, and with considerable success. Certain developments have made it apparent, however, that it is not necessarily the purpose of the ex-State Chairman to gain control of the County Committee at once. In fact, he could not do this, as district leaders are not to be elected at the primaries this month. The object has been to obtain control of the pivotal Assembly districts, and through them of the Congressional districts. By doing this Odell can name the delegates to the National Convention and can obtain control of the State Committee, which is his chief objective.

It is generally conceded that Odell has with him now the following: Jacob A. Livingston of Brooklyn, William Halpin and William H. Ten Eyck of New York, William L. Ward of Westchester, Louis F. Payn of Columbia, Cornelius V. Collins of Rensselaer, John F. O'Brien of Clinton, Horace C. Tennant of Schoharie, George W. Dunn of Broome, Charles H. Betts of Cayuga, George W. Aldrich of Monroe, and J. Sloat Fassett of Chemung. Counting Odell himself, this gives thirteen of the thirty-eight members of the State Committee as opposed to the Roosevelt-Woodruff-Parsons machine.

The plans of Odell and his followers, it is said, contemplate the capture of the Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Thirteenth, Fifteenth, and Seventeenth Congressional Districts by defeating the Parsons people in the pivotal Assembly districts of each. If these plans succeed the result will be that Odell can send his own delegates to the National Convention, and at the State Convention, to be held next month, he would be able to wrest the State leadership from Woodruff. The county organization's capture might follow in the Fall.

There are two red-hot district fights going on at present as a result of Odell's work. One is in the Fifteenth Assembly District, of which Harry W. Mack is the leader. Charges and counter-charges are being made every day, the Mack people asserting that Odell is working with Lemuel Ely Quigg, and that Senator Martin Saxe is aiding them both. Yesterday it was said that Mr. Quigg had approached the workingman's organization in the district and had offered jobs in the Subway in return for support at the primaries. The Mack people are making good use of the developments of the traction inquiry in regard to Mr. Quigg.

It is confidently expected that other district fights will begin in a short time. In the Tenth Assembly District there is already a fight against Ferdinand Eidman, Collector of Internal Revenue, and in the Twenty-fifth, George Manchester and Henry Burrell are making the present leader, Ezra P. Prentice, uncomfortable.

CONNERS NOT TO QUIT.

Democratic State Chairman Announces His Intention of Succeeding Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 12.—William J. Conners of Buffalo, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, announced today that he wished to succeed himself as State Chairman, and that he expected to be re-elected. The announcement was made after Mr. Conners had had a long talk with Lieut. Gov. Chanler, whose brother, Robert W. Chanler, now Sheriff of Dutchess County, has been mentioned as a probable successor of Mr. Conners.

It is the general belief here that Mr. Chanler is Mr. Conners's choice for Governor. It is also said that George M. Palmer will probably get a place on the Democratic State ticket next Fall.

FAIL TO INDORSE BRYAN.

Massachusetts State Committee Tables Resolution by Vote of 24 to 4.

BOSTON, Mass., March 12.—A resolution indorsing William J. Bryan as the Democratic nominee for the Presidency was laid on the table by a vote of 24 to 4 at a meeting of the Democratic State Committee at the Quincy House to-day.

The discussion of the resolution brought out the fact that the majority of the members favored Mr. Bryan, but that they preferred the expression of their support should come in the form of a resolution from the committee rather than from an arbitrary resolution from outside sources.

The Spring caucuses were set for April 27, and it was decided to hold the State Convention in Faneuil Hall, if it can be obtained for May 7.

GAYNOR BOOM OUT AGAIN.

J. Grattan MacMahon Exposes It to View in Poetic Oratory.

The William J. Gaynor Presidential boom was taken out of camphor and exposed to public view in Brooklyn last night. Its resurrection was due to J. Grattan MacMahon, long famed in the rubber plant borough as an orator who can soar to heights sublime.

It was not known that Mr. MacMahon took the Gaynor boom out of the moth-proof chest in the political garret with the consent and approval of the Justice. The impression prevailed that the Justice hadn't heard about it in time to head Mr. MacMahon off.

It was at a dinner to Patrick F. Lynch, Democratic leader of the Twenty-third District, held at Semers Hall, that Mr. MacMahon called attention to the fact that Bryan was not the only pebble on the Democratic beach. Mr. MacMahon, who a year or so ago was a candidate for County Judge, had been looked to for something different in the way of a speech, and it was generally admitted that he had not disappointed.

"We are living," said Mr. MacMahon, "in an iconoclastic age—an age of socialistic cant and atheistic tendencies, an age when great men act to-day and think to-morrow. If the Great Commoner, in a moment of oratorical generosity, proposes to turn over to the management of the people the railroads of the Nation, the Bayard of Republicanism goes him one better, and at once turns his luminous lore on the listless leaves of the luckless lexicographer. If the one threatens to inundate with a sea of silver a continent of gold, the other perches the eagle of the Rockies on the masthead of 'Bob' Evans's Connecticut and sends him flying over the sea to intimidate with his gaze the heroic dwarf of the Pacific.

"Is this Republic so poor in spirit, so bankrupt in genius, that she can boast but one great man? It can't be so—'tis not so. There is Presidential timber in every State. We have Presidential timber in this State. Yea, in this county we can boast of a fellow-citizen who is of the great men of this century, a prime jurist, a fearless thinker, a Jeffersonian Democrat, a man whom no power could dismay, nor the world bridle—William J. Gaynor."

After Mr. MacMahon had thus gently broken the news to the diners, Senator McCarren also spoke.

Sixth Iowa District Indorses Taft.

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, March 12.—Republicans of the Sixth Congressional District met here to-day and selected John F. Lacey of Oskaloosa and Milton McCord of Newton delegates to the National Convention at Chicago. Resolutions indorsing President Roosevelt's policies and Secretary Taft for President were adopted. Senator William B. Allison was indorsed for re-election and B. F. Carroll was recommended as a candidate for Governor.

MOUNTAIN SCALED BY LEADING AUTO

long pursuit after the American car, which is speeding across the western part of this State. A. L. Ruland, who is with the car as the American representative of the Zust Company, said:

"We made the journey through Eastern Nebraska without incident until Paxton, in the western part of the State, was reached, when we dropped into a chuckhole and broke a chain sprocket. We sent to Cheyenne for a new part and were delayed twenty-four hours.

"During Sunday and Monday we gained 156 miles on the American car, and today we gained nearly fifty miles by making a night run after repairing our car. The best roads we have seen since leaving Broadway were in Western Nebraska and Eastern Wyoming, but we are told that bad roads and snow banks will be found west of here in Wyoming.

"The peopde have been hospitable and kind in the extreme, and the very limit of hospitality was reached here this afternoon when the Cheyenne people turned out en masse and overwhelmed us with a glad welcome. Indeed, it was, if possible, more enthusiastic than was the welcome to the American crew last Sunday.

"The car is in fine condition, and I believe we will overhaul the Americans before they reach Nevada. Autoists here take as much interest in us as in the Americans, and pilots serve us on each run. The health of all the boys is good."

The crew of the car were to-night the guests of the Commercial Club at a banquet. Ex-Senator Joseph M. Carrie of Wyoming presided, and Major Cook of Cheyenne, the commandant at Fort Russell, was one of the principal speakers. The Italian Consul General from Denver made the trip up to be present at the dinner and to encourage his countrymen in the extraordinary fight they are making for the lead in the great race. The four men in the car are happy to-night and confident of ultimate success.

The town turned out to-day to welcome the car. Cheyenne has a keen appreciation of sportsmanship and admires the pluck with which the Italians stick to their task, in spite of many discouragements and mishaps. A unique entertainment was provided for the men this afternoon. Though tired out by their long, hard drive over 194 miles of road throughout the night and forenoon, they were glad to take advantage of the opportunity. Four mounts were procured and each man shouldered his rifle for an afternoon's shooting. On the plain outside of the town they managed to gather in a full game bag of prairie dogs after an excellent four hours' shooting. Cowboys accompanied them and showed something of what American cowboys can do on good mounts. The Italians are good horsemen, and they enjoyed the exhibition immensely.

The one who was most impressed by the hospitality of the city was Haaga, the German mechanician on the car. He declared that he could not forsake it before it reached Paris, but that he would return to America when the trip was ended and make his home at Cheyenne. All four men are enthusiastic over the splendid hospitality accorded them everywhere. They are especially warm in their praise of the sportsmanship of American automobilists who have provided pilots. Two cars will accompany them from Cheyenne at dawn to-morrow and show them the way across the State.

DE DION'S PLUCKY RUN.

Spends 29 Hours on Road—St. Chaffray Pushing On to Omaha.

Special to The New York Times.

MISSOURI VALLEY, Iowa, March 12.—We have been twenty-nine hours without sleep or stopping for food, but the De Dion car has made in these twenty-nine hours the trip made in two days and a half by the Thomas car, and in three days by the Zust on the railroad tracks.

Now, Omaha is twenty-six miles before us, and we go there to-night.

Traveling at night made the right of way free. But moonlight is not sufficient. Yesterday the De Dion car was in a ditch on the side of the road near a big bridge of iron, reported to be the biggest between Chicago and Omaha. A bridge is made for railways, but flooded roads belong to others, and the car would be yet in the ditch if our dear shovels had not worked during the cold hours, an oppressive hardship.

In the dark everything seems easy from the seat of an automobile, but the prudent driver must search his way.

The country between the Missouri and Mississippi Valleys is over, with its hills and its grades of 35 per cent., and with its rivers of mud.

"Pretty fine roads," say the farmers, but no French dog would consent to put his feet on such paths; he would prefer to never go outside. A good business is reserved to Santos-Dumont if he is willing to build dirigible balloons for going to different places of the State.

The airship's field, which seems to be dull in the old country on account of the number of houses and the difficulty of finding free ground for starting or stopping, is unlimited between the Mississippi and the Missouri. Of course there are farms from five to three miles apart. The farmers are wealthy and look poor. Their houses were made more recently with poorer material than the rich houses of the Illinois farmers, and show that the country was occupied more recently. In the yards, overhanging the road, uncleaned porkers race in the black mud and even red or white porkers are all black.

The horses, running free in the field in groups of twenty or thirty, come at fast speed to see the car. They run on the same line and then, as if obeying a word, turn back as fast as they can. Stupid cattle turn to us their white muzzles and remain in the same position when the car is so far from them that it can hardly be seen.

In the streets of towns, men mounted on chairs and holding American flags present to us a temporary triumphal arch. The car must pass between their chairs and under the flags. The crowd is so great that it seems as if the car would be taken to pieces. Last night ladies and girls cut with scissors, behind us, the leather straps holding the top and religiously put them on their breasts as souvenirs.

In a deep valley to-day, our companion, Lascares, was trying on foot to find in the ocean of dirty mud a place where the car would not completely sink. When Lascares came back to his seat we found he had no more rubber shoes.

The sticky ground had kept them without warning when he tried to rise to the car. At the very moment the event happened Lascares was so cold that he did not realize his amusing position.

MISSOURI VALLEY, Iowa, March 12.—After the hardest kind of driving for over twenty-nine hours the French De Dion car arrived here to-night from Le Grand, and with only a short delay went on to Omaha, twenty-six miles west.

The car made excellent progress during the night. Leaving Le Grand just before 3 o'clock, it reached Boone after dark. A short delay was made there for a fresh supply of gasoline. The sixty-three miles were covered in six hours. When the moon rose, the crew set out again, and at dawn had advanced to Carroll, fifty-two miles further west. Two hours later they passed Vail, twenty miles nearer Omaha. The progress from Vail to this place was slow, averaging only about five miles an hour, on account of a delay to remedy tire trouble that developed at mid-day.

The car is in good condition, though the men are pretty well fagged out. St. Chaffray, however, would not consent to any delay until he reached Omaha, when he expects to give the crew a good rest and then overhaul the car once more, replacing the new part which they forged at Marshalltown before beginning the 516-mile run to Cheyenne.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., March 12.—At 10 o'clock to-night the French De Dion car was fifteen miles east of Council Bluffs, and making slow progress. A car started from Omaha this afternoon to meet the De Dion, but ten miles out of Council Bluffs it turned around and returned to the city, finding the roads too bad to go forward.

PROTOS HUSTLES ONWARD.

Reaches Marshalltown, and Hopes to be in Omaha To-morrow.

Special to The New York Times.

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa, March 12.—The Protos car, racing fourth from New York to Paris in the great automobile contest, reached here this afternoon at 5 o'clock in charge of Lieut. Koeppen of the General Staff of the German Army. It had run eighty miles since morning, and appeared in perfect condition, but Lieut. Koeppen decided to remain here over night.

The Germans left Cedar Rapids this morning at 9 o'clock, and made only one stop during the day. This was necessitated by a punctured tire, which was remedied after an hour's delay. The general average of ten miles an hour was maintained over good and bad roads. In some stretches it was possible to do better, but through the mud, with the heavy load on the car, it was not possible.

An early start will be made to-morrow morning in the hope of making Carroll, 106 miles further west, before night. On Saturday night the car is expected to arrive in Omaha, and will then begin the long run to Cheyenne. Lieut. Koeppen figures on reaching Cheyenne in four days more and getting across the Rockies before March 20. Unless his plans fail, he thinks he will be able to sail from Seattle on the steamer leaving April 1.

MOTOBLOC TAKES BACK TRAIL.

Makes Up 80 Miles Gained by Train Ride—Godard Is Hopeful.

Special to The New York Times.

CLINTON, Iowa, March 12.—Here I am, back again. After completing the repairs to the Motobloc at the automobile factory here I was faced with the necessity of making up the eighty miles of road which I had escaped by shipping my car from De Kalb to this city, in order to get to a factory. I did not wish to ship back to De Kalb at a considerable loss of time by reason of poor railroad connections, so I decided to run back forty miles to Dixon, Ill., and then return to Clinton, covering an equal distance on the road. I am thus on even terms with my competitors as to distance traveled once again.

The repairs which I have effected here have been complete. I remedied the break caused by the unlucky stone which my driving chain picked out of the Illinois mud and took advantage of the opportunity thus afforded to completely overhaul the car. It is now in even better shape than when it left New York, especially as I have substituted new tires for the cushion tires which I used at the start. I find the unevenness of your roads too severe for cushion tires to stand, so have been forced to make the change.

I am delighted with the result. I made the eighty miles to-day without difficulty and in good time, better than I have been able to do at any time before. I expect that I will be able to fly along from now on and shall be able to overtake those who have preceded me thus far. My car runs better than it ever has. I think it has become accustomed to the unevenness of American roads—has been acclimated at last.

I shall leave to-morrow morning at an early hour for Cedar Rapids, and expect to make the eighty miles in the forenoon, as the roads are in much better condition. I may go further if there is yet time when I arrive there.

RAILROADS RESUME WORK.

B. & O. and Pennsylvania to Carry Out Improvements Stopped Last Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, March 12.—Orders came to Pittsburg to-day from the main office of the B. & O. Road at Baltimore that next Monday there would be a resumption of improvement work in the Pittsburg district. This will mean the expenditure of about $500,000. Work was stopped last Fall.

The Pennsylvania Road to-day also ordered work begun on the repair of 40,000 damaged cars scattered all along its system.

Canon Chase Explains an Item.

Canon William Sheafe Chase, rector of Christ Church, Brooklyn, has written to John J. Hyland, the horseman, assuring Mr. Hyland that he did not believe a joke had been perpetrated upon him when, returning in the turfmen's special train from Albany, where he had been attending the hearing on the Race Track bill, his pocketbook disappeared and was later found by one of his hosts. The pocketbook slipped from Canon Chase's pocket and was found on the floor of the car. It was suggested that some humorist had played a trick upon the Brooklyn clergyman.

USEFUL HINTS TO HOUSE KEEPERS.

A COAT of Natural Jap-a-lac applied over old or new linoleum or oil cloth will double its life, by preserving the original coat of varnish which would otherwise soon be washed or worn off.

WEATHER BEATEN front doors are revived and beautified when coated with Jap-a-lac, and "newness follows the brush." It is best to use the color nearest that of the old finish.

WINDOW and DOOR screens should be coated with Jap-a-lac each spring, using the Brilliant Black on the wire, and the Mahogany, Oak, Cherry, or Walnut on the frames. It gives them new life and the wire cloth is protected from rust.

PORCH FURNITURE should be protected and beautified each spring with Jap-a-lac. It is best to use the color of the old finish, but if you wish to change the color, use Red or Green Jap-a-lac.

WICKER FURNITURE coated with Mahogany, Ox-Blood Red, Malachite Green or Gloss White Jap-a-lac looks better than new.

WATER PIPES, furnace fronts, radiators, hot water tanks and iron fences are preserved and beautified with the use of Jap-a-lac. Use the Gold, Aluminum, Dead Black or Brilliant Black.

PICTURE FRAMES, candelabra, gas fixtures, lamps, etc., given a coat of Gold, Aluminum or Dead Black Jap-a-lac, are renewed almost beyond belief;—the Dead Black produces that beautiful wrought-iron effect.

OLD AUTOMOBILES, carriages, wagons, agricultural implements, etc., Jap-a-lac-ed with either Brilliant Black, Red, Green or Empire Blue, look 100% better, and are given new life. The cost is nominal, and the work can be done by an inexperienced person.

JAP-A-LAC is a household necessity, and can be used in a hundred and one ways, from "cellar to garret," and is especially adapted for finishing old or new floors and woodwork. Ask your paint dealer.

MORSE'S DIRECTORS NOW UNDER SCRUTINY

Grand Jury Trying to Find Out What Knowledge They Had of Illegal Bank Transactions.

MORSE SAYS HE'S THE 'GOAT'

But There Are Indications That He Doesn't Mean to Shoulder All the Responsibility.

Federal investigation of the affairs of the National Bank of North America did not end with the indictment covering twenty-nine counts found against Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis on Wednesday. There are several other phases of the situation, involving, probably, other individuals, that will be laid before the Grand Jury, for that body is understood not to be content to allow the "co-conspirators" mentioned with Morse and Curtis in the indictment to remain permanently "unknown," as they are described in that document.

United States District Attorney Stimson is not so much concerned, it is understood, with individuals as with setting a precedent against the line of operations that Morse followed in the Bank of North America to deter any who may be tempted to undertake similar operations in future. The Department of Justice at Washington is known to be in full sympathy with Mr. Stimson's policy.

The indictment found against Morse and Curtis on Wednesday makes mention of other parties in the alleged conspiracy, who were, however, unknown to the Grand Jury. The conspiracy is said to have put the bank into unlawful speculative operations under cover of dummy loans and false entries in the books, and the present purpose of the Grand Jury is to find out how far the knowledge of this situation extended among the bank's officers and Directors. As the indictments are drawn, any knowledge on the part of a Director that the purchases of stocks and dummy loans were made, taken in connection with his official acts in approving the reports of the officers and the bank's own statements, which the Government declares were false, would be sufficient to bring such Director within the scope of the conspiracy charges.

That Morse himself is not disposed to sit quiet while responsibility for everything that happened in the bank is placed on his shoulders has become evident.

"I'm the goat, as usual," was the remark he made as he left the courtroom on Wednesday.

This fits in with things that Morse has said when the affairs of the National Bank of North America have been under discussion, particularly in connection with the suit of Receiver Hanna against all the Directors of the bank. Morse declared for publication that his was not the sole responsibility, when Mr. Hanna sued him on a lot of the dummy loans, and he has said privately to his friends that the Directors of the bank had knowledge of what was done and the way it was done.

In this connection interest was attracted yesterday to the fact that the time covered by the sales of American Ice Securities stock to the bank, as specified in the indictment, covers also the existence of the ill-fated pool in American Ice stock that Morse managed early last year. The bank all told took about 19,500 shares of American Ice stock from Morse, John F. Carroll, and Mrs. Katherine Gelshenen, according to the indictment, paying Morse in the checks therein set forth $766,500, Carroll about $32,000, and Mrs. Gelshenen, $12,000.

The members of the ice pool were Morse, Isaac Guggenheim, Charles W. Gates, Charles M. Schwab, and F. A. Heinze. Where the Federal authorities are particularly interested in it is in the fact that John W. Gates and Charles M. Schwab are both Directors of the National Bank of North America, and as such supposed to be conversant with its affairs.

Philip J. Britt, Morse's counsel in the criminal proceedings brought against him in the State Courts, made yesterday a formal request that he be allowed to examine the minutes of the Grand Jury bearing upon the perjury indictment returned against him. This indictment is based on Morse's statement that he had nothing to do with a certain loan by the Bank of North America to E. R. Thomas and the subsequent discovery of a letter showing that the loan was made at his direction. Morse was allowed to appear before the Grand Jury and correct his testimony, after which the indictment was returned.

District Attorney Jerome will contest the application for inspection of the minutes, which will come up before Justice Blanchard in the Supreme Court on Monday.

HAFFEN HAD ELASTIC RULES.

Contract Time Figured on "Inspection Days" Only in Some Cases.

Josiah Briggs, Borough President Haffen's chief engineer, was the one witness at yesterday's session of the Haffen inquiry now being held by the Commissioners of Accounts. The testimony related almost solely to contracts for improvement work in tthe Bronx. Much of it was technical.

It was shown that the contract provision, in most cases for the work being done, was so interpreted that days counted were so-called "inspection days" instead of actual working days. As the amount of inspection work done on a job lay entirely in the hands of the Borough President and his subordinates, it was easy to favor a contractor who was friendly or to keep an unfriendly contractor up to the scratch. It was also brought out that the penalties for delay were seldom, if ever, enforced, and while Mr. Briggs admitted that he had remitted the penalties, he could not remember why he did so.

Tammany Leader Thomas F. McAvoy, as a member of the firm of Murray & McAvoy, was concerned in one of the contracts alluded to at the hearing.

The inquiry was adjourned until this morning. It is likely that President Haffen will again be a witness on Monday.

Long Acre Light Company Asks Permission to Issue $60,000,000 Bonds.

A hearing was held yesterday by the Public Service Commission on the application of the Long Acre Electric Light and Power Company for permission to issue $60,000,000 of securities. Henry W. King, counsel for the company, asserted that the company has assets of $34,000 and book debts of about $93,000, and that it supplies several theatres with electricity.

Mr. King declared that there was need of competition, because the Consolidated Gas Company, "which controls the Edison Company," charged exorbitant rates and had not a sufficiently large plant to supply certain territory which his company would supply. He declared that if the commission refused to grant the application it would smother competition in this city in the electric light and power busness.

Commissioner Maltbie asked the direct question whether the company, if its application was granted, would agree to supply electricity at 8 cents a kilowatt hour, the Edison's price being 10 cents. Mr. King replied that he could not say positively just then, but if an adjournment was taken he thought he could make answer by Tuesday.

BASIS FOR OSBORNE CHARGES.

Grand Jury, It Is Said, Opposed Bringing Ice Witnesses from Maine.

As an additional reason why Attorney General Jackson and his Special Deputy James W. Osborne wanted to have the investigation of the American Ice Company taken away from the special Grand Jury of the Supreme Court, it was learned yesterday that Mr. Osborne wanted to send down to Maine and get some fifty witnesses, who he believed would rebut testimony given by President Oler of the Ice Trust in regard to the shortage of the ice crop there in 1906. This the Grand Jury is said to have opposed.

That the relations between the Special Deputy Attorney General and the Grand Jury were far from harmonious was shown by the affidavits which Mr. Osborne and his assistant, Ruben Peckham, filed before Justice Dowling on Wednesday. These were made public yesterday. Mr. Osborne in his affidavit declared of his personal knowledge that Foreman Cuddihy was away one day when material testimony was being taken, while Grand Juror Van Ingen "was repeatedly absent for parts of days while material testimony was being taken," and one day, when President Oler of the Ice Trust was on the stand, came in an hour late, after very important evidence had been brought out.

On another occasion, Mr. Osborne says, Grand Juror Stead asked to be excused an hour before adjournment.

"I remember this," the affidavit continues, "because I asked the Foreman if Mr. Stead had left because he didn't like my examination of Mr. Oler."

Mr. Van Ingen said yesterday that the time referred to by Mr. Osborne in court and in his affidavit when he—Mr. Van Ingen—was talking to Secretary Bennett of the Ice Trust in the anteroom covered simply a casual meeting for the exchange of ordinary greetings.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—James W. Osborne and George Gordon Battle, the two New York lawyers retained by Attorney General Jackson as special deputies to prosecute the Ice Trust case before the Grand Jury, conferred with Gov. Hughes to-day. Neither the Governor nor the lawyers would talk about the case. There was a rumor about the Capitol that the lawyers had asked the Governor to relieve them from further connection with the investigation.

PLOT, SAYS POLICEMAN.

Mara Tells Hanson Some One at Headquarters Is Trying to "Get Him."

Policeman John J. Mara, who was formerly a member of the District Attorney's staff, and, with Sergt. Wasserman, was ordered to sit outside of Commissioner Bingham's door at Headquarters while charges on which he was afterward acquitted were drawn up against him, was tried yesterday on two charges. Deputy Commissioner Hanson reserved decision in each instance, but ordered the suspension of Mara pending his announcement.

The first charge was that Mara had been in a saloon on the night of Feb. 15 and made an improper remark when sent for by another policeman, who knew where he was, to assist in an accident case. Two boys testified to finding Mara. He asserted that the charge was "a frame-up by some one at Headquarters."

"Mara, do you accuse me of trying to frame you up?" demanded Hanson.

The policeman said he did not know who it was. He declined to take the stand in his own defense, saying:

"No, it wouldn't do me any good, anyhow. My evidence would not go."

He said he was shadowed by men who were trying to "get him" every time he went on post. The policeman also entered a general denial to the charge that he had testified falsely against two men whom he arrested on Feb. 16.

SUES BROKERS FOR $112,712.

Keller Charges That Halsey & Co. Wrongly Sold His Steel Stock.

An action of interest to Wall Street was begun yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Amend and a jury in the suit of William B. Keller against Charles D. Halsey, J. Nelson Borland, and John E. Daily, partners in the firm of C. D. Halsey & Co., bankers and brokers, of 15 Broad Street, to recover $112,712, which Keller alleges is the loss sustained by him through the closing out by Halsey & Co. of certain stocks bought on margin by Keller.

In the complaint Keller sets forth that on Oct. 3 and 4, 1904, he instructed the defendants as his brokers to buy for him in the open market 3,000 United States Steel Corporation preferred shares. He says he paid Halsey & Co. $2,250 on account, and that it was agreed between them that they were to advance such further sums of money as might be required. In 1904, Keller charges, the defendants wrongfully sold the stock, thereby causing him loss.

The defendants, through Everett P. Wheeler, their counsel, deny Mr. Keller's allegations, and say that on Oct. 4, 1904, the defendants bought on the Stock Exchange 500 shares of preferred Steel, and 25 more shares the next day. The purchases, they declare, were made at the request of Mr. Keller on margin, and were charged to his account.

D. & H. CAN PAY DIVIDEND.

Justice O'Gorman Denies Application of Bondholders for Injunction.

Justice O'Gorman, in the Supreme Court, yesterday denied the application of certain of the debenture bondholders of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, represented by ex-Judge Rufus B. Cowing, for an injunction restraining the corporation from paying the dividend it dcelared last December.

Mr. Cowing charged that the assets of the company had been impaired by graft in the management of the road, resulting in the waste of $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 of its property, and that the dividend was to be paid at the expense of those who held the underlying securities.

In dismissing the application for a permanent injunction Justice O'Gorman said: "It is not pretended that the defendant is insolvent, and in my judgment the payment of the proposed dividend cannot impair the value of the plaintiff's securities."

COIN VERDICT REVERSED.

A New Jury Awards $1,250 to Father Whose Child Was Killed.

On the retrial yesterday of the action which was recently decided by the toss of a coin, a jury before Supreme Court Justice Guy reversed the sporting verdict and found against the New York City Railway Company and in favor of Thomas Dixon, awarding him $1,250 for the death of his daughter, Lillie, four and a half years old. The child was run over and killed by a car while crossing the street in front of 586 Columbus Avenue on June 25, 1905.

Won't Enjoin The Delineator.

The Delineator Magazine for April will not be delayed in publication, as was threatened. Supreme Court Justice O'Gorman refused yesterday to restrain its issuance, as prayed for by Miss Dorothy Richardson, a writer, who asserted that an article she sold to the magazine had been mutilated. The court says: "As the magazine has been printed and is ready for distribution, it would be inequitable to grant injunctive relief, even assuming, which is doubtful, that the plaintiff has a substantial grievance." He mulcts Miss Richardson $10 costs.

JOHN G. JENKINS DIES ON EVE OF HIS TRIAL

Ex-President of First National Bank of Brooklyn a Victim of Apoplexy.

INDICTED WITH HIS SONS

Fatal Illness, Family Says, Brought On by Business Troubles in His Old Age.

John G. Jenkins, the indicted Ex-President of the First National Bank of Brooklyn, about to face trial with three of his sons for the alleged misuse of funds of the so-called Jenkins banking institutions, died yesterday morning at his Summer home in Sea Cliff, L. I. Broken down under the troubles which had come upon him in his old age, the banker succumbed to an attack of apoplexy. He was 70 years of age.

In a few days District Attorney Clark of Kings County will move for a dismissal of the indictments against Mr. Jenkins. In accordance with the law he will send a representative to Sea Cliff, probably to-day, to identify the body of the dead banker. This formality is necessary that the required affidavit may be submitted to the County Court.

The District Attorney will move for the trials of Mr. Jenkins's sons, John G. Jenkins, Jr., Frank Jenkins, and Fred Jenkins, as soon as the Supreme Court decides what county the cases shall be tried in. Justice Scudder, sitting in Mineola, recently granted a motion by counsel for the Jenkinses for a change of venue, but the place of trial has not been designated.

Stricken After Trip to City.

Mr. Jenkins had suffered from diabetes and had been under medical treatment for that malady. For the past few days he had been much better and on Wednesday felt so well that he came to New York to attend to some business matters. He returned yesterday afternoon and at dinner in the evening appeared to be in fairly good health. Before retiring at 11 o'clock, however, he complained of not feeling so well, but it was not suspected that his condition was serious.

At 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Jenkins had an apoplectic seizure and Dr. Grant Stanley was hastily summoned. For a time the patient appeared to respond to the treatment, but at 4 o'clock he had a second stroke, and from time to time he sank steadily, until 7:40 o'clock, when he died. At his bedside when he passed away were his wife, his daughter, Mrs. Bassford, and his sons, John G., Jr., and Wilson. The other sons and daughters and his son-in-law arrived later.

Mr. Jenkins bought a site at Sea Cliff, overlooking the Sound, six years ago and built two houses, one for himself and the other for his son, John G. Jenkins, Jr. Mr. Jenkins is survived by a widow, five sons, and four daughters. The sons are John G., Jr., Frank, Frederick, Wilson, and Clarence Jenkins. The daughters are Mrs. James Hart, Mrs. F. B. Small, Mrs. Beverly Bassford, and Mrs. Joyce.

Indicted for Conspiracy.

The elder John G. Jenkins was indicted with his sons John G., Jr., Frank, and Frederick, for alleged conspiracy, it being charged that they as officers and Directors of the Williamsburg Trust Company and the Jenkins Trust Company fraudulently conspired to obtain loans of money from those companies by unlawful means, and that they secured loans in excess of the amount which the law allows a trust company to lend its officers and Directors.

The indictments startled the financial world of Brooklyn. John G. Jenkins, Jr., was President of the Jenkins Trust Company. Frank Jenkins was President of the Williamsburg Trust Company, and Fred Jenkins a Director in the institutions. John G. Jenkins, Sr., was indicted for conspiracy and perjury jointly with his sons. The sons were also charged with forgery in the third degree, and two of them, John G. Jenkins, Jr., and Frank Jenkins, with perjury, in separate indictments.

It was alleged that the defendants unlawfully obtained loans from the Williamsburg Company amounting to $421,000 and loans from the Jenkins Company amounting to $526,000, most of the loans, it was charged, being obtained through dummies.

John G. Jenkins was born in Brooklyn and when a young man went to work as a clerk in the First National Bank. Ten years later he became acting cashier, and soon was made cashier. In 1883 he became President of the bank, which office he held up to the time of the suspension of the institution, in October last.

An Officer in Many Corporations.

He was an officer of the New York and Brooklyn Ferry Company and a large stockholder in the Broadway, Grand Street, and Crosstown car lines in Brooklyn. When the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was organized, he was made a Director. In 1899 he organized the Williamsburg Trust Company and became its President, in which office he was later succeeded by his son, Frank Jenkins. Three years ago his sons started the Jenkins Trust Company, with John G. Jenkins, Jr., as President. Both companies established many branches in Brooklyn.

Mr. Jenkins was at the time of his death a member of the Sumner Avenue Baptist Church, in Brooklyn, and in the Summer time attended the Sea Cliff Methodist Episcopal Church. He had been a liberal contributor to both churches.

Illness Aggravated by Troubles.

The sons of the dead banker were not inclined to discuss the details of their father's sudden death. They said that he had worried greatly over the banking troubles in which he and three of his sons were involved, and intimated that this may have brought on his fatal illness.

There will be funeral services at Mr. Jenkins's Sea Cliff home on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, at which the Revs. Dr. Streeter and Watson, Methodist ministers, will officiate. On Sunday at 2 there will be services at the Sumner Avenue Baptist Church, in Brooklyn, at which the Rev. Robert M. Green will officiate. The reason for this is that while Mr. Jenkins was a Baptist he attended the Methodist Church at Sea Cliff because there was no Baptist Church there. The interment will be at Cypress Hills.

Jenkins Property Put in Trust.

MINEOLA, L. I., March 12.—A deed filed in the Nassau County Clerk's office this afternoon provides for the transfer of all property owned by John G. Jenkins and his wife, Mary E. Jenkins, in Kings, Queens, or Nassau Counties to Edward T. and Frederick J. Jenkins, sons, and Fenwick T. Small, a son-in-law, all of Sea Cliff, as Trustees. The deed is dated Nov. 1, 1907.

According to its contents, the one surviving the other, Mr. Jenkins or his wife, is to have the benefit of the property until death, when it reverts to the children. The paper is on the lines of a trust, giving the different uses to which the property may be put, and authorizing the Trustees to dispose of it advantageously at any time.

Publisher in Ludlow Street Jail.

On an order signed by Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald, William J. B. Atwater, former manager of the A. C. Gunter Publishing Company, was arrested yesterday in an action brought against him by a paper manufacturing concern of 41 Park Place to recover $6,318 for paper supplied a company with which Atwater was connected. In default of $7,000 bail Atwater was locked up in the Ludlow Street Jail.

MOTHER NOT A KIDNAPPER.

Jury Finds That Mrs. Clarke Had a Right to Take Her Boy.

Mrs. Maude G. Clarke, who has been on trial this week before Judge Malone, in the Court of General Sessions, on the charge of kidnapping her four-year-old son, Carlton, from Dr. and Mrs. Gaza Kramer of 857 Lexington Avenue, by whom he had been legally adopted about a year ago, was led to the prisoners' bar yesterday afternoon, and, on the verge of collapse, heard the Foreman deliver a verdict of acquittal. But for the support of a court officer she could not have stood up to hear the verdict.

According to the story she told on the stand on Wednesday, Mrs. Clarke had agreed to the boy's adoption by the Kramers with the tacit understanding that at the end of the year on payment of $500 the child should be returned to her. She took this step, she said, so that her husband, Forrest Clarke, who was seeking a divorce, could retain no claim to the boy. She said the father had only seen the boy two or three times in his life.

She picked up the child on the street last Oct. 14, and was subsequently arrested in Boston. She said she had paid the $500 to the Kramers previously through a Mrs. Bell, a mutual friend. Mrs. Bell denied this on the stand. Dr. and Mrs. Kramer denied also that there had been any understanding as to the return of the boy.

The boy is in charge of the Kramers, to whom he was returned when his mother was arrested in Boston. It is expected that Mrs. Clarke will attempt to arrange with them for his surrender to her.

BAKER WITNESS WANTED.

Bergen County Coroner Would Like to Get Beverly Brittingham's Testimony.

A woman detective is promised as the star witness at this afternoon's session of the inquest into the death of Walter F. Baker when Coroner De Mund resumes the investigation in the Hackensack courtroom. This young woman, said to be a former newspaper reporter in Boston, was employed by Edward Baker, the dead man's brother, to get evidence in the vicinity of the home of Frank H. Hurd, at Bogota, where Baker died. She was at the hearing on Wednesday afteronn, but was not called.

Beverly Brittingham, who was with the Hurds in Mrs. George W. Baker's apartments when Harry Lee told them of Baker's illness, is wanted as a witness. He accompanied the Hurds to Boston to attend Baker's funeral, but left immediately afterward. Mrs. Mulligan, a widow; Harry Tanner Sniffen, the chauffeur who drove the Hurds, Mrs. Young, and Baker to Bogota from New York, and Edward Baker are scheduled to testify at the inquest this afternoon.

The hearing will be adjourned this evening until March 20, when Mr. and Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Young will testify.

GAVE THE BURGLAR SUPPER.

Dr. Mayolin and His Nephew Entertained Him Till the Police Arrived.

Dr. Henry Mayolin of 251 West Thirty-ninth Street and his nephew, Joseph N. Conte, who lives with him, awakened yesterday morning in time to see a negro climbing up the fire escape to their apartment on the second floor. They met him at the window with revolvers in their hands and the negro fell off the fire escape in his fright.

Mr. Conte chased him and brought him back into the house, and then because the man said he was hungry sat him down at the dining room table, keeping him covered with the revolver while other members of the family prepared him a meal.

The negro was just finishing a piece of pie when Dr. Mayolin returned with a policeman. Magistrate Moss held the negro, who said he was Theodore Sykes of 221 West Fortieth Street, in $1,000 bail for trial yesterday in the West Side Court. The negro went to a cell asserting:

"Massa Conte am a very fine man even if he done hab me arrested."

Dr. Mayolin and his nephew are Southerners, who live here in the Winter.

A Fortune in Smoke

You know "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," who has been figuring in the bully series of stories in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. J. Rufus Wallingford is the greatest character of the under-world since Raffles, and he operates in a higher plane. But in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST J. Rufus gets his. He joins the most extensive club in the world, "The Down and Out Club."

The game looked good to start with. Meers, himself, told him, "You're an honor to the family. I didn't suppose there were many more games left, but you've sprung a new one, and it's a peach."

But life turns yellow to J. Rufus, and even his wife has to admit that "upon thistles grow no roses." The story is called a "Fortune in Smoke." It makes a hit with us, and it will with you.

Another story in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST is "The White Light of Publicity," by Charles Belmont Davis, in which the hero asserts that "Women do not commit suicide," and toward the end, although he does not assert it, he seems on the point of committing matrimony.

850,000 people find it worth while to buy THE SATURDAY EVENING POST each week. Read this week's issue, and you will see why.

Good Clothes for Men

Should we invite judgment of our apparel solely upon external appearance, still, would there be a liberal margin upon which to base self-congratulation.

But to delve deeper, to begin at the beginning—the constructive features—is a surer way to your enduring confidence.

After all, it is upon inner construction that outward appearance rests. Retention of style depends upon integrity of tailoring.

We go to extreme lengths to assure ourselves that the unseen parts of our garments—the stays, the inner linings stiffenings and seams—shall require no future apologies; and with this principle firmly established, our tailormen know of no deviation from Saks standards.

DUNLOP'S WILL FILED; HEIRS' FIGHT GOES ON

They Will Seek to Prove Rich Physician Insane When Document Was Drawn.

WIDOW CHIEF BENEFICIARY

But If She Remarries a $150,000 Trust Fund Reverts to Charity—Small Sums to Nephews and Nieces.

The second move in the legal battle which is to be waged for the possession of the $650,000 estate left by Dr. Clark W. Dunlop, who was adjudged insane a short time before his death, was made yesterday, when Lawyer C. S. Miller filed for probate in the Surrogates' office Dr. Dunlop's will. Last night Gilbert Ray Hawes, as attorney for relatives of Dr. Dunlop, vehemently denounced the will, and made charges of fraud against some of those interested.

On Tuesday Mr. Hawes applied for letters of administration on behalf of Samuel H. Dunlop, a nephew of the testator, on the ground that Mrs. Dunlop, the widow, who had a prior right to letters of administration, was over 75 years old, and was too feeble, mentally and physically, to administer her husband's estate.

The will filed yesterday gives the value of the estate as at least $30,000 in real estate, and at least $100,000 personal property. It bears the date of May 29, 1903, and says that the testator "is of sound and disposing mind and memory." After ordering that his debts be paid, Dr. Dunlop left his gold watches and chains, diamonds, and other precious stones or articles of jewelry to his wife, Eliza C. Dunlop. To Charles M. Dunlop of Kansas City, Mo., a nephew, he bequeathed the oil paintings of his father and mother.

After stating that he had purchased a lot in Woodlawn Cemetery, the testator directs that $8,000 be placed in trust to keep it in proper repair, and orders that only the bodies of himself, his wife, and his nephew, Samuel H. Dunlop, be interred in it. He then describes minutely the kind of memorial stone he wants erected for his nephew, so that it will harmonize "with the surrounding lot and mausoleum erected thereon."

His house and lot at 112 West Eighty-sixth Street, together with all its contents, are left to his wife, and also the Warrington Opera House, at Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago; the Kenilworth flats, West Thirteenth Street, Kansas City, Mo., and his property at Washington Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street, Kansas City.

Wife Said She Would Not Remarry.

"And whereas," the will goes on, "my said wife, Eliza C. Dunlop, has heretofore, of her own free will and without any suggestion or solicitation on my part, expressly declared to me that should she survive me she would never marry again, I am especially desirous of making such ample pecuniary provision for her welfare that she shall always be enabled to live in comfort."

He then directs that $150,000 shall be placed in trust, the income to be hers for life, so long as she shall remain unmarried. Upon her death, or remarriage, he orders that $100,000 be paid to the Board of Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the remaining $50,000 equally to the Young Women's Christian Association of the City of New York and the Young Men's Christian Association of this city, the Bible and Fruit Mission of the Public Hospitals of New York, the Children's Aid Society, the American Female Guardian Society, and the Home for the Friendless of the City of New York.

To his various nephews and nieces, as well as to a number of friends and employes, Dr. Dunlop leaves sums ranging from $5,000 to $1,000. The residue of his estate he levaes in triust in equal shares between his nephews and nieces. Should any of the heirs contest the will the share of such contestant is to be forfeited. The executors of the will are Mrs. Eliza C. Dunlop, the widow; Frank H. June of Oak Park, and the Union Trust Company.

Gilbert Ray Hawes, whose wife is a niece of Dr. Dunlop and who conducted the proceedings to have Dr. Dunlop adjudged incompetent, expressed surprise when a copy of the will was shown to him last night at his home, 596 West End Avenue, by a TIMES reporter. After reading it through he said that the value of the estate was close to $1,000,000 of which $600,000 was real estate.

"This will of May 29, 1903," said Mr. Hawes, "was drawn four days before Dr. Dunlop sailed for Europe. He was then, in my opinion, insane.

Sees a Difference in Copies of Will.

"I have a copy of the will drawn on May 29, 1903. My copy differs in many respects from that filed to-day. Then, again, there is a codicil in my copy. This codicil has not been filed, but curiously enough there seems to be incorporated in the will filed the purport of the codicil.

"I happened to be in the Surrogates' office about 3 o'clock this afternoon and saw Mr. Miller having an exciting argument with Clerk Jackson. When he saw me he appeared agitated. I asked him if he was filing a will. He said he was not. I then asked him if he was going to file a will, telling him that I had a copy of it, and also of the codicil. He appeared surprised.

"Clerk Jackson told me that Mr. Miller had tried to file a copy of the will, but had been told that he must produce the original or an affidavit covering the situation. Miller then pulled the codicil out of his pocket, and wanted to file that, but it was refused on the ground that a codicil could not be filed until the will had been filed. What happened after that I can't say.

"The original of the will was placed in a safe deposit box at the Produce Exchange Bank, Ninety-second Street and Columbus Avenue, in Mrs. Dunlop's name, and I know she at first would not give it up."

JOIN ISLAND BRIDGE SPANS.

Workmen Rivet Together the $20,000,000 Structure.

The first link connecting the three sections of the Blackwell's Island Bridge was laid at 8:40 o'clock yesterday morning. At that time workmen succeeded in placing a beam between the Manhattan section and the section extending from Blackwell's Island.

This connecting link, while it may give satisfaction to those who reflect that the twenty-million-dollar structure will soon be completed, robs it of one of its most awe-inspiring features. It now looks perfectly safe.

People who travel across the East River on ferries have spent many idle minutes looking at the sections of the bridge growing out to meet one another and wondering what on earth kept them from breaking off short and falling into the East River.

The three sections of the big bridge have been creeping toward one another since 1905. It required all the time between 1901 and 1905 to get the granite piers done, and then began the knitting together of the steel framework for the biggest cantilever bridge in this country.

It was easy to build the steel framework across the short section of Blackwell's Island from pier to pier. Then ferry riders and the inhabitants of tall buildings saw the criss-cross framework rise, with neither of its ends touching anything, extending out over the two channels of the East River.

Day after day the ends of the bridge extended great arms out into space. The gradually growing thing cast latticed shadows on the boats that ran under it and gave those on board a queer sensation as they looked up at the monster that seemed to be defying the law of gravity. Yesterday the Manhattan section was joined.

It is hoped that the bridge ironwork and approaches will be completed by the end of Summer. The structure will be 3,725 feet long. Its roadway runs 135 feet above the surface of the river.

The capacity of the new bridge will equal that of both the Brooklyn and Williamsburg Bridges. There will be a fifty-four-foot roadway, with four tracks, and an upper way with four tracks more, there being in addition a carriageway and a footway.

67 BRIDGE TRAINS AN HOUR.

Record for Rush Hour Elevated Traffic Brought Out at Hearing.

Another hearing was held by the Public Service Commission yesterday on the operation of the elevated trains over the Brooklyn Bridge. Chief Engineer W. S. Menden of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was a witness, and spoke favorably of the system now in vogue, of operating through elevated trains during the rush hours. He said that on Tuesday sixty-seven through trains were run over the bridge during a rush hour.

Mr. Menden said, also, that the service would be further improved soon by the completion of the elevated track for the trolleys over Sands Street, the block signals on the elevated lines, the widening of the platforms at Park Row, and the reconstruction of certain of the tracks and switches in the Brooklyn terminal.

The hearing will be continued to-day.

STAGE FOR GLACIA CALLA.

She Is Here to Consult About a Career—Complains of Tales About Her.

Mrs. Paul Roy, better known as Glacia Calla, whose brother was recently killed by her husband, Paul Roy, arrived here yesterday morning to consult with several theatrical managers about her appearance on the operatic stage.

She said last night she hoped that the French Government would allow her husband to be extradited, and added that if he was brought to trial in this country, the American people would learn that many things which have been said about herself and the Baroness von Orendorff were mere inventions.

FLEET IN FINE FORM AT MAGDALENA BAY

Evans Reports His Ships Are Ready for Any Service on One Day's Notice.

THEIR CONDITION IMPROVED

Better, the Admiral Says, Than When They Left Hampton Roads—Will Begin Target Practice at Once.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The following announcement of the arrival of Admiral Evans's fleet at Magdalena Bay was made public at the Navy Department today:

"Rear Admiral Evans reports the arrival of the fleet off Magdalena Bay, and states that the fleet was anchored inside on March 12, having made the trip from Callao in 11 days and 20 hours, two days ahead of schedule time.

"The Admiral reports that the fleet is in better condition than when it left Hampton Roads, and that it is ready for any service on one day's notice.

"Target practice will begin as soon as ranges can be established."

A feeling of genuine satisfaction prevails at the Navy Department to-day over the news of the arrival of the battleship fleet at Magdalena Bay, the last stopping place of any length before the vessels reach San Francisco.

The fleet has now covered the last long leg in the long voyage on which it originally started, the itinerary to San Francisco from Magdalena Bay contemplating a number of stops en route.

Taken primarily as a practice cruise, the voyage has come up to expectations and ample and repeated opportunities have been afforded for drills, evolutions, and other tactics, as well as opportunities for careful and exacting seamanship in waters of which many American naval men are comparatively new.

Above all, the fleet practically has finished the trip without an untoward incident of consequence and has arrived at Magdalena Bay over two days ahead of her schedule time. Naval officials say there is genuine cause for congratulation over the manner in which the fleet has completed its voyage.

Under very favorable weather conditions target practice at Magdalena Bay may be finished by the end of the present month. A certain amount of work is set out for each ship to do. If the wind comes up or other meteorological disturbances ensue, there necessarily will be a postponement of the firing at the targets, and a consequent delay in finishing the practice. The quicker the shooting at the targets is finished the more opportunity will be given the men for shore leave, and the effort will be made to give them all the leave that is possible after their long trip from Hampton Roads. There will be plenty of opportunity for the men to enjoy themselves, particularly in fishing, and it is said the waters of the bay are rich in rock cod, yellowtail, and Spanish mackerel.

Conditions under which firing is allowed at Magdalena Bay are that there shall be no armed parties allowed on shore; that no flags shall be hoisted on the beach, and that the firing shall not be directed toward the shore.

The following telegram was sent to the fleet this afternoon:

> Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, Magdalena Bay, Mexico:
>
> The Navy League of the United States greets the commander, officers, and men of the splendid fleet which has vindicated the judgment of the friends of the navy by its successful voyage, evincing readiness, efficiency, and discipline, and assuring National protection and continued peace, and extends to them its congratulations and pledges them its continued friendship and support.

SAYS SING SING IS A THIEF.

Col. Padden Finds Prison Guilty of Stealing the City's Water.

Sing Sing Prison, according to Col. Michael Padden, has been stealing from the city. And of all things under the sun, considering its inmates, the prison has been stealing—water! The discovery was made yesterday, and, according to the Water Register—that is one of Mr. Padden's other titles—about $75,000 worth of water has been purloined annually for many years.

The discovery was made by Mr. Padden's chief inspector, Mr. Hannan, who is said to be the only man who can actually smell water. The prison authorities complained about an increase in their water bill for last year. An investigation resulted, and in digging about in the prison yard Mr. Hannan's sense of smell told him there was unmetered water somewhere—unmetered water has a different smell from the metered variety. As a result of the inspector's suspicion an eight-inch unmetered pipe was found.

Back in 1861, when the prisoners in Sing Sing were comparatively few and the bathing facilities limited, the State made a contract with the city whereby the latter agreed to supply water to the institution. Two six-inch pipes were laid from the Croton conduit near by, and both were metered. The contract contemplated the delivery of 150,000 gallons a day within the prison walls.

In 1904 the water bill was $2,226; in 1905 it was $1,754; in 1906 it was $1,515, and last year it was $1,607, an increase over the year previous of nearly $100. Of this increase the prison officials complained, "little wotting," as Mr. Padden said last night, what would follow. Mr. Hannan was sent up to investigate and he found the eight-inch pipe, which is capable of delivering from $50,000 to $100,000 worth of water a year, tucked snugly away between the two thoroughly respectable six-inch pipes.

Under the law the city can recover for six years back, and Mr. Padden will at once apply a test to ascertain how much water the illegitimate pipe supplies. Then he will present a bill, and the chances are the State will have to make a new contract with the city, always providing that the prisoners really think it necessary to have water in the prison. Some of them might prefer a substitute.

DAWES NOT TO COME HERE.

Cousin Says He Has Declined Presidency of Knickerbocker Trust Co.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 12. — Charles G. Dawes, President of the Central Trust Company of Chicago, to whom has been offered the place of President of the Knickerbocker Trust Company of New York, is out of the city. His cousin, W. R. Dawes, cashier of the Central Trust Company, gave out this statement:

"It is true the offer of the place of President of the Knickerbocker Trust Company was made to Mr. Dawes, but I think it may be stated definitely that he has declined the offer. He intends to remain in Chicago."

PURE FOOD WAR AT COLUMBIA.

Students Uncover a Plot to Serve Them Cheap Breakfast Food.

Columbia students celebrated their victory yesterday over the management of the university commons. It has been proved that what was advertised on the menu as a certain standard breakfast food was, in reality, not that product at all, but one that may be bought for half the price.

The discovery was part of the campaign for pure food and plenty of it. Three students who do not like the food served in the commons sent a sample of the cereal to the concern said to have made it. That concern repudiated it. Then the students started a food inquiry and discovered that a waiter was filling the box with the product of another company.

TO TEST STAMP MACHINES.

Three Slot Devices Will Be Installed in the Post Office.

Three automatic postage stamp vending machines will be installed on Monday in the corridors of the lower floor of the Post Office Building for a thirty-day test. The stamps sold by the machine will be of 1, 2, and 5 cent denominations. The machines were exhibited yesterday in the office of the Postmaster. Two diferent makes of machines will be tested.

The stamps are fed from rolls which may contain as many as 2,500 stamps each. The purchaser puts his money in the slot and a stamp is separated from the reel and is pushed through a slot. It does not fall out, but stays half way out of the slot to be pulled the rest of the way by the purchaser.

In the event of the tests here being satisfactory, the machines will be adopted by the Department, it is said, and they will be installed in Post Offices and substations. The company will also put them in stores, ferry houses, hotels, and other places. It is said that the Subway and elevated companies may test the machines as ticket sellers.

LORD ROSEBERY SEES SOCIALISM'S MENACE

Calls It Source of Corruption, and Says It Imperils Empire, Religion, and Property.

WORSE THAN PROTECTION

Says Liberals Are Fighting House of Lords, Which Is Necessary to Save Country from Socialism.

LONDON, March 12.—A discussion of "the active menace of Socialism," with which Great Britain is confronted, was a prominent and striking feature of Lord Rosebery's presidential address before the Liberal League this afternoon.

His lordship was discussing the necessity of the league's unceasing support of "sane imperialism," in which he included the maintenance of the policy of free trade. Protection, he declared, was a great evil, a great tyranny, and a great source of corruption. But he foresaw, however, a time when the present movement in Parliament, founded on ideas of social reform, might lead to such enormous pressure in the way of direct taxation as to make the nation seek relief from its intolerable burden by shifting a part of this burden to the taxation of imports.

The time might come when the Liberals would be forced to choose between allowing the Socialists to gain the upper hand and allying themselves with the party of protection in order to defeat Socialism. Of these two conditions he, for one, without hesitation would prefer protection. This would be a great evil and a source of corruption, but Socialism would mean the end of the empire, religious faith and fredom, and property.

In the elections of 1907, Lord Rosebery went on, the country had seen the Liberals and Conservatives flying at each other's throats for the husks and letting the Socialists slip away with the kernel, namely, seats in Parliament, and they had witnessed the tragedy of the Liberals fighting under the banner of "no second chamber" at the very moment when a second chamber was most necessary in order to combat Socialism.

"I honestly say," impressively remarked Lord Rosebery, "that considering the menace of Socialism which has reared its head in this country during the last year, and which is prepared to rear itself on every occasion again, that it strikes me as amazing that the Government at the present time should embark on the policy of abolishing the only barrier remaining between it and the people."

BOMBS IN BARCELONA.

Several of Them Found in the City After King Alfonso's Departure.

BARCELONA, March 12.—Following the departure of King Alfonso from this city, a second bomb was found on the Quay near the place where the bomb exploded in a water pipe early Wednesday morning.

This bomb also exploded as it was being placed in a laboratory van. The van was badly damaged, but no one was injured.

Two more bombs were found this evening in the centre of the city. They were unexploded, and apparently no attempts had been made to explode them.

AMERICANS UNDER ARREST.

Three "Guide Interpreters" in Paris Accused of Swindling.

PARIS, March 12.—The Paris police have arrested three Americans, who gave their names as Schwob and De Montgomerie of Pittsburg and Howard of Colorado, and described themselves as "guide interpreters."

The men are charged with obtaining large sums of money from American visitors under false pretenses. The prisoners declare the charges baseless.

Rigid Auto Regulations in Paris.

PARIS, March 12.—The increasing number of automobile accidents in Paris has resulted in the promulgation of more rigid regulations to govern this traffic. The prefectural authorities are now empowered to withdraw the license of an automobile driver for from eight to sixty days for infractions of the regulations and from two to twelve months for accidents which involve injury to persons.

Mulai Hafid Sues for Peace.

CASABLANCA, March 12. — Gen. d'Amade, the commander of the French forces in Morocco, has received letters from Mulai Hafid and the leaders of his army asking that hostilities be suspended pending an arrangement for peace.

GERMAN NEWSPAPER LECTURES THE KAISER

National Zeitung Criticises Him for Writing That Letter to Lord Tweedmouth.

SHOULD HAVE TAKEN ADVICE

Two of William's Letters to Foreigners Cited to Show What a Troublous Thing Is His Unguided Pen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, March 12.—The first criticism which any responsible German authority has had the courage to publish on the Kaiser's letter to Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the British Admiralty, on the subject of naval policy and construction, is contained in a remarkable article in to-night's National Zeitung, which says:

"After all is said and done, a warning requires to be given more urgently than ever that the German Emperor ought to remember, more than he has in the past, that he not only is a Kaiser by 'divine right,' but also is an Emperor of a constitutional State, and, as such, has responsible advisers whom he should not unnecessarily ignore.

"The title Kaiser includes not only privileges, but, in a much higher sense, obligations, the noblest of which is that the Kaiser shall regard himself the first servant of his State.

"This realization should always remind him that with the very best of intentions, even he is not always able clearly to foresee all the consequences of his actions, and that he should therefore in all important cases consult his advisers more than he hitherto has done."

The National Zeitung recalls that two of the Kaiser's most famous communications to foreign statesmen—the celebrated telegram to Kruger touching the Transvaal situation and his dispatch to Austria's Premier after the Algeciras Conference—can hardly be said to have contributed to the peace of the world.

They're After You

You don't believe the Labor-Socialist "class" are really trying to take away the savings and property of the thrifty, Home-Owning "class," do you?

Probably there will be a loud chorus of wails and entreaty when the new laws go into effect and the "Home Owners" wake up to find themselves bound hand and foot and "trimmed" of their savings and property by the deft hand of the Labor-Socialist "class" and according to laws passed while the Home-Owners slept, and which the courts must execute.

"Impossible," you say, but the game is on and the Labor-Socialists are right now actively at work before Congress and the various State Legislatures, and will establish these laws quickly unless stopped.

Their plan is based on one principle.

If any man has worked and been economical and self-denying and has bought a home, take it away and divide up the proceeds among those who are unthrifty, drinking, profligate, or simply "failures."

Take money away from the man who has it.

Give it to the man who hasn't.

But this must be done cunningly and by passing some shrewdly drawn laws which hide the real meaning.

The Labor-Socialists are working hard to frighten and force public men to pass at least a dozen bills, each of which has, away down at the bottom, a plan to take away a part or all of the thrifty man's savings and give them to the unthrifty.

They will surely succeed unless the "home owners" wake up and protest in numbers enough to win.

"Don't believe a word of it," the average reader says.

Naturally, because the average reader seldom examines bills offered to Congress and the Legislatures, and if he casually reads of these bills they look harmless enough.

Some will only wake up when, under the new laws, (if the Labor-Socialists succeed in having the bills passed) they find their property and savings ooze away and the courts powerless to prevent.

This is a contest between the unthrifty "class" trying to wrest money, property, and power from the Home-Owning "class."

Now let the reader sort out the different characters in society, and as they are defined, locate each man in one or the other of these "classes." One class earns and saves and the other seeks to take what it doesn't earn.

The discontented, surly, and botch workman tramping from one job to another.

The Labor Agitator.

The man who poured acid in the mouth of an independent workingman in Chicago after he had been beaten unconscious.

The steady, well-trained mechanic who owns a home.

The tramp.

The professional criminal whose picture the police keep in the rogues' gallery. When you see him reading a newspaper in a saloon, you can not only name the newspaper that nourishes his criminal instincts, but can accurately locate him in his class and probably make a close guess at what ticket he votes.

The Successful Merchant.

The Well-Trained Physician.

The Wild-eyed-dirty-finger-nail chap over his second pot of beer.

The Labor-Socialist.

The Farmer.

The Minister of the Gospel.

The Anarchist.

You see you can pick them out and put each one in his class. There are only two "classes." One thinks thoughts of hate, jealousy, and revenge, seeking money it does not earn, property which has been earned by the sweat of other brows, and in disappointment and anger, these social "failures" naturally tend towards disorder, law-breaking, and a general upheaval in which they hope to take away the savings of the other class.

The members of the "Other Class" think thoughts of work, sturdy, well-directed, intelligent work; work which brings good pay, because it is good service to mankind. The sober, responsible Locomotive Engineer, The Skilled Mechanic, The Farmer, Merchant, Doctor, Lawyer, Banker, School Teacher, and Minister.

The capable, successful, and well esteemed among these belong to one class. The failures belong to the other.

The "Home-Owning" class seek peace, steady operation of industries. Protection for every man who wants to work, and a guarantee of his right to enjoy the fruit of his labor; just laws which hold each and every man accountable to the law and to do his share towards the support of public works and charities.

The Labor-Socialists are opposed and their measures are right now being pressed with great strength to make them into laws.

The intent underlying each one of them is to directly, or in a round-about way, take money and property from the "Home Owners."

Now let's have a look, and in considering each bill or act, keep in mind the underlying plan.

"Extract from the thrifty and home-owning people at least a part of their savings, to be divided among the unthrifty Labor-Socialists."

You may have to search step by step through the apparently harmless part of these proposed laws, but carefully follow the steps and it will be seen that the final end and aim is to take money away from the House-Owning, thrifty "class" and give it to the unthrifty "class."

Let's first consider the "Employers' Liability" movement. They have adroitly sought to have it apply first to Railways, for it is now popular to attack them. Any employee hurt, even by his own negligence, is to be paid a sum to be extracted from the stockholders. There are over 77,000 stockholders in one American Ry. Many are widows, and in some cases their hard-earned money and savings invested thus, is the main source of their bread and butter. But a part at least is to be taken from them to be given to the unfortunate "Unthrifty."

That would be benevolence if it was not a legal robbery of some to make gifts to others.

Then it is the plan to extend this forced benevolence to the individual employer, just as the Labor-Socialists have succeeded in doing in England. It is an active working law there now in operation under which, if, for instance, a house servant has an accident, no matter whether about the house or elsewhere, and becomes disabled, the employer's property is held to pay one pound (about $5.00) a week for the balance of the life of the servant.

Thus in a few years with a bad run of "luck" the home-owner might have saddled on him a half dozen such pensioners and his property held to pay perhaps $25.00 to $50.00 a week.

Do you see how adroitly this extracts money from the thrifty?

We will all admit that the injured should have help; that is human benevolence. Every permanently injured poor man should have a public home to live in free all the balance of his days; he has, we will say, done his share of the work of the world and is entitled to its care. The law should provide that he had, during his well days, contributed his share, small or great, towards the support of such homes. That is the German law. In other words, every man, Labor-Socialists and Home-Owner, should contribute for this pension.

But the Labor-Socialist plans to take only the money of one class, the thrifty, and give it to the unthrifty.

That would be a fine levied on the man for being thrifty and offer a reward of immunity to the man who would "drink up" his extra money. It says, "don't own a home or you will become a member of a class which we propose to milk."

Later on we are to have "Old Age Pensions" for every man when he reaches say 60 years.

That law is under consideration in England now. The plan is a noble one, for it would remove that awful ghost of fear which haunts most people. Every man should pay a small tax towards this desirable benevolence. But notice, when the Labor-Socialist leaders in England were asked if the members of their class would contribute, the answer was, "Not one farthing."

They propose to secure the entire sum from the Home-Owner "Class."

Back again to their principle, you see.

It seems benevolent to vote large sums for public work for the "unemployed." That class is made up largely of Labor-Socialists and incapable, botch workmen. The worthy workmen are seldom "unemployed." Many of these "unemployed" are the noisy chaps who called strikes during the prosperous years. They wouldn't work themselves and kept thousands of good men from work.

They boycotted factories and destroyed business, compelling other workmen to lie idle.

They stopped the loading and unloading of ships and Ry. cars; stopped work on buildings, the mining of gold, silver, copper, and coal. Stopped the manufacture of millions of dollars worth of American articles which foreigners stood ready to pay money for.

It is believed by many that one of the chief causes of the panic and present hard times was the persistent and widespread interference with and stoppage of industry brought about by these same Labor-Socialists in driving away business and preventing the steady distribution of money among the working classes. Every million dollars' worth of Steam Pumps, Farm Implements, Boots and Shoes, Steel, Iron, Locomotives, Cars, Cotton Goods, etc., etc., sent abroad, brings back a million dollars to be distributed to the workmen, who dig ore and smelt it; moulders who cast the iron, machinists, wood-workers, cotton mill employees, etc., etc. But the Labor-Socialists have time and again stopped up the source of this flow of money and have entailed on this country millions upon millions of dollars in losses and, consequently, much misery upon work-people.

The Labor leaders have brought strikes to force all employers to kick out independent American workmen and employ only "Union" men, thus to give absolute power to the leaders, secure fees to pay their own salaries first, and, in order to keep their slaves interested, force higher and higher wages. Here we reach the foundation fact again.

Now, when the jobs the Labor-Socialists threw away are taken by others, or the business has been killed for the time, and they are "unemployed," do they pay their own expenses or do they besiege the authorities to tax the class of Home-Owners to pay extra money towards a public fund to be used to pay the "class" of unemployed Labor-Socialists?

Here the line between classes is clearly drawn and you get back again to the same old spot. "Take from one class and give to the other."

"Make the consumer pay extra money and give it to the Labor-Socialists."

"Charge the Home-owner extra wages for all labor which enters into the building of his home."

"He has been saving, now let's take away part of it."

High wage for skillful work is desirable for all, but when a Labor Union gains power enough to force home-owners to pay two, three, or four times what hodcarriers and other workmen are actually worth, it means just so much extra money extracted from the home-owner, more than the service is worth.

It comes back to the same old place, you see. Look at the purpose of all the anti-injunction bills introduced by the Labor-Socialists. Each and every one seeks to tie the hands of the people's courts, and for what purpose? No injunction issued in labor strikes ever harmed an honest citizen, intending to peacefully pursue his occupation.

Injunctions stop mobs, intent on insulting, assaulting, and perhaps murdering other citizens, from congregating. The Labor-Socialist raises a loud cry because he is commanded by a court to keep off the public street near a factory employing independent men.

The injunction always directs the man or men to stay off certain streets or refrain from doing other things, when it is reasonably well known they intend to go on those streets or do those acts, to insult, or assault citizens or destroy property. The peaceful citizen is never hurt by an injunction in a labor case, and the courts have a right to prevent injury to the interests of any community. But injunctions do prevent Labor-Socialists from terrorizing people into submission to the Labor trust.

Therefore, in order to secure submission and power to extract from the employer extra money, they contend the injunction must be done away with.

Every public man who supports any measure seeking to reduce the power of the courts in order to make it more difficult for them to protect property and the person of the common citizen is an enemy of Home-Owners and an ally of the Labor-Socialists.

Watch such public men—particularly those who want to revise the criminal code injunction laws. They want to make it easier for mobs to do damage and escape punishment. Their names will be printed broadcast later on so that the people may know.

Some public men are like some newspapers, they make the mistake of believing the Labor-Socialists are a majority because they make the most noise, but it has been shown time and again that when a public man prostitutes his ideas of right, and justice to the common citizen, and supports measures which seek to take money, property, and liberty away from the home-owners and the people find it out as they will, the cowardly official is generally defeated at the next election, for the Liberty-loving, peaceable Home-Owning class of Americans heavily outnumber the Labor-Socialists, and these Home-Owners are the principal readers and supporters of the newspapers.

The law-defiers are organized and able to present organized effort against, heretofore, an unorganized public. Now, however, the Home-Owners have effected an organization known as the Citizens Industrial Ass'n of America with a Central body in New York and local bodies in many towns and cities. Competent lawyers are employed to watch the vicious measures introduced in Congress and the Legislatures and defend the rights of the common Citizens from these insidious attacks and to prevent the enactment of laws which rob one class, the Home-Owners, and pass over to the Labor-Socialists, money and property which they do not earn, and power which would enable them to enslave the common people and force them to "obey." All of this work requires money for legitimate expenses. Every reader who feels a desire to help in this organized work of protection can forward to the National Citizens Industrial Ass'n., St. James Building, N. Y., such contributions as he decides upon, from $1.00 to $500.00. The work is now being carried on and with gratifying results. It can be widely extended and more certain protection insured by employing a larger force of active workers. The Labor-Socialists contribute liberally for the support of their organization and the common Home-Owners are but just now beginning to learn that they are in danger of most serious consequences unless a determined organized stand is made and the work of protection carried on intelligently, skillfully and with means enough to make it effective.

The officers and directors of this National Ass'n are sufficiently well known to insure careful and honest use of funds. A statement will be sent to each contributor from time to time, and the "Square Deal" magazine mailed each month.

This is a clearly-drawn contest between the Common citizens and Home-Owners seeking protection and the Labor Trust seeking to obtain control of affairs and take money and property from the Home-Owners.

The strongest organization will win and if the Home-Owners fail to stand together they will certainly lose at least a part of their properties and more or less personal liberty. There are communities now where organized labor has gained control and every man must "bow" and contribute and implicitly "obey," quit work when told, patronize those whom the labor leaders designate, and in various ways act the slave.

It has gone so far that juries fear to convict known murderers and whole communities are terrorized.

U. S. Judge Wm. H. Hunt of Butte, Montana, was brave enough to say:

"God gave man his hands, his back and the right to use them as he pleases. It is an inalienable right. No power can take it away from a man. No power can compel him to work. No power can compel him to stop working if he desires to work. When a man, or any set of men, take it upon themselves to say that they are the law, and to defy the process of the courts, to defy the police authority of the land, to usurp the authority of the established government, to upset the very base of society in which we all live, there is a power which will come to the rescue of the man who is wronged in that way; and that power is that which protects you and protects me, and must continue to afford us all protection, else government is destroyed."

For these principles our ancestors laid down their lives. But they stand in the way of the Labor-Socialists who now seek to enact laws to overset them.

The Common Citizen has before him the organized machinery for protection. Will he support it?

LODGE APOLOGIZES FOR ALDRICH BILL

Doesn't Think It Will Solve Many Problems, but Will Vote for It.

TILLMAN CITES MORSE CASE

Wants Loans Made by New York National Banks Investigated—Also Overcertification.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—In a remarkable speech in that it was at the same time an indorsement and an apology for the measure, Senator Lodge to-day announced his intention of voting for the Aldrich Currency bill. His vote will be cast, however, because he is confident some legislation is necessary at this session, and not because he believes in the ability of the proposed law to solve existing financial problems. In his opinion, it is the Aldrich bill or nothing.

Senator Lodge took occasion to defend the railroad bond feature of the measure. He said that railroad bonds were good investments, and for years had been used to secure Government deposits. They furnish the most available and the best means for providing a basis for the issuance of emergency currency, he believed.

After acclaiming Senator Aldrich as a great financial genius, who had sprung to the rescue of the country, Senator Lodge apologized for the measure evolved by the Finance Committee.

"It was impossible to frame a revolutionary measure," he said. "We could not go on a gold basis, neither were we willing to venture into the quagmire of asset currency."

Senator Lodge was especially emphatic in his statement that the very existence of a law providing for the production of currency in times of stress would result in a restoration of confidence and the stilling of panics. "The great merit in this bill," he declared, "is the knowledge that more currency can be had under its provisions. When a man realizes that more money can be had he stops hoarding."

The Senator was especially vigorous in his attack on the proposal to guarantee the deposits in National banks. He declared that this was more revolutionary and dangerous than the agitation started some time ago to have the Government take over the railroads of the country.

"Why," he said, "if the Government were to guarantee my deposits is there any reason why it should not guarantee my investments in railroads, or shops, or mills?"

Senator Lodge declared it is common knowledge that no other currency legislation can get through Congress if the Aldrich bill is defeated. He declared that no doubt the measure would come out of conference beaten into as good a shape as possible, considering that the bill is a makeshift, and not intended for permanent legislation. In the course of his speech he said he was in favor of a central bank, with Government Directors, under Government control.

The C. W. Morse case will be considered in connection with a searching examination into the subject of whether the National banks of New York have loaned money for speculation or other questionable enterprises. The use of the United States Treasury as a training school for private financiers will also be looked into. All this is provided for in a resolution introduced to-day by Senator Tillman.

In practically all of his speeches on the Currency bill Senator Tillman has laid the blame for the recent panic at the doors of the New York Stock Exchange. As aiders and abbettors of the panic he has blamed the banks. His resolution is in part as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance is hereby instructed to inquire and report:

First, whether the National banks in the City of New York and elsewhere are in the habit, under the guise of commercial loans, of furnishing permanent capital for speculative or other enterprises.

Second, whether the Treasury Department had knowledge of the loans made by the National Bank of North America of New York City, which are the subject of a suit by the receiver of the bank against Charles W. Morse, and of other similar transactions in other banks.

Third, whether National banks are now engaged by themselves or through other organizations in attempting to control or dictate the legislation of Congress upon currency matters.

Fourth, the committee is further instructed to ascertain what, if any, legislation is necessary to discourage or prevent the habit of persons holding the office of Controller of the Currency or other Treasury officials from making their offices a stepping stone to employment by National banks.

Fifth, whether National banks are using trust companies or other financial associations as agencies through which to transact business forbidden by the law governing National banks.

Sixth, whether the National banks of New York City lent their credit to the stock brokers by the certification or the acceptance of checks during the years 1906 and 1907, and report whether or not such transactions involved any violation of the provision of Section 5,200 of the Revised Statutes as to making excess loans.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota to-day gave notice of an amendment he will propose to the pending Currency bill, requiring National banks to pay 2 per cent. interest on weekly balances of Government deposits.

MOTHER LAUDS ROOSEVELT.

Wife of the President Attends the Mothers' Congress Session.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt to-day attended the session of the Congress on the Welfare of the Child held by the National Mothers' Congress. Mrs. Roosevelt, who is a life member of the Mothers' Society, was accompanied by Mrs. Cowles, sister of President Roosevelt. She received a most cordial welcome.

In introducing Mrs. Roosevelt to the audience Mrs. Schoff, the President, said: "It is due to President Roosevelt that the Mothers' Congress idea has spread to the uttermost parts of the civilized world."

EXCHANGE WELCOMES PROBE.

Brokers Say It Will Clear Away Some Misunderstanding.

The Stock Exchange authorities have had no official notice yet of the coming of the Washington investigators. No formal action of any sort has been taken by the Exchange so far to meet the situation, but an officer of the Exchange said yesterday that the board "was quite in accord with the purpose of Commissioner Smith's investigation" and would welcome him or his representatives.

William W. Heaton, Chairman of the Committee on Stock Lists, giving his personal views on the subject, said yesterday that Mr. Smith would receive all of the courtesies that the Exchange has in its power to give.

Members of the Exchange yesterday were inclined to look upon the investigation as a good thing on the whole for Wall Street, on the ground that it would help clear away the popular misapprehension about "Wall Street gambling," which is at the bottom of the present widespread agitation against stock trading.

W. J. Wollman of the Stock Exchange house of J. S. Bache & Co. said of the investigation: "It will be a good move for Wall Street, because it will help to enlighten the great mass of the people as to the true value of Exchanges."

Frederick S. Flower of Flower & Co. said: "An investigation of this sort ought to convince the public of the necessity for Exchanges in the commercial life of the country."

R. H. Allen of Allen, McGraw & Co. said he thought one good effect of the investigation would be the elimination of a considerable amount of somewhat questionable trading.

Otto T. Bannard, President of the New York Trust Company, was one of those who took the point of view that the investigation would work harm. He said:

"With all the investigating and interrogating that is going on, it is ill-considered to add further to the disquiet."

Associates Dine Appraiser Wanmaker.

George W. Wanmaker, Appraiser of the Port, was entertained at dinner at the Republican Club last evening by the Assistant Appraisers of Merchandise in honor of his recent appointment as Appraiser. The principal object of the gathering was to promote a closer social interest among the customs officials.

RACING BILL FIGHT NOW SEEMS WON

Assembly Committee Votes to Report Measure in Original Form.

TAMMANY MEN FOR BILL

Leaders in Both Houses Will Support Gov. Hughes—Raines to Vote for Passage.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 12.—Opposition among the legislators toward the Governor's anti-race track gambling bills seems to have collapsed overnight. The Codes Committee of the Assembly at a meeting held before the legislative session to-day voted to report favorably and without amendment the Agnew-Hart bill, which amends the Penal Code so as to eliminate the discrimination in favor of pool selling at race tracks.

This was the bill amended in the Senate Committee yesterday to have it take effect on Sept. 1 instead of immediately upon passage. Statements from leaders in both houses of the Legislature to-day justify the prediction that the race track bills will be passed in their original form, as approved by Gov. Hughes.

Democratic State Chairman William J. Conners, who spent part of the day at the Capitol, was questioned regarding his attitude on the moral question involved in the effort now being made to abolish gambling at the race tracks.

"When the bills come up for final passage, you will find that not all of the Democratic members will vote against them; that's my answer to your question," Mr. Conners replied.

The opponents of the proposed reforms who had counted on the undivided support of the Tammany delegation in both houses will be doomed to disappointment. Assemblyman Eagleton, a Tammany man representing the Fifth Assembly District in New York, said to THE TIMES reporter to-day:

"I don't see why any New York member, regardless of party, should not vote for the bills. I certainly shall vote for them."

The vote in the Assembly Codes Committee on the question of whether the bill amending the Penal Code should be amended so as to make the law take effect on Sept. 1 was decided by a vote of 10 against and 2 for amendment. The two members who voted to amend were Assemblymen Cuvillier and Keller, both of New York.

The bill cannot come up in the Assembly for advancement to third reading before Wednesday. It could be brought up there for final passage the following day, no amendment having been made.

In the Senate, where the bill was remitted to the Committee of the Whole yesterday, the bill could be brought up for the purpose of advancing it to third reading Tuesday.

As it is probable that the Governor's friends will make their fight to have the bill restored to its original form then, it cannot, if they succeed, be brought up for passage in the same week. The bill will have to be reprinted and, under the rules, lie on the desk for three legislative days after it had been printed before it could be passed.

With the remaining bill providing for the repeal of the Percy-Gray law still held in the Judiciary Committee in the Senate, which has scheduled a hearing on the measure for next Wednesday, and in the Codes Committee of the Assembly, it does not seem possible that the race track reforms will be enacted at least for two weeks to come.

Senator Raines, majority leader in the upper house, said to-day that he would vote for the bill in its unamended form. This practically assures victory for the bill in the Senate. Speaker Wadsworth, who, while opposed to the bills, is inclined to show due deference to public sentiment, because he has Gubernatorial aspirations, said the Assembly would certainly pass the bills in any form Gov. Hughes wanted them passed.

Majority Leader Merritt of the Assembly said that branch of the Legislature had always been determined to support the Governor in his recommendations for the abolition of race-track gambling.

UNION LEAGUE FOR RACE BILL.

The Club Indorses Senator Agnew's Anti-Track Gambling Measure.

Gov. Hughes has the support of the Union League Club in his views regarding race-track gambling. Last night, at the regular monthly meeting in the clubhouse, at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street, the Agnew bill was indorsed unanimously. About 140 votes were cast in favor of the bill.

The resolution said:

Resolved, That the Union League Club hereby indorses and approves Senator Agnew's Anti-Race Track Gambling bill, and urges upon the Legislature of the State the importance of the passage of this bill at the earliest possible date. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Senator Agnew and the Governor of the State.

A resolution of sympathy with the family of the late Dr. D. B. St. John Roosa was also adopted.

ORIENTAL CASE UP TO-DAY.

Jackson's Appeal from Order Dismissing Bank Receivers to be Argued.

Argument will be made before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court this afternoon on the appeal of Attorney General Jackson from the decision of Justice O'Gorman of the Supreme Court dismissing the receivers of the Oriental Bank.

Mr. Jackson has retained ex-Justice Martin L. Stover to represent him in this argument, and the Oriental's interests will be represented by its usual array of lawyers, including Samuel Untermyer, David McClure, and members of the firm of Philbin, Beekman & Menken.

AGAINST BUCKET SHOPS.

Senate Codes Committee Orders Bill to Third Reading.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 12.—While Senators Grady and McCarren were absent to-day the Codes Committee of the Senate reported favorably the Cassidy bill, which makes it a felony to do a "bucket shop" business in this State.

The bill prohibits the making of any contract to purchase or sell either upon credit or margin any stocks or bonds upon the basis of public market quotations without a bona fide purchase of the securities.

If a corporation is convicted of conducting a "bucket shop" it shall be subject to a penalty of a fine of not more than $5,000, and all other persons convicted of a similar offense shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than five years.

With unanimous consent the bill was ordered to third reading.

NATIONAL GUARD CHANGES.

Commission Recommends a Militia Council Like General Staff of Army.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—Sweeping changes of many phases of the National Guard of New York State are recommended in the report submitted to the Legislature to-day of the Wainwright Commission appointed to inquire into the condition of the National Guard and Naval Militia and recommend legislation for a revision of the military code. A bill prepared by this commission to make the National Guard conform with the regular army was recently enacted into law.

One of the most important recommendations is for the creation of the Militia Council similar to the General Staff of the regular army, two of whose members are to retire each year. This body is to consider and report on all questions, consider the organization, efficiency, and welfare of the guard, and report on such questions as may be referred to it by the Governor or Legislature.

NINE BIDDERS TO GET BONDS.

Offers for New York's $5,000,000 Issue Range from 106.456 to 109.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—Controller Glynn announced to-day that the $5,000,000 of 4 per cent. New York State highway improvement bonds, bids for which were opened yesterday, would probably be awarded to nine bidders whose bids range from 106.456 to 109, as follows:

Adams & Co., New York, $40,000 at 106.64, 107.6, and 107.14; First National Bank of Waverly, $10,000 at 107.05.

Mabon & Co., New York City, $20,000 at 107.13.

DEPOSITORS SEE GOVERNOR.

Ask Investigation of Receivership of the Brooklyn Bank.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 12.—A committee representing the depositors of the Brooklyn Bank, which is in the hands of receivers, called upon Gov. Hughes to-day in connection with the receiverships.

One of the committee stated that the Governor was asked if an investigation of the receiverships could be made. The committee also urged prompt action upon the bill which will put an end to bank receiverships by establishing the Federal system, which would give the State Superintendent of Banks control of all insolvent financial institutions without an appeal to the courts. Gov. Hughes said he would give the matter his consideration.

Charles M. Higgins, one of the receivers of the Brooklyn Bank, was in Albany to-day. An appeal from the decision of Justice Betts making Charles A. Dolson counsel of the receivers of that bank will be argued in the Appellate Division to-morrow. Mr. Higgins opposed the selection of Mr. Dolsen, who was formerly a Deputy Attorney General under Mr. Jackson, and the appellants hold that the consent of both receivers is required before counsel can be appointed.

CIRCUS CALLS IN THE FREAKS.

Come Back, Says the Show, It's a Mistake About Your Tiring the Public.

Let the slow music play: the Barnum & Bailey circus has sent word to all the freaks who were driven from the old home last week to come back—midgets, fat women, thin men, tattood men, and Circassian ladies, all—for the opening next Thursday night at Madison Square Garden.

The freaks were not driven from home because they had erred, but because the circus management announced that it had come to the conclusion that the modern public was tired of seeing freaks and therefore would substitute a bird show for the fat women and lean men.

That announcement made a whopping good story. Newspapers all over the country told about the dropping of the part of the show that started P. T. Barnum up the dollar ladder. Editorial writers discussed the departure, some of them gravely and most of them lightly.

Now and then a serious writer said that the cutting off of the freak show was a good thing; that there was no advantage in having a lot of unfortunate, distorted, deformed beings exhibited to a grinning public. But most of the writers—speaking for the children, they said—pleaded for the retention of the Wild Man from Borneo and all the rest.

Now comes the announcement—another good story—that, after all, the freaks will not be cut out of the circus. Why, the management has hired a brand-new midget—a pickaninny, 20 years old and 17 inches in height.

POISONED BY SKUNK CABBAGE

Three Children Die After Eating It—Two Others Saved.

James and Dominick Martina, 7 and 5 years old, sons of Salvatore Martina, and Joseph Bucolo, 6 years old, son of Frank Bucolo, all living in the same house in Norwood, N. J., died Wednesday night after eating the roots of skunk cabbage. Two other children were affected, but their lives were saved by an emetic.

The children returned from school about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and began to play in the front yard of their home. One of them found a bulb just breaking through the ground. The children dug up the roots and ate them. Two hours later they were all taken ill. Dr. Ward of Closter was summoned. He reached the house just after Dominick Martina died. The other two were unconscious and died within ten minutes of each other. He summoned Dr. Parsells, also of Closter, and together they worked over the other children until midnight. This morning they were out with their playmates romping around as though nothing had happened.

The stomach of one of the dead boys was taken to Columbia University by Dr. Ward for analysis. He was anxious to know the nature of the poison contained in the weed.

GIRL STATES CASE AGAINST HITCHCOCK

AND MET THEM OFTEN LATER

Story Told In So Low a Voice the Court Hardly Hears It—Hitchcock Visibly Affected.

The story of Helen von Hagen, the young daughter of the widow Mary von Hagen of 33 East Twenty-seventh Street, accusing Raymond Hitchcock, the comedian, of mistreatment, was told before Justice Blanchard and a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday. The girl is now 17 years old. She was 15 when in the Winter of 1906, as she wheeled a baby carriage in front of her mother's home near the stage entrance of the Garden Theatre, she met Hitchcock.

"The baby belonged to the tailor who rented the basement of the house we lived in," she said yesterday in a voice scarcely audible in court. The voice was that of a child. The girl was dressed in clothes of poor quality. She looked even younger than her years.

"Mr. Hitchcock came up in his automobile to the stage entrance," she resumed. "He saw me and stopped and asked if I wouldn't take a ride in his automobile. I said I would ask my mother. I did and I saw him later and told him that my mother wouldn't let me. The next day Elsie Voecks, a friend of mine, and I met Mr. Hitchcock and he asked us if we didn't want to ride out to his place at Great Neck, L. I. We said we did and he made us get our coats and we went with him. His valet, Herman, was in the front seat with the chauffeur. At the house there was a servant, Minnie. Mrs. Hitchcock was not there. Mr. Hitchcock played the piano and sang for us. We came home about 8 o'clock.

On this visit, the child testified, no indignity was offered either of the girls. This was on a Friday in December, 1906. The next time the girls met the actor was on the following Sunday, when they again went to Great Neck. They remained there all night, the girls sharing a guest chamber. Fearing to face their mothers afterward they decided to stay away from home. They slept in a bathhouse beyond the Hitchcock place, and on the following Thursday went to the stage door of the Montauk Theatre in Brooklyn to see the actor. He gave them tickets and joined them after the performance. They went with him on a car to Corona, L. I., and there took a train for Great Neck. That night, Helen testified, Hitchcock asked her into his room, but she refused to go.

When "The Galloper" was playing at the Grand Opera House in this city, Helen and a girl named Flora Wishton went to the stage door and got seats for the matinée on the following Saturday. Hitchcock gave her $2.

"He told us he was going out of town, and would come back in two weeks for a vacation, and that if we wanted him we should call him up at the Lambs," the girl said. "We did call him up, and he met Flora and me at Forty-first Street and Sixth Avenue at 8 o'clock that night. He took us to a house in Forty-first Street, and there told us stories."

The girl swore that on this night Hitchcock attacked her companion, and then herself.

"I met him a week afterward," she said, "and went with him again to the same house."

The witness was greatly disturbed when she came to this part of her story. Hitchcock was exceedingly uneasy. His gaunt countenance showed deeper lines, and his shoulders were hunched forward as he listened to every word. Every seat in the courtroom was taken by a curious crowd, composed mostly of young men with the air of the Tenderloin about them.

Carl Fischer Hansen of counsel for Hitchcock asked the court to instruct the witness that any threats which might have been made against her by the Gerry Society should be disregarded, and that she was under the guardianship and care of the court.

The girl's mother also testified yesterday. She was so deeply distressed that it was with difficulty that her evidence was obtained. She said that her daughter had stopped school at fourteen and had gone to work with her older sisters. Their house was directly opposite the stage entrance of the Garden Theatre, where the actors and actresses could be seen entering and departing.

A Mrs. De Witt, who was put on the stand by Mr. Garvan, seemed inclined to favor the defense. She was the keeper of the house at 124 and 126 West Forty-first Street, where Hitchcock engaged a room for a week. She said she knew the actor, but did not know the names of her other lodgers. She called them by the names of their professions, Mr. Actor, Mr. Manager, Mr. Student, &c., and did not keep a set of books.

Mary Brooks, the colored maid employed in the house, testified that she thought Mr. Hitchcock did not occupy the room more than once.

Madison Corey, one of Henry W. Savage's managers, testified that from Dec. 15 to Dec. 21, 1906, the company in which Mr. Hitchcock was playing did not give any performances. It was during this time that the alleged injury was suffered by Helen Von Hagen. Mr. Garvan asked Mr. Corey to bring to court this morning some specimens of the handwriting of the defendant.

Charles O'Brien, a clerk at the Lambs, produced the registry to show that Hitchcock had registered there and taken a room at the time the crime against the girl is alleged to have been committed.

By agreement of both sides witnesses were excluded from the courtroom, and Mrs. Hitchcock and a woman friend were sent out with them. During the testimony it was found that Agent Moore of the Gerry Society was in the room. The defense protested, and Mr. Garvin said that Mr. Moore had been subpoenaed but would not take the stand.

"He will take the stand," retorted John B. Stanchfield, for the defense, "and I'd like to say that he will be a very material witness."

SMOKED IN BED; DEAD NOW.

Cigarettes Said to Have Started Fire in Which Smoker Perished.

Smoking cigarettes in bed is alleged to have been the cause of a fire in the tenement house 688 Tenth Avenue last night, which resulted in the death of Michael Higgins, 17 years old, and the severe injury of Thomas Coleman, 22 years of age, both from Ireland. The damage to the building was $5,000.

The fire started in the rear of the third floor, in a bedroom occupied by Coleman and Higgins. They were asleep at the time. Coleman escaped with severe burns, but Higgins's body was found on the floor, with his head out in the hall.

There were twelve families in the house, all of whom escaped.

Battalion Chief Howe found cigarette butts on the bed, and said he thought Higgins had been smoking them in bed.

We Use 28,000 Barrels of Flour a Day.

The flour traders of the New York Produce Exchange held their sixth annual dinner at the Hotel Astor last night under the auspices of the Flour Jobbers' Association, and all the large flour mills in the country were represented. Grenville C. Parrin, ex-President of the Produce Exchange, was toastmaster. It was stated that New York consumes 28,000 barrels of flour every twenty-four hours.

$6,500 for Conductor Hurt in Crash.

Edward Kelly, a conductor on the Third Avenue Railroad, who, while on the running board of an open car on Aug. 27, 1906, had part of his right leg taken off in a collision between his car and a lumber wagon owned by William P. Youngs & Co., at Third Avenue, near Thirty-fifth Street, received a verdict of $6,500 damages from a jury before Supreme Court Justice Bischoff yesterday. Kelly's counsel were Alfred and Charles Steckler.

You Do Not Have to Pay Extra for Extra Style in Brill Clothes

Extra style costs money to produce. Extra style costs extra designing time and extra tailoring time. And it costs extra profit because on every extra expense must be figured the manufacturers' and the retailers' profits.

That's why smart clothes are often overburdened with extra profit. You have to pay from $2 to $5 extra for style points that actually cost only a few shillings.

Brill Clothes that have extra style do not cost you one cent extra. Brill models designed by the Brill organization are produced by wholesalers without extra cost to Brill stores—the privilege of adopting certain Brill styles for their own lines the following season more than compensates for the extra cost of producing Brill models.

Exclusive Brill models for Spring, 1908, are ready. These models are six months to one year in advance. Men's Suits, Spring Coats, Topcoats, Raincoats, Auto Coats, etc., $15 to $45.

Brill Specials

Covert TOPCOATS, black and Oxford all-wool cheviot SPRING COATS and black thibet and gray worsted CRAVENETTE Raincoats. Garments that are extreme $13.50 and $15 values. Excellently tailored and trimmed, cut on correct models and warranted to hold shape, fit and style. Special, $10.

Men's Worsted and Serge Suits, $18 and $20 Values, $13.50

Blue Serge Suits in fancy weaves.
Blue Worsted Suits in shadow stripes and overplaids.
Black Worsted Suits in dressy stripes and neat mixtures.
Black Worsted Suits in newest chalk line stripes.
Brown Worsted Suits; new shades; smart stripes.
Gray Worsted Suits; neat mixtures.
The fabrics are grades used in $18, $20 and $22.50 Suits.
The journeyman tailoring is of best $20 standard.
The linings and interlinings are of $18 and $20 grade.
The models are new Brill models for Spring.

The price is $13.50 because a famous mill had a large order cancelled and because a Brill directed tailor shop needed between-season work.

When you buy one of these Suits not only do you save $4.50 or $6.50, but you secure a suit that because of medium weight fabric and subdued dressy pattern is practical for all year round service, now or any time, anywhere and on the greatest number of occasions.

REFORMING THE EXCHANGES.

The gentlemen representing the Chicago Produce Exchange who returned home from Washington satisfied that the President had no desire or intention of running amuck among the country's various Exchanges had the pleasure of reading yesterday that he has given instructions to his Commissioner of Corporations to look into the matter. Our local interest is less in the Produce Exchange of Chicago than in the fact, as reported by our contemporary who has this reform especially in hand, that the President "regards bucketshops as a mere wart compared with the great Stock Exchange of New York." Accordingly stock and produce quotations are to be stopped from passing over the telegraph and telephone lines—perhaps.

The President has much company in his view that our Stock Exchange is in some way responsible for the unhappy events of 1907. Many persons who lost several billions of money are of the opinion that somebody besides themselves is responsible for their misfortune. A campaign for reform is a customary sequel to a decline in prices. Nothing is more popular before the event than a campaign for cheapness, but there never yet has been complete satisfaction with that result when it has been attained. Admiration for the champion of cheapness then becomes lukewarm, and finally is transformed into a hunt for a scapegoat, the champion, needless to say, leading the chase for a substitute as the goat.

Why does it not occur to somebody to examine the facts as to whether the wildness of the speculation on the Stock Exchange caused the collapse? If stock gambling was so wild and wicked in 1907 it must have been more so in 1905 and 1906, when there was so much more of it. As compared with one of those earlier years there were eighty-five million shares fewer sold in 1907, and sixty-seven million fewer when compared with the other. As far back as 1901 there was a wilder, and, therefore, a wickeder, speculation on the Stock Exchange, but there was then no campaign for reform. What is the explanation of this phenomenon, other than the one we have suggested?

It cannot be maintained that speculation declined in 1907 because there was not money enough for the game. The proof is that while stock speculation was declining there was money enough to absorb more municipal bonds than were ever sold in the United States, with the single exception of 1904. Last year, therefore, initiated a movement similar to that exemplified by the recent very remarkable oversubscriptions of New York City and State bonds. The growth of municipal bond sales in 1907, concurrently with the decline in speculation on the Stock Exchange, points to something besides lack of liquid capital. Already, as it seems to us, the sober investment class had taken alarm at a tendency which it could neither measure nor control. National and State Legislatures were rivaling each other in contempt for economic laws and trade traditions. The courts had not yet checked these invaders of the rights of property, and, whatever the decisions of the courts might be, there was abroad an ugly spirit of contempt even for Constitutions.

Whatever the scarcity of capital, there was an undoubted greater deficiency of confidence. The decline in stock dealings attested the loss of confidence in financial leaders, who had been proved mere creatures of clay, like other men. The swelling of investments in municipal bonds attested like loss of confidence in legislators and political leaders. At the present moment capital, in the broad sense, is in suspense as to whether or not the people wish for a square deal, whether they intend to sustain the innovators and the spoilers, or whether they wish to maintain this as a Government of law and the Constitution. The attack upon the Exchanges is a mere incident in a broader question, and every man has a share in making the decision whether we shall proceed along the path of reform, spelled ruin, or shall revert to the prosperity sacrificed to theorists and idealists.

COST OF PREVENTABLE DISEASE.

The Pittsburg Survey, by the charitable prompting of Mrs. RUSSELL SAGE, [illegible] in individual studies the [illegible] loss—$700,000 a year, in round numbers—due to the prevalence of typhoid in Greater Pittsburg, which has continued for twenty-five years unabated. As everybody knows, typhoid is a filth disease, and preventable. The studies concern 194 cases in families of moderate income, the 87 wage earners stricken being clerks, salesmen, milliners, stogy-makers, servants, and so on. An aggregate of 864 weeks, or 18.5 years, was lost from work, which meant a money loss of $10,902, while wage earners who ceased work to care for the sick lost an additional $1,557. The 53 hospital cases cost the patients' families $1,141, and public and private charity $1,534 more. The doctors' and nurses' bills, drugs, ice, milk, and other expenses of patients cared for at home amounted to $8,179, while the funeral expenses of the six dead were $1,032. The whole loss to the community, $24,345, for these 194 cases in two wards, would be proportional to a loss in the 57 wards of Pittsburg, with its 5,637 cases in 1907, of $708,246.

This is a conservative estimate. Of the cases investigated 25 per cent. of those surviving suffered serious physical after effects, and in 13.9 per cent. of the cases the serious results are permanent; that is, the persons composing this percentage are to a degree a permanent burden upon their families and the city.

By expending $500,000 a year upon the prevention of the primary and secondary causes of typhoid the City of Pittsburg could wipe out this disease, and the expenditure would represent an insurance investment paying 40 per cent. interest.

FREIGHT RATE INCREASE.

It is surprising that Wall Street should have paid any attention to the report that the President had approved a proposed general 10 per cent. increase in freight rates. In some of its moods Wall Street will believe anything. Stocks went up, it is said, on this rumor. Stocks go up or down for inscrutable reasons, sometimes without any visible reason. But certainly credulity was strained when Wall Street believed this story about the President.

For one thing, the President has nothing to do with the increase or decrease of freight rates. The controlling authority in such matters is the Inter-State Commerce Commission. Over the resolves and the action of that body the President has no power. He has not even the right to be consulted. It would be an impropriety for the Inter-State Commerce Commission to consult President ROOSEVELT in regard to the regulation of freight rates. In that field Congress is the supreme authority, save that, if unreasonably low rates are fixed, the Supreme Court may intervene. Congress has delegated its power over railroad rates to the Inter-State Commerce Commission. The Commission is not the President's agent, it is the agent of Congress, and responsible only to Congress. It belongs to the legislative, not to the Executive, department. It was the intention of the founders that these departments should be independent of each other within their respective fields. The President would hardly presume to dictate to the Commission, and his approval of its decisions would not be solicited.

It is, though, a sign of the times that the railroads and those interested in their securities should look to Washington for help in the present emergency. The railroads are not doing very well. An immense number of freight cars are idle. This may not be a propitious moment for increasing rates, in the face of bad business, but if an increase of rates were under discussion the force of recent habit might constrain managers and security holders to turn their gaze upon the Federal Capital. It is to the Inter-State Commerce Commission, however, not to the President, that they should look.

So many adverse and calamitous influences have had their origin in Washington that men naturally look to that source for help and favor. It is the outgrowth of the habit of depending upon Federal authority for everything. The incident gives point and force to a remark of the Hon. GEORGE GRAY, in his brief address at the banquet of the Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish Society in Philadelphia a few weeks ago, to this effect: "Let us leave something to individual initiation, and not look to Washington for a remedy for every grievance, real or imaginary, or seek to create a centralization or paternalism in the Federal Government that will destroy the fabric that the Fathers have constructed."

THE FLEET IN THE PACIFIC.

The arrival of Admiral EVANS with his fleet of sixteen battleships at Magdalena Bay, Mexico, on the evening of March 11, nearly four days ahead of schedule time, with every ship in good condition, must silence the croakers for a long while. Since the departure of the warships from Hampton Roads, Dec. 16, apprehension has been in the air. Anarchists with their bombs were going to destroy the ships at Trinidad and Rio de Janeiro. Discontent among the crews and the alleged unseaworthiness of the ships were going to combine to make the unprecedented voyage perilous. The passage of the Strait of Magellan would be found dangerous and long delayed, if not impossible.

Yet the Navy Department's programme has been carried out without a hitch. Admiral SEBREE with his "pathfinders," the big armored cruisers, started from Newport News Oct. 12, and reached the Pacific Coast without a hitch. The battleship fleet, with the torpedo-boat flotilla, left Hampton Roads at the appointed hour. No storm or accident delayed their progress, and the passage of the dangerous strait was made, carefully, we have no doubt, but swiftly. The six torpedo boats are still in the rear, but will join the fleet in Magdalena Bay early in April.

The voyage around the continent is now practically finished. The run from Magdalena Bay to San Francisco will be a comparatively easy part of the cruise. But it will not be made for some weeks, as a stop is to be made in the Mexican harbor for target practice.

The safe and quick voyage of the fleet must have the effect of allaying much needless apprehension as to the object of the cruise, which is not belligerent. Thus far it has proved the efficiency of our naval commanders, the discipline of their men, and the seaworthiness of our big war vessels, which have behaved well in the roughest seas. One of the familiar sayings on the eve of their departure was: "Well, they may go to the Pacific, but they'll never come back." They will return and go again. They may cross the Pacific and come home through the Mediterranean. Admiral EVANS's wireless dispatch announcing his arrival in Magdalena Bay indicates that he has no definite orders as to the future. But wherever they go the battleships will carry not war but a message of peace. Nobody doubts now that they can encircle the globe, if necessary, and keep together in good order. The results of the target practice in the next few weeks will surely be equally gratifying.

EASY CRITICISM.

Nothing was more striking after the Collinwood disaster than the unanimity of condemnation of such conditions—unless, perhaps, the subsequent demonstration that such conditions are general is better worth notice. It is little to the point that one American city after another is reporting dangerous schoolhouses. That was to be expected, and only further establishes the point which our foreign friends made so clear, that Americans are more careless than any other people regarding the safety of human life.

But in THE TIMES of Wednesday there was a dispatch from London quoting the report to the County Council by Mr. WALTER REYNOLDS to the effect that "within the last three days he had visited many of the County Council schools in London and found conditions similar to those that contributed to the heavy death roll at Cleveland. He had seen many school buildings the doors of which opened inward."

According to later accounts, the Collinwood school doors opened outward, and the dreadful loss of life was due to other conditions. Unhappily there is blame enough for all, and our foreign critics have this advantage—that they can profit by our costly example, and save themselves from the reproach they visited upon us for facts which were not so.

A PROFESSORSHIP OF GOOD TASTE.

The study of all art, plastic, graphic, musical, and literary, is supposed to cultivate good taste. In a broad sense, it infrequently does so. Notoriously, competent musicians dress in bad taste and have vague ideas of form and color. Famous painters are often fond of bad literature. On the other hand, people conspicuous for good taste often have studied no art, and like the young ladies in MOLIERE's play comprehend things without learning them. They are born with good taste, a sense of proportion and fitness, as CHARLES LAMB was born with the faculty to distinguish a good picture from a bad one, so that he was able to counsel COLNAGHI in the purchase of a Leonardo.

The proposed establishment of a Chair of "Cultivation of Good Taste" in the Northwestern University, at Evanston, Ill., is not a bad idea. Good taste can be taught, though the requirements for the professorship will be exacting. Who is to decide upon them? Good taste can be taught, but it cannot be clearly defined. Still, the plan proves once more the great vitality of the art spirit in our Western States. The first effort is to be directed to dress. The women students are to be taught to dress tastefully. If this is accomplished, in a year's course, there need be no despair about the other branches.

The trouble will be to establish a correct and immutable standard of good taste. A high authority in the tailoring business has recently declared that the men of the West have much better taste in dress than the New Yorkers. They appreciate variety in style and color. The straw-colored, purple, and green cloths avoided in the effete East appeal to them. The Easterner's moderation in the cut of his coat and its lack of color displeases them.

But an eminent French authority on dress has lately uttered a word of caution in this matter. "Avoid 'le dernier cri,'" he says. Do not adopt the latest wrinkles. He speaks of the portrait of a wealthy woman taken several years ago. The dress is a good style now, he says, because it was in perfect taste then. Standards of taste in dress, as in other things, differ widely. We cannot expect a "standardization of taste" like the recent standardization of spirit levels.

An account is given in The Independent by the Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of Rio Janeiro of the work done to promote the comfort and pleasure of the sailors of our fleet during their recent visit. A large bureau was established at the landing where the men could get all possible information as to places of interest, shops, restaurants, &c., where they could exchange money without loss, (over $80,000 was thus exchanged,) where very cheap excursions were organized, where cheap meal tickets could be purchased, and where free stationery for letter writing was provided. The excellent results were acknowledged by the Admiral and by a committee of petty officers, who testified not only that there had been a notable absence of disorder and license, but that the positive enjoyment of the men had greatly been advanced. The plan had the hearty cooperation of the Admiral, of the Ambassador, and of the Brazilian authorities. It is a striking and admirable example of the practical work done by the Y. M. C. A. in all parts of the world.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Prohibition That Prohibits. Judging from the reports coming up from desiccated Georgia, the ancient jeer that prohibition does not prohibit has at last lost its sting. To be sure, not every Georgian has as yet been deprived of the cup that cheers—and incidentally sometimes sharpens the parricidal axe—nor is that condition likely to be attained in all the starkness of its horror for the most determined votaries of Bacchus while inter-State commerce retains its present privileges under the Federal Constitution. Just the same, Georgia prohibition, for the time being at least, does prohibit so far as it tries to do so, and it tries hard.

There the alcoholic devil is not whipped around any stump, even the slenderest. He has been driven out into the open, and every blow of the lash reaches him. In other words, the law against the sale of intoxicants is backed by an overwhelming public sentiment in its favor, and it is enforced with rigor, in spirit, and letter. That in time methods of getting around it with an approach to safety will be devised can hardly be doubted, but at present the only way to get liquor into Georgia is to buy it out of the State and have it sent in for strictly private and personal consumption. The purchase must be actual and complete, with real money put in the seller's hand before shipment is even begun. Deliveries C. O. D. are not permitted, nor is seizure prevented by the contentment of the dealer to get a check mailed after his goods reach their destination.

The penalty for violation of the law is in every case a heavy fine, but not that alone, for the convicted offender must also serve on the chain gang for at least thirty days. Even the doctors cannot come in as the last refuge of a desperate toper. Each prescription containing alcohol must be registered (fee 10 cents) on the very day issued, and it can never be filled again. Everything with alcohol in it comes under the ban, not less though it be a harmless, necessary libation for the toothbrush than when it is one of the so-called medicines, poor but not cheap whisky in all but name, that have long been the ever-ready help in time of thirst in other prohibition States.

In short, Georgia means business, and is doing it. Well, it is Georgia's business that Georgia is doing, and we are not aware that it is anybody else's business how prohibitive her prohibition may be made. And if the liquor men are scared at last, that is far from being a National calamity. They have long invited almost any imaginable discomfiture.

Children Should Be Childish. Much solemnly eloquent commendation will doubtless be received by the section of the Postal Savings Bank bill which makes special provision for enabling children to accumulate their pennies instead of scattering them among candy and toy shops. It will be such a very good thing, we shall hear from many an intensely respectable orator, to teach habits of thrift and economy to the rising generation, and early to inspire said R. G. with realization of how much better it is, when the almost inevitable rainy day comes, to have something laid away than it is to be provided with nothing more negotiable than vague memories of past joys. And then candy is so very hurtful to the teeth and none too good for even more important organs!

Of course there is an element of truth in all this, and it is a strong, almost violently strong, ambition of ours always to agree with the intensely respectable. Try as hard as we will, however, we cannot get up any enthusiasm for this particular feature of the Savings Bank bill, and if orations of the kind outlined above come too thick and fast, we may be irritated into uttering a fierce condemnation of the scheme and into recklessly proclaiming that Uncle Sam might easily be in a better business than that of teaching his little nephews and nieces to hoard their pennies instead of spending them in normal childish fashion.

Economy and thrift have their merits; they are even virtues in adults, but even then they are virtues of a rather dull, not to say grimy, surface, and they show a curious tendency, when joggled a bit, to transmute into the out-and-out vices of penuriousness and greed. With a little more courage we would say that an economical and thrifty child is, or would be—we ourselves, thanks be, never saw one—a monster about as loathsome as tolerant nature is likely ever to confront, and the career of such an abnormal creature when grown up is not a subject with which the imagination finds it pleasant to occupy itself.

The business sense was one of late development in the human race, and ontogeny should repeat phylogeny, not reverse it. So, if we do break out against this part of the Postal Savings Bank plan, we shall have science on our side, and that's something, though all the stuffy platitudes and stuffier platitudinizers be against us. The child who saves his pennies instead of spending them we put in the category with the boy who doesn't give his mother a moment's anxiety, and give them both up as irremediably bad jobs.

Kentucky Gets Excited. It was inevitable that "night riding" would not long continue in Kentucky and Tennessee without passing from the sufficiently criminal destruction of property to the infliction of torture and death upon the objects of lawless animosity. That point has been reached, and already the night riders, not content with whipping and killing men, have added the murder of women and children to their achievements as regulators of the tobacco trade.

It was also inevitable that in time the class victimized by this cowardly form of midnight outrage, if their appeals for protection by the law went unheeded, would resort to the methods of their enemies and avenge their wrongs by committing like acts, but acts which in the circumstances could hardly be called like crimes. This, too, according to credible report is already imminent in Kentucky, for the members of the ludicrously misnamed Society of Equity have received anonymous warning that if the burning of tobacco warehouses continues the account will be evened up by the use of poison.

Why not? The present situation is unendurable, and if it cannot be cured by law or force, poison seems to be about the only means left. The Society of Equity, naturally enough, publicly denies complicity in, responsibility for, or approval of, the crimes that have been committed, but the outrages further the purposes of the organization, and only its members have any motive for taking part in them, so the denials are hardly convincing.

Incidentally, the Italian Government, which has had some purchased and stored tobacco of its own burned in the course of the night-riding campaign, is beginning to get uneasy and to raise at Washington the embarrassing question, "Who is going to pay for our property?" That inquiry will have to be answered some day or other and some way or other, and in the end Congress—that is, all of us—will have to do the paying. That will be tiresome, even humiliating.

Meanwhile, the Society of Equity is not idle. It has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of the persons—who burned the warehouses and murdered the women and children? Not by any means—of the persons who threatened to poison members of the Society of Equity! That, it seems, is held reprehensible by them—as, indeed, it is, from some points of view.

CATHOLICS NOT NEGLIGENT.

Fire Drill Carefully Observed in All Schools Under the New York Board.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reply to the letter of "Protection" in to-day's issue of your paper, in which he makes certain assertions regarding the precautions against panic and fire in the Catholic parochial schools of this city, we beg to state that even if it be true that he has two children attending these schools he evidently knows nothing about their plans for the safety of the pupils. The fire or rapid dismissal drill has been in operation in every Catholic school for more than five years past. The undersigned Superintendents have during the past two years not only inspected the plan of each Principal for executing the drill, but have actually witnessed in eighty-four schools its successful operation. Only today we discussed the plan of dismissal with the Principals of the Paulist School in West Sixtieth Street and the Carmelite School in East Twenty-ninth Street.

Our schools are regularly visited by officials of the Building and Fire Departments, the last inspection having been made last Saturday. Some of our schools pay $120 a year to a special instructor in the fire drill, while others desirous of improving their own plans have enlisted the aid of a near-by engine company.

At the quarterly meeting of the Catholic School Board last Saturday Mgr. Mooney, its President, appointed a special committee to prepare further methods and suggestions to be communicated to our Principals in order to insure even a more perfect execution than we have at present.

In all our visits to the schools we insist upon the fire drill, and once each year we send our Principals a copy of the Laws of 1907, Chapter 201, in which a rapid dismissal drill is made obligatory once a month. "Protection" should also bear in mind that more than one-half our schools are of recent construction, and absolutely fireproof. It may be a source of additional comfort to this anxious parent, who is so well versed in the statistics of our schools, to learn that during the five years of our incumbency not a single case of fire or panic has occurred in any of our Catholic schools. The Catholic School Board is fully alive to the interests of the little ones committed to its care, and it is composed of eminent priests and sterling citizens who are as true to their laws as they are to their religion.

If, as this unknown writer states, the fire drill has not been in operation in the unknown school that he refers to it is owing not to the absence of any plan for its execution, but solely to the inclemency of the weather. He has but to notify the undersigned and the fire drill will be executed within twenty-four hours for his comfort as well as for his edification.

An Enthusiastic Subscriber.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Noticing that your weekly circulation has attained the remarkable figure of 1,000,000 copies, I wish to congratulate you upon a success unqualifiedly deserved. I am and have been for some years a subscriber to THE TIMES, and I find it a most stimulating and helpful journal.

The almost unassailable accuracy of the news stated as facts or actual happenings indicates regard for "truth and truth's sake." Up here when we read something in THE TIMES we do not feel that it is to be taken "cum grano salis."

Temperateness without smugness, independence without resort to vilification, and a certain open-mindedness as pleasing as it is unusual, to me give your paper an especial value in a day when popular judgment swings from one extreme of the pendulum-sweep to the other.

I like your comments upon the Administration and its policies. President Roosevelt is a great man, and has done great things; you admit this to be the case in language not at all begrudging. And yet what folly to pretend that he cannot err in judgment or advocate an ill-advised policy!

To your position in the newspaper world—the position of a keen but fair-minded critic equally ready to agree or honestly to dissent—is due much credit for getting the average man to think for himself; this last phrase contains the essence of democracy, does it not?

I also congratulate you upon the neat appearance and typographical excellence of THE TIMES. It is a pleasure to read THE TIMES from simply the viewpoint of "get-up."

Prussia and Poland.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Let me express my appreciation of your editorial on the effort to Prussianize Poland by force. In common, doubtless, with many other Americans, I had been filled with indignation in reading of the proposed expropriation of the Poles from their homes, and had been wishing for some one to express the sense that all rational persons must have of the folly as well as the cruelty of such a course. What possible effect can it have, except, as you well say, to make the unfortunate Poles hate their tyrants worse than ever, and to bring odium upon the Prussian Government in the eyes of the civilized world? ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

A First-Class Candidate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A writer quoted in THE TIMES suggests a possibility of trouble from woman suffrage on the ground that women care more about a man's goodness than about his ability and that they might cast their votes accordingly.

The political slatemakers would, of course, want to get the widest possible support for their party. If they had to nominate a smart man to get the men's votes and a straight one to get the women's votes, would not the combination make a first-class candidate? A man who is smart but not straight can make as much trouble in office as a good man without ability.

CHINESE Y. M. C. A. BRANCH.

Orientals to Have One for Their Exclusive Use—Also a Library.

Within a few weeks the Chinese of this city will have a circulating library containing modern European works translated into their native tongue. At the same time the Y. M. C. A. will establish either in Pell, Mott, or Doyers Street the only branch in the United States designed for the exclusive use of Chinamen.

Edwin W. Gaillard, Supervisor of Work with Schools for the New York Public Library, took up the matter of the library at the request of Dr. F. F. Tong, who was the first charter member of the Y. M. C. A. at Tien-tsin.

Through Mr. Gaillard's efforts the Chinese interested in this movement were allowed to use a room in the Chatham Square library branch last Thursday for the purpose of holding a meeting to incorporate a literary society and elect officers.

Twenty men prominent in Chinatown affairs met at 8 o'clock, and elected Dr. Tong President, Kwai F. Pang, a tobacco merchant living at 242 Madison Avenue, Brooklyn, Secretary, and Mr. Gaillard, Treasurer. The organization will be known as the Chinese Literary Club, and will be supplied with books issued from the Commercial Press of Shanghai, the Methodist, Presbyterian, and Baptist Missions.

Last week Mr. Gaillard went to the Y. M. C. A. headquarters and explained what the Chinese at the head of this movement were doing. As a result, a committee was appointed to hunt up a suitable building in Chinatown which could be used as a temporary meeting place by the new organization. The committee is expected to make its report to-morrow.

Stevens Graduates Give a Dinner.

The graduating class of Stevens Institute, some seventy in number, had their farewell dinner last night at the Manhattan Hotel. The class went into executive session when the dinner began, the doors being closed to the outside world. All the class officers and most of the members made speeches. The class stood the test well, most of them being able to claim their hats and coats personally at the checking rack.

A Call for German Opera.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you, in your valuable paper, put in a plea for the lovers of German opera before the now rapidly approaching end of the present season at the Metropolitan?

During these past seventeen weeks we have had at the Saturday matinees but four performances of German opera in all, and the coming performance of the "Ring," falling as it does in Holy Week, will prevent a great many from attending. For the past two weeks, and including this and the coming week, (according to the announcement,) we shall have had Italian opera in its most florid style.

It is generally conceded that the boxholders and Directors prefer this, (possibly because it does not seriously interfere with conversation,) and they are doubtless the powers that be, but inasmuch as the list of subscribers for the Saturday matinees is larger than for any other day in the week, it would seem as if some attention might be given to their wishes.

ELEVEN YEARS' SUBSCRIBER.

Cold Spring-on-Hudson, N. Y., March 11, 1908.

SIDNEY, NEBRASKA.

Sidney Boomer, Loquitur:

Nobody much had ever heard
Of Sidney, Neb., that's right,
Until that whizzer round the world
Put up here over night.
It's some to be just on the route
And ketch a flyin' sight
Of them there whizzers, but it's great
To have one stop all night,
Like Sidney did, and see the thing
Close up and feel it cough;
And have 'em writin' up our town
And telegraph it off.

Perhaps our town ain't half so big
As some that you might meet,
But there's no bigger round these parts,
And she's the county seat.
We've got a Court House and a jail,
An opry house and bank,
And down there by the railroad switch
We've got a water tank.
There's stores about, and churches, too,
And you don't have to try
So goldarned hard to find a place
To dampen down your dry.
We've got a res'dence avenoo
With one end on the trail;
But that's all right; it gives more room
For lots out there for sale.

I guess there's other towns that's more
Than Sidney is, but none
Ain't in her class unless they are
Along the whizzers' run.
And she's ahead of most of them
Because they only seen
The car just long enough to git
A smell of gasoline,
While Sidney had it here all night—
All night! Just think of that,
And all the papers in the world
Told where the car was at.

Nobody much had ever heard
Of Sidney, Neb., that's right,
Until the whizzer round the world
Put up here over night.
But now we've changed that style of talk;
It is, we're proud to say,
Nobody much that hasn't heard
Of Sidney, Nebraskay.

PAY-AS-YOU-ENTER CARS FOR 4TH AV.

New York City Railway Receivers Decide to Put Them in Operation.

PUBLIC IS ASKED TO HELP

Belief That They Will Put an End to Straphanging and Other Discomforts.

What will constitute the most radical and perhaps the most important change in the street car service in this city, from an operating point of view, will be made within the next few weeks, when the receivers for the New York City Railway Company will place on the Madison and Fourth Avenue surface line 155 of the new pay-as-you-enter cars. At the same time they will establish a set of destination signal lights to be carried on the cars at night.

On behalf of the receivers it was stated yesterday that the success of these new cars and the extension of their use to other lines will depend upon the co-operation of the public, which will be expected to assist in maintaining speed and comfort. If the public does not do its share, the receivers say, the experiment may prove a failure. The idea of trying the cars in New York originated with Theodore P. Shonts. They have been tried successfully in Montreal and other cities.

The cars are larger and heavier than those to which New Yorkers have been accustomed. They are eleven feet longer and considerably wider. The main feature, however, is the very wide platform, which is seven feet six inches long and six feet wide. They are built to accommodate twenty persons and are divided into two compartments, one for entrance and the other for exit. The conductor stands behind a railing, between the two compartments and collects the fares as the passengers enter.

Entrance to the car is to be had only at the extreme rear. The door into the interior swings inward and closes automatically after each passenger has paid his fare and entered. It is possible for a waiting crowd to mount the platform in a few seconds, so that the car is not delayed while the passengers pay their fares.

Passengers desiring to leave the car may do so either by the front or rear platform, but the company prefers that they leave by the front. There two doors will be available, while at the rear there will be but one door, a sliding one, operated by the conductor, and directly behind him as he stands in his corner.

Inside the cars, between the windows and within easy reach, will be electric push buttons. A passenger pushing one of these gives the motorman a signal to stop. The powerful electric and air brakes with which the cars are equipped give the motorman perfect control of the car and, it is said, make possible the stopping of it without jolting or jerking.

It is said that with the use of these cars, provided the public co-operates, there will come a material curtailment of the discomforts of straphanging. Not more than seventy-five persons will be allowed to board a car, and passengers will not be allowed to stand on the rear platform.

A woman cannot step off these cars backward and as many of them do get off in this way there are likely to be some dismayed women in the neighborhood of Madison Avenue. The so-called "grab handles" on the cars at the exits are on the front side of the doors only. A woman must take hold of the handle with her left hand, so that she will perforce face the front of the car as she alights. It is contended that a great many accidents will thus be prevented.

Circulars giving a description of the new car and instructions as to its use have been distributed through the territory that is tapped by the Madison Avenue line. It is stated in this circular that a system of signal lights for use at night has been adopted and will be tried as an experiment. The lights carried will signify the destination, as follows:

	Northbound.	Southbound.
Blue light	135th St.	Brooklyn Bridge
Yellow light	116th St.	Broome or Canal Sts.
Green light	86th St.	Astor Place

Red light signifies that the car is not carrying passengers.

In the circular alluded to the receivers say, in part:

"In this effort to improve the transportation service the public is earnestly requested to co-operate by entering only at the rear by the step marked "Entrance," (leaving the car at either end as shown on the diagram;) by presenting the exact fare to the conductor, and by moving promptly into the car, thereby preventing congestion in the rear compartment.

"Passengers desiring transfers should request them of the conductor at the time of paying fare. Passengers cannot be permitted to stand in the rear compartment, but may remain in the forward compartment if they so desire."

REPORT FROM TARIFF LEAGUE.

It Says There Is an Increasing Sentiment for Protection.

The American Protective Tariff League every two years at the Congressional and Presidential elections conducts what it calls a biennial census. This census is for the purpose of finding out how many newspapers all through the country want to have protective tariff news matter supplied to them, either by syndicate, plate, or "patent inside" service. The association sent out 22,000 such inquiries recently. It announced yesterday that 5,000 replies had been received, of which 75 per cent. declared themselves for the protective tariff, 10 per cent. were against the protective tariff, 5 per cent. were for a revision of the tariff, and 10 per cent. were noncommital.

Wilbur F. Wakeman said yesterday that the most surprising change of sentiment comes from the Southern States, where the association's newspaper service would be multiplied by 6. In the northern territory the smallest returns were from the State of Minnesota, but throughout the North the reports confirm the percentages.

BISHOP SATTERLEE'S WILL.

The Estate Divided Between His Widow, Daughter, and Grandchildren.

The will of the Right Rev. Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, D. C., who died in that city on Feb. 22, was filed for probate in the Surrogate's office yesterday. The estate is valued at $5,000 personal property and at least $15,000 in real estate in this State.

Bishop Satterlee left all his books to his son, Churchill, who, however, predeceased him, with the exception of 200 volumes, to be selected by Mrs. Satterlee, and 200 by his daughter, Constance. To his widow he bequeathed all his household furniture and other personal property, except his stocks and bonds.

The rest is left in charge of his executors, William H. Lee, Mrs. Satterlee, and Miss Satterlee. A trust fund of $10,000 is created, the income of which is to be paid to his daughter, Miss Constance, the rest going to his wife for her life, and on her death to revert in equal shares to his daughter, Miss Constance, and to the three children of his son, the late Churchill Satterlee.

TWO ENGAGEMENTS INTEREST SOCIETY

Mrs. Louise R. Talcott Announces Her Betrothal to Lawyer Edward Wyckoff Harris.

MISS READ TO WED IN JUNE

Announcement That She Is Engaged to F. Rutgers Davis Made at a Luncheon.

Two engagements of interest to society were made public yesterday. The first was that of Mrs. Louise R. Talcott, who announced to intimate friends that she was betrothed to Edward Wyckoff Harris of the law firm of Harris & Harris.

Mrs. Talcott and Mr. Harris are both well known in society. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Edwards Rowland and the widow of Arthur W. Talcott, who died several years ago. She has three children.

Mr. Harris was graduated from Princeton in the class of 1884. He is a member of the Union, Union League, Ardsley, and other clubs.

The second betrothal announced was that of Miss Dorothy Read, daughter of George R. Read, who is engaged to F. Rutgers Davis. This announcement came as a surprise to all but a few of the pair's intimate friends. The wedding will be on June 2 at 4 o'clock in the Church of the Incarnation. A reception will follow at the home of the bride, 165 West Fifty-eighth Street.

The engagement was announced by Miss Read to a few of her intimate friends at a small luncheon she gave on St. Valentine's Day, but was not immediately made public.

Miss Read's sister, Mrs. John Irving Downey, will be her matron of honor, and Miss Louise Corwith will be the maid of honor. The six bridesmaids are to be the Misses Jessie J. Kennedy, Mildred Eagle, Ella Buek, Gertrude Bovee, Florence Alker, and Eleanor Hastings.

Miss Read is a daughter of Mr. Read by his first wife, who was Miss Louise Frost. In November last Mr. Read married Mrs. Adelaide Downey Hastings, widow of Henry De Groot Hastings.

FOOD.

COLLEGE GRADUATE

Found Clear Thinking Assured by Right Food.

A college student should know that clear thinking comes easiest from a brain well and properly fed.

"I have now been using Grape-Nuts steadily four years, and having passed the experimental and over-enthusiastic stage, I feel sure of myself and have settled down to a solid basis of fact. This I have derived largely from that excellent little booklet, 'The Road to Wellville,' which I have largely adopted as my faithful guide in matters pertaining to eating, exercise and health in general.

"On first reading the booklet I was struck with its plain common sense, and moreover found that it was in harmony with physiology and psychology so far as I had learned them in my study of these subjects at college.

"For at least ten years before I began to eat Grape-Nuts, I had been accustomed to eating freely of fried meats, white bread, biscuits, and what not, with resultant headaches, some dizziness, and an appetite that was capricious and uncertain. All this, too, seemed to affect my brain and nervous system, for, while engaged in study I found it hard to concentrate my thoughts.

"I could think very well for a little while, but soon grew restless and inattentive. Nor can I emphasize too much the change that I have brought about by adopting rational habits in food and exercise.

"There is now an elasticity in my muscular system, a steadiness of nerve, and an ability to think continuously along a given line, that I prize most highly, and which I attribute to the use of Grape-Nuts food." "There's a Reason."

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY.

It Completes Its Fifteenth Season with a Concert in Carnegie Hall.

The Musical Art Society completed its fifteenth season with its second concert last evening in Carnegie Hall before a large audience. Its programme contained a number of works that the society has sung before, but all of them of an importance that warranted their repetition. In one case, that of Palestrina's "Stabat Mater" for double chorus, it was the fifth performance that the society has given. Its beauties are only reinforced and more deeply impressed by such repetition, for it is music whose delicate and exquisite fibre seems immortal.

The first part of the programme was entirely given up to the ecclesiastical writers of the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries. Orlandus di Lassus followed Palestrina, represented by a motet for four voices, a remarkable work of daring harmony, and beautiful tonal effect, "Christe Dei Soboles." Volckmar Laisring's jubilant and spirited hymn, "O Filii et Filiae," for two antiphonal choirs, one of men and women, the other of men only, was sung next. The contrast of the two is most strikingly and skillfully employed by the composer, and Mr. Damrosch did what was possible to gain the antiphonal effect by placing the two choirs at the extreme ends of the platform. This composition by a sturdy German composer has a more personal note than most of those of the scholarly musicians of his period, and it stirred the audience to demand a repetition of it.

Another work of this early time that makes an appeal more immediately to the modern musical sense is Giovanni Gabrieli's "Jubilate Deo," in eight parts, in which the melodic outline is more clearly defined and the harmonic treatment more free than in the other music of this style represented on the programme.

The chorus sings this unaccompanied ancient music, often difficult in intonation and in the demands it makes for purity and sustained quality of tone, in admirable style, with fine finish and shading. It comes, indeed, as near to meeting these demands as is to be expected of a modern chorus singing in a concert hall.

Another work whose repetition was welcomed was Charles Martin Loeffler's "By the Waters of Babylon," for women's voices, and the instrumental accompaniment of two flutes, violoncello, harp, and organ. It was first given by the society two years ago, and made a deep impression at that time, which was renewed last evening. Mr. Loeffler has sought for definite expression of the plangent mood of the psalmist's verses which he has used, and he has found it with signal success. He is a seeker after subtle and characteristic effects of color, and his use of the timbres of the several instruments, their combination with each other, and their union with the chorus of women's voices, is exceedingly beautiful and is managed with an unerring skill. The music is full of imagination and of tender quality; and it has the distinction of a strongly original utterance expressed with the utmost finish of style and feeling for euphony. The composition is one of great beauty. The performance was one to present it fully, and it was recognized as such by the audience.

The third part of the programme was given over as usual to modern part songs, of which the last overtopped the others by a large margin—the "Gypsy Songs" of Brahms, Opus 112, with piano accompaniment. These were sung with much of the contrasting spirit of sparkling gayety and passionate warmth that runs through them, yet there might have been more of this spirit. A "Nachtgebet," by Wilhelm Berger, in eight parts, though it has some effective traits, disclosed not much individuality. Eaton Faning's setting of "How Sweet the Moonlight Sleeps," from "The Merchant of Venice," in eight parts, is melodious and cloyingly sweet in its harmonic substance, and pleased many so that they would have had it repeated had Mr. Damrosch yielded. But it is not with music of this sort that the Musical Art Society has its chief business.

CONCERT TOUR FOR CARUSO.

Ernest Goerlitz Will Take the Tenor Out for Two and a Half Weeks.

Ernest Goerlitz, who has resigned his place as General Manager of the Conried Metropolitan Opera Company, has arranged to present Enrico Caruso in a series of concerts at the end of the Spring tour of the Conried Metropolitan Opera Company.

The tour of Mr. Caruso will begin on May 1 at Columbus, Ohio, and will continue for two weeks and a half. This will be the first time that the tenor has ever sung in public concerts in this country. Even in New York his appearances in concert have been confined to private musicales.

In addition to Columbus, Mr. Caruso will be heard at Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Toronto, Montreal, and one or two other cities, which will be determined on later. A concert company will accompany the tenor, including Miss Julia Allen, soprano; Henri G. Scott, bass, and Master Katlarsky, a young Polish violinist.

As Mr. Goerlitz will not sever his business relations with Mr. Conried until the end of the tour of the Conried Opera Company in Pittsburg he has made arrangements with Henry Wolfsohn to act as joint manager of the Caruso tour. At the close of the opera season Mr. Goerlitz himself will take charge of the company.

NEW PLAY FOR MISS NILLSON.

She Will Come Back to Broadway in "Falling Leaves."

Carlotta Nillson, who recently severed her connection with Walter N. Lawrence, under whose management she appeared all last season as the star of "The Three of Us" at the Madison Square Theatre, and under whose direction she starred in the same piece on tour until a few weeks ago, is soon to make her reappearance on Broadway under different auspices.

Her metropolitan début in the new piece, under the management of Robert Robertson of Chicago, will take place about Easter week in one of the Shubert houses. It is understood that the Shuberts will be interested in the production.

The play is an adaptation from the Italian of Giuseppe Giacosa, translated under the title of "Falling Leaves." It is a modern drama in four acts and the scene, originally located in Italy, is to be so entirely changed in the adaptation so as to make the play thoroughly American. The company will include such of Miss Nillson's old associates as John Westley and Harrison Hunter.

"Mignon" Again at the Metropolitan.

The audience which attended the second performance of "Mignon" at the Metropolitan Opera House last night was larger than the first one, but the performance did not differ in any marked particular. Miss Abott again sang the Filina music well and Miss Farrar assumed a childish manner. Mr. Bonci and Mr. Plançon were in the cast and Mr. Bovy conducted. It is evident that this French opera suffers much through being sung in Italian.

Mrs. Eddy's Song Recital.

Mrs. Clarence Eddy, a contralto, gave a song recital under the auspices of the Clio Club at Duryea's yesterday afternoon. It was under the management of Mrs. J. S. Carvalho of this city. Mrs. Eddy was assisted by Mrs. Leonora Jackson McLaughlin, a violinist. Her husband played her accompaniments.

Miller-Kissel Wedding Plans.

Miss Violet R. Alsberg Engaged.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Violet R. Alsberg, a cousin of Mrs. Charles H. Truax, wife of Supreme Court Justice Truax, to Louis Jerswith of this city. Miss Alsberg will be at home on Sundays, March 15 and 22, at 1,425 Madison Avenue.

W. H. CRANE ADVISES STAGE ASPIRANTS

Don't Worry About Influence; Be Ready for Your Chance, He Tells Them.

HOW HIS OPPORTUNITY CAME

Really Understudied the Leading Comedian and the Latter Fell Ill—A Talk to Dramatic Students.

The graduation exercises of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts were held at the Empire Theatre yesterday afternoon, with William H. Crane as the guest of honor. Diplomas were awarded to twenty-five members of the graduating class.

Miss Elsie Kearns of Brooklyn received the David Belasco Gold Medal for general excellence, Anne Du Bignon of Philadelphia the Belasco Silver Medal for technical skill, and Horace H. Porter of Baltimore the Esther Hermann Gold Medal for earnestness and progress.

Mr. Sargent, President of the academy, opened the exercises and introduced the speakers. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Crane, Prof. Charles Sprague Smith, Alice Fischer, the Rev. Merle St. Croix Wright, Ann Warren Story, and others. Mr. Crane, instead of dealing in generalities and ideals in his remarks, got down to business immediately and discussed the question of "opportunity," especially the question of how to get an engagement and a fair start in the profession. He told of his own first real chance, which came to him through the illness and death of the comedian after having learned every word and gesture of the leading comedy part by constant observation.

"Of course, I cannot advise any of my friends in this school who wish to be comedians to wait for some one to die," he said. "I can only say to the young people who are graduates to-day that they should consider their temperamental and physical fitness for the lines of business they chose to follow and cultivate their studies along that line.

"We often hear of young people getting positions through influence. Whenever I hear that story I always feel certain that the people who make the remarks are uncertain of their own abilities. Letters from influential people are not of much use except in productions where physical qualifications count more than dramatic ability.

"Daniel Frohman has remarked, a good manager is judged by the company he keeps. Try to get into a good company with a good stage manager, and, when you are there, listen. A good listener advances rapidly."

SETBACK FOR SUNDAY LAW.

Missouri Supreme Court Upholds Contention of Indicted Theatrical People.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 12.—The crusade instituted by Judge W. A. Wallace of the Kansas City Criminal Court in order to enforce Sunday closing laws received a setback to-day by a decision handed down from the State Supreme Court holding that the law enacted by the last Legislature creating the Second Division of the Jackson County Criminal Court is constitutional and legal and, therefore, Judge Wallace must certify cases to that division on change of venue.

This was the contention of theatrical people whom Judge Wallace caused to be indicted on charges of violation of the laws by working on Sunday. Judge Wallace maintained that the law was unconstitutional and called on Judge Fort of Stoddard County to try cases. The Supreme Court issued a writ of prohibition and made it permanent to-day.

NEW TOY THEATRE FOR CONEY

One for Marionettes to be Built in Luna Park.

Louis F. Werba and P. J. Casey are going to open a new theatre in Coney Island this Summer. Frederic Thompson is to build the little playhouse, a home not for human actors but for marionettes, which will play in productions ranging from stirring drama to the knockabout comedy of clowns and trick scenery.

The management promises that the marionette shows will be quite the most wonderful exhibitions of their kind ever seen, and that even the oldest inhabitant will be thrilled when the tiny knight-errant, with sword and doublet, rescues his lady love from yon frowning tower.

This novel playhouse will be ready for the marionettes—and the audiences—as soon as Luna Park throws open its gates to the public. The whole establishment will represent an outlay of $50,000. Jewell's Manikins, well-known in vaudeville, will be at the new marionette theatre to put it in commission, but the act will be elaborated with many new features.

YIDDISH "TETRAZZINI" HERE.

Regina Zuckerberg Comes to Sing on the Bowery.

Regina Zuckerberg, the Austrian prima donna, already becoming known as the Yiddish Tetrazzini, who is to sing at the People's Theatre on the Bowery, near Delancey Street, arrived last evening on the White Star liner Teutonic. The singer, who is accompanied by her husband, was met at the pier by a number of admirers, who presented a floral horseshoe to her.

The coming of Mme. Zuckerberg was the subject of a spirited contest between the Jewish theatres on the east side. She will be heard here in "Bar Kochba" and "Sulimith," by the late Hebrew author, Goldfaden, and in "Ben Adur," by Prof. Horowitz.

Big Theatre Benefit for Kruger Fund.

The Theatre Managers' Association held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Astor, with President Charles A. Burnham presiding. After the routine business had been transacted a committee was appointed to confer with the Citizens' Relief Committee on the Kruger fund. This committee is to consider the advisability of joint benefit to aid the fund for erecting a monument to the memory of the dead fire chief.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Mlle. Dazie, the dancer, has canceled her European engagements and will remain in America throughout the Summer, appearing in Florenz Ziegfeld's new revue, "The Follies of 1908." She will introduce another dancing novelty in the new production.

Leo Ditrichstein's new farce, "Bluffs," will be seen next week at the Bijou Theatre, opening on Thursday, under the management of Wagenhals & Kemper. The company will include Fred Bond, the Misses Kenyon Bishop, Alison Skipworth, Fola La Follette, Lovell Taylor, Florence Huntington, Madeleine Sorel, and Pauline Duffield, and Alfred Kappeler, Eugene Redding, G. M. Beldon, and Frank Wunderlee. Mr. Ditrichstein will have the leading rôle.

The lecture to be delivered by Rudolf Tombo, Jr., on "Hauptmann," in the Germanistic Society course on Modern German Dramatists, will be given on Thursday, March 19, instead of March 12. The lecture will have special reference to "The Sunken Bell."

Baron Rosen, the Russian Ambassador, attended the performance of Vera Komisarzhevsky at Daly's Theatre last night.

The new comedy by Rex Beach and Paul Armstrong, entitled "Going Some," which has been acquired by Liebler & Co., is in its final stages of rehearsal and will have its first public hearing in Waterbury on Monday night. The piece was staged by George Marion, who will also play for the first time in years.

ISMAN GETS FAVERSHAM.

Manager to Star Actor Next Season in Repertoire.

Felix Isman, the Philadelphia real estate dealer, who has recently come prominently into the theatrical business by supporting William Morris in his plan for a new opposition vaudeville circuit, is evidently determined to enter from various quarters at the same time. Yesterday it became known that he has already signed a contract with William Faversham, now starring in "The Squaw Man" under the management of Liebler & Co., who will give up his connection with this firm at the end of the current season.

It is Mr. Isman's plan to star Mr. Faversham in a repertoire of several pieces, and plays are already being acquired for the purpose. Mr. Isman, who has helped to promote at least a score of productions under the names of other managers, has never before placed his own name on the programme as producer. At the offices of Liebler & Co. it was stated yesterday that there had been no disagreement with Mr. Faversham.

Among the plays named as possibilities for the repertoire are "The World and His Wife," which Faversham once tried for one or two performances as an experiment; "The Underworld," by Lloyd Osbourne, and "Explorers," by Langdon Mitchell. Mr. Faversham also expects to appear in a new play by a Mr. Carpenter of Philadelphia, selected as the winner in a recent play contest; which is entitled "The Order of the Rose."

The only difficulty about "The Order of the Rose" is that Frederic Thompson claims a previous option.

ACTRESS ADA DYAS DEAD.

English Player Was Once a Great Favorite in This City.

Many an old New York playgoer will learn with regret that a former stage favorite in this city, Miss Ada Dyas, died a few days ago at Seaton, England, where she had gone for her health.

Miss Dyas came from a theatrical family, and when she visited this country brought with her the prestige of a number of successful rôles in performances abroad. She first appeared in New York in 1874, and in the following year at Wallack's old Thirteenth Street Theatre, where she won great popularity by her performance of Moya in Boucicault's "Shaughraun."

From then on to her last appearance here in 1900 she played in most of our theatres and in many famous plays. She distinguished herself particularly in the standard English comedies. She belonged to a school of actresses taught to pronounce the English language with marked accuracy, and Richard Grant White, in his "Words and Their Uses," highly complimented her English.

SILAS H. HAVENS DEAD.

Former Deputy Revenue Collector Here Stricken Suddenly at Passaic, N. J.

Silas H. Havens, for years a Deputy Internal Revenue Collector in this city under Col. Charles H. Treat, died at his home in Passaic, N. J., at 11:30 o'clock last night, after an illness of six hours. He was stricken with rheumatism of the heart while walking home, after having visited several friends apparently in the best of spirits.

Mr. Havens served a full term as Deputy Revenue Collector, but was discharged soon after his second term began. For a dozen years he fought discharge, carrying his case up to Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt. He interested Congressmen and Senators in his cause, but was never reinstated. He always asserted that crooked politics forced him out.

JOHN BURRY DIES SUDDENLY.

He Was an Expert in Electrical Machinery and Telegraph Printing.

John Burry, electrical engineer of the Stock Quotation Telegraph Company and manufacturer and inventor of the Burry printing telegraph system, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home, Bachman's Station, S. I., in his forty-seventh year. He was born at Fribourg, Switzerland, and came to this country when 19 years old.

He devoted himself to the study of electrical machinery and made a specialty of telegraph printing, of which he was considered to be the greatest expert in America. His machines have been used by Stock Exchanges all over America as well as Buenos Ayres and Rio de Janeiro for the past twenty years.

Mr. Burry had many offers from financial organizations to float his numerous patents, but refused, as he wished to give all his time to the Stock Exchange Quotattion Telegraph Company, of which he had become an associate.

The funeral will take place to-morrow.

John W. Munson.

John W. Munson, a veteran of the civil war and a member of an old Virginia family, died at Hempstead, L. I., yesterday on the Joshua Barnum estate, which he had leased recently, at the age of 61 years. He leaves a wife and six children. Mr. Munson was the most active assistant of Col. Mosely in organizing the famous Mosely Guerrillas and later became the Chief of Staff. He had written many stories of the Mosely Guerrillas. After the war he made a fortune in stock farming and leased the Barnum estate in Hempstead as a stock farm for blooded horses.

DUCHESS A STUDENT OF CITY CONGESTION

With Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, She Inspects the Exhibit at Natural History Museum.

BLACKWELL'S ISLAND PERIL

Dr. Jacobi Tells Sociologists the Conditions in Tuberculosis Infirmary Are Appalling.

The prolonged visit of the Duchess of Marlborough to the exhibit of congestion yesterday afternoon and the address at the same hour of Dr. Abraham Jacobi, revealing alarming conditions of overcrowding of tubercular patients on Blackwell's Island and attacking the Sheridan Tenement bill, were the features of the day at the Museum of Natural History.

Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, who has long interested herself in progressive sociological work, accompanied the Duchess. Mrs. Mackay inspected the exhibit early in the week, and was able to explain many features of it to the Duchess, though they frequently questioned the attendants.

The Duchess seemed particularly interested in the exhibit of the Consumers' League, where much of the work done by children is shown. She asked many questions of the attendant there; how much the articles of clothing brought in the stores; how much these products of child labor brought the child or its parents, and how long it took the child to make a garment. When she went away she carried a lot of the literature regarding the work of the league.

The Duchess asked particularly to see the "Sweatshops by Day and by Night." She seemed deeply interested in the room which had been transported almost bodily to the exhibit from one of the east side tenements, illustrating the uncleanliness and wretchedness of such places.

Dr. Jacobi discussed "Congestion and Preventable Diseases." Telling of a visit he made to Blackwell's Island on Jan. 16 last, he declared that the rooms in the men's building were all overcrowded, many patients being in the alcoves where none ought to be.

"From January, 1902, to January, 1908," he said, "there were 14,432 admissions, 9,495 discharges, and 4,314 deaths. If you deduct the discharges from the admissions, there remain alive 4,927 inmates, of which 4,314 had the opportunity of dying in the institution, that is, 87 per cent.

"Blackwell's Island has plenty of air, but the tuberculosis patients have none of it. Even their individual 500 feet of cubic air would do quite well if it were changed, but there is no ventilation. The windows are small and the walls are nearly impervious to air. The narrow doors open into a central hall occupied by fifty patients.

"The windows must not be opened, for those near them could not endure the cold streaming in on them. There are no ventilators taking their place. It would be interesting, though embarrassing, to know the condition of the air thus accumulated—the reduction of its oxygen, the increase of its carbon dioxide, and the emanations from the bodies of those in advanced pulmonary tuberculosis, who, while poisoning their sick neighbors, accelerate their own annihilation.

"It is no wonder they leave that dying place in disgust, possibly to return in despair, probably to meet with a refusal of admission. For when you are looking for a spot where a poor patient of yours may find a resting place, the invariable answer for many months has been from all quarters: 'No bed.'

"And that is one of the features of life in America, in that America to which the poor and oppressed and the persecuted of all nations have been looking as a haven of liberty and rest and unlimited possibilities."

Dr. Jacobi assailed the Sheridan bill relating to tenements known as Assembly Bill 459, which had a hearing in Albany two days ago.

"This bill," said he, "means to remove from the scope of the progressive tenement house law and the jurisdiction of the Tenement House Department more than 23,000 tenement houses now occupied by 68,000 families.

"It would mean that three-story three-family tenement houses, old and new, could be left without water supply in the buildings, and without an exit to the roof in case of fire, with unhealthy basement living and sleeping rooms, with uncleanliness throughout the houses, for periodic inspection would no longer be required.

"Such a bill, if passed, means practical anarchy. A crazy Anarchist killed one and is cursed; the Sheridan bill creates anarchistic conditions which will kill thousands slowly, but surely. Saul slew one, David Sheridan threatens to slay a thousand.

"It has come to this, that the State of New York pays legislators a salary for waging war upon the health and existence of its men, women, and children."

Other speakers of the afternoon were Prof. L. H. Bailey of Cornell University and C. W. Larmon of the Bureau of Labor of the State Department of Agriculture. Each declared that there was yet plenty of room on New York's State farming lands, and suggested that city boys should be educated to see the advantages of farm life and country boys to appreciate their own inestimable opportunities in remaining where they were and developing the land.

With the session last night the formal conference came to an end. Mrs. Vladimir G. Simkhovitch, Chairman of the General Committee, who was presiding, announced that the exhibit would continue until March 22, and that numerous requests had been received for the time limit to be extended even beyond that date. Requests have also come from other cities that the exhibit be sent to them as an educational factor.

Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks of Cornell University, the first speaker of the evening, discussed the "Physiographic and Economic Causes for the Growth of Cities."

SPORTS AND CIRCUS ACTS IN RIDING RING

Horse Fanciers Enjoy Splendid Equestrian Carnival with Novel Features.

COTILLION RIDE AND POLO

A Dozen Women Join in Music Promenade Led by George Mills—Fun in the Potato Race.

Indoor polo, a cotillion ride, basket ball on horseback, combined with several amusing exhibitions of performing horses in regular circus acts, formed an elaborate and entertaining programme last night in the big ring of the Tichenor-Grand Company's building, Broadway and Sixty-first Street. It was the second Spring equestrian fête held in the building, and the sports were witnessed by a large crowd of horse fanciers. The programme contained so many varied events that it was midnight before everything was concluded, but the contests were so admirably conducted that there was no lack of interest from the moment the cotillion ride opened the amusement until closed by a stirring steeplechase around the tan bark.

Thirty riders, including a dozen women, led by George Mills, took part in the music ride, and the various manoeuvres aroused genuine enthusiasm. Two polo teams of three men each then gave a spirited exhibition of polo, the halves being eight minutes each. James Cooley, one of the Westchester Country Club's leading players, acted as back for the Invincible team, the forwards being Charles Schwartz and Murray Guggenheim. Jack Wilmerding, who is frequently seen in the saddle in the yearly club games held under the auspices of the Polo Association, was one of the powerful hitters for the rival team, known as the Tichenor-Grands. Arthur Singer acted as back and Harry Guthrie supported Wilmerding in the forward positions. The first half was a tie, each scoring two goals, Cooley hitting the first shortly after Referee Marshall Clapp threw in the big ball. Guggenheim scored a goal for the Invincibles, while the scorers for the Tichenor team were Singer and Wilmerding. The second half opened in a lively manner, Cooley doing the greater part of the work for his team, but the Tichenors had the better support. Guthrie made a fine goal from a long carry and Wilmerding a minute later made another, the ball running between the goal marks from a clever side stroke, which gave the game to the Tichenor team by 4 goals to 2. Silver cups were presented to the members of the victorious team.

The jeu de barre for junior riders aroused interest from the fact that it was the last in a series of games for a silver trophy, Edward De Cernea and Joseph Greenberg being tied. Charles Gerhardt was the third contestant. The men were all well mounted, and it was a hard struggle to pull off the ribbon, but De Cernea outplayed his opponents and captured the cup amid loud applause.

A ladies' potato race then followed, being one of the most entertaining of the evening's sports. Mrs. V. Grimwood, Mrs. Josephine McKay, Miss Georgie Whitcomb, and Miss R. Howe were the contestants, and they made a pretty picture as they rode around the ring. A basket was placed in the middle of the ring filled with potatoes. Each woman had a long spear, with which she stabbed the potatoes and then carried them back, depositing them in a special basket. Four minutes were allowed, and the woman who secured the largest number of potatoes in that time won the Stern Silver Cup. Miss Howe, mounted on a fine black horse, had little trouble in capturing the prize, some of the women having difficulty in keeping the potatoes on the points of their spears, and several were lost in riding back to their respective baskets.

Fred Wettach ad Joseph Meisalahn, two well-known riding masters, contributed to the fun of the evening by giving a ludicrous exhibition of teaching a fat man to ride. Wettach took the part of the heavy novice, and his antics in getting on his horse, then rolling off, and hanging to the mane, aroused shouts of laughter. The fat man soon learned his lesson, for he concluded in a burst of speed around the ring, unfurling a large American flag, which the two men carried between them as they circled the tanbark.

A typical circus act, with six performing horses in charge of Mme. Etoile and Prof. Venilla, was a pleasing attraction, the most amusing feature being a boxing match between two of the horses, which was done in the most approved manner, the horses standing up on their hind legs and pawing away at each other with their forefeet in a manner suggestive of a most belligerent combat.

Nothing sad about our tale of Spring suits and overcoats—this Spring they're a bright and cheery lot.

And a lot of them there are—why, of Spring mixture suits alone we've already over a hundred patterns in our stores.

HORSE RACING IN CUBA.

Gov. Magoon Orders Half Holiday for Inauguration of the Sport.

HAVANA, March 12.—A season of horse racing, the first since 1902, was inaugurated this afternoon at the new mile track at Almendares Station, near Camp Columbia, under the auspices of the Cuban Racing Association. By order of Gov. Magoon the day was declared a half holiday in all the Government departments.

There were six races, and American horses were the chief contenders, all of the events resulting in good contests. The Cubans, who attended the races in large numbers, adopted the American system of betting, and appeared to take much enjoyment out of laying their wagers.

Gov. Magoon occupied the Presidential box, and there were also present many prominent American and Cuban officials, army officers, and a great gathering of fashionable Havana society and tourists.

The racing season will last only sixteen days, but the promoters of the sport are confident that next year they will be able to establish racing as a permanent institution in Havana.

Lively Bouts at Longacre A. C.

Stirring bouts characterized the boxing entertainment at the Longacre A. C. last night. The main bout was furnished by Lew Sheppard and Harry Ferns. It was a six-round affair, and, despite the fact that Ferns was not in the best condition, the contest was fast. Sheppard was in excellent form and tore into Ferns in vicious style. Only Ferns's cleverness and his ability to guard properly prevented the latter from being put away. It was easily Sheppard's fight. Two newcomers, Kid Buttons and Kid Seiger, appeared in the semi-windup for six rounds. Although a pair of raw youths, they displayed flashes of science and strength. The result was a draw. Jack Kahn proved too much for Willie Murray in the opening preliminary and the latter was knocked out in the third round. Phil Ryan treated Frank Gardener to the same dose in two rounds in the next scrap, and Charles Goldman had no trouble in outpointing Kid Eagan in four rounds. Kid Griffo and Jack Ten Brook put up such a poor exhibition that Referee Tommy Hogan stopped it in the second round. Harry Phillips and Mike Glover were substituted and Glover won in two rounds.

Baker and Mangold Draw.

After six rounds of fast and clever boxing Harry Baker of California and Willie Mangold, a local lightweight, fought a draw in the star bout at the Olympic A. C., Harlem, last night. Baker, who has a shifty left, and is very speedy on his feet, jabbed Mangold in tantalizing fashion. Mangold retaliated with well-directed counters and in this way succeeded in offsetting any advantage that Baker may have had. Baker located Mangold's body in the fifth and sixth rounds, but the blows did not seem to disturb Mangold, who rushed and swung with both hands. These smashes were hard and had the effect of shaking up the Californian. Anthony Beebe was no match for Al Wilson in the semi-windup, which was to have been for six rounds. In the fourth round, when it looked as if Beebe would go the knockout route, the contest was stopped by the referee. Jack Murphy and George Smith started hostilities in a lively four-round "go." Before the first round was finished Smith was in a bad way, and in the next period he was down and out. Dick Grant had all the better of Eddie Wilson in the other preliminary limited to four rounds.

Manhasset Yachtsmen Dine.

More than one hundred members and guests of the Manhassett Bay Yacht Club attended the midwinter dinner in the small ballroom of the Hotel Astor last night. Among the guests were Commodore Wilson Marshall of the Larchmont Yacht Cub, Commodore Lewis of the Huguenot Yacht Club, Martin W. Littleton, and ex-Commodore Clay M. Greene. Ex-Commodore Greene contributed a poem to the dinner. The verses were addressed "Shipmates Ahoy," "Captains Ahoy," and "Landsmen Ahoy."

FEDERAL AUTO BILL GETS HARD BLOW

POWER RESTS WITH STATES

Licensing Vehicles Not Within the Constitutional Scope of Congress, Says Judiciary Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Automobilists from various parts of the country appeared to-day before the House Comittee on the Judiciary in support of a bill introduced by Representative Cocks of New York to provide for Federal registration and licensing of automobiles and motor-driven vehicles, which are now taxed severally by the various States in which they are owned or through which they pass. The chief argument in support of the constitutionality of the bill was made by Prof. Charles Thaddeus Terry of New York, Professor of Law at Columbia University, general counsel to the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers and Chairman of the Executive Board of the American Automobile Association.

Chairman Jenkins took issue with Prof. Terry, as did Representative Alexander, as to the constitutional identity of dirt-road travel with waterway and railroad travel between the States. They did not concede his position that the powers of Congress over navigation include the power to regulate inter-State transit on dirt highways.

Mr. Walter and Attorney Huddy of New York, in behalf of the professional chauffeurs of the country, urged an amendment to the bill which would provide for the issuing of Federal licenses to chauffeurs as well as to owners of automobiles, and Mr. Harrison of New York made an appeal for Federal examination and professional licensing of chauffeurs, which, he said, would largely do away with automobile accidents.

There is definite authority for the statement that, adhering to the principle that the licensing of vehicles such as automobiles is solely a police power, and that the exercise of the police power is purely a State function and not within the constitutional scope of Congress, the committee will refuse to report the Cocks bill favorably.

AUTO DRIVER REPLACED.

McCullough Supersedes Robertson in Savannah Stock Car Races.

George Robertson has been replaced as the driver of one of the Apperson cars in the Savannah stock car races next week. This announcement was made yesterday by Sidney B. Bowman, the New York agent for the Apperson cars. The change is due to Robertson's recent accidents while practicing on the Savannah course. He had two accidents on Tuesday, partially breaking both of the rear wheels, and the accident to Harding's Isotta car on the same day is said to have been caused by Robertson running into the Isotta car while it was being towed home, the Isotta being thrown against a telegraph pole, breaking a front wheel and bending the axle.

Mr. Bowman stated that he had engaged William R. McCullough to take Robertson's place at the wheel of the Apperson in the 360-mile event, and McCullough left yesterday afternoon for Savannah. He is a well-known English driver. In 1905 he won the Sidney-Melbourne road race at 590 miles, starting from scratch against a field of thirty-seven drivers. In 1906 McCullough won the Land's End to John O'Groat's road race in England, decreasing the record by eleven hours. Last year he drove in several twenty-four-hour races. A party of New York autoists will leave this city for Savannah in a special car on the 2:10 P. M. train next Monday, via the Atlantic Coast Line. The train is due at Savannah the following morning at 11:30 o'clock.

It is announced that the race for the Southern Runabout Cup, 180 miles, will be started at 10 A. M. on Wednesday; the High-Powered Cup race, 180 miles, will start at 2 P. M. on the same day, and the main event, at 360 miles, will start at 10 A. M. on Thursday.

Second Auto Cup for Dr. Stinson.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12.—Dr. W. N. Stinson drove his twelve horse power Cadillac, with three people, into West Palm Beach at 5:06 o'clock this evening, making the sixty-eight-mile run through swamps and dreary wastes in ten hours, from Fort Pierce. On arrival here he was presented with a silver cup by the merchants of this city. At 8 o'clock the other two cars had not reported.

THE PICTORIAL SECTION of The Times next Sunday will contain a page that will be of great interest to the many thousands who are following closely the developments in the race of the automobilists who are struggling across the continent to complete the first leg of their long journey from New York to Paris. These pictures tell in a highly effective manner what the determined drivers of the motor cars are going through. Another striking page of the Pictorial Section of The Sunday Times will show the fearless builders of the Blackwell's Island Bridge in their great work of binding that structure together. The departure of British troops for India and the winter manoeuvres of Norwegian soldiers combine to form another attractive page.

A full page will be given to a splendid reproduction of Chocarne-Moreau's well-known painting, "Apres l'Office," a picture light in theme with highly enjoyable execution. Another page will carry attractive photographs of children of well-known parents engaged in out-door sports. Then there will be the customary page, always popular, of photographs of young women who are prominent just now in the affairs of the stage, and many other photographs of timeliness and interest.

The Sunday Times should always be ordered from newsdealers well in advance of Sunday. This is the only way by which its receipt may be assured.

N. Y. A. C. WINS FINAL GAME.

Defeats Hockey Club 6 to 1 and Ties St. Nicholas for Second Place.

STANDING OF CLUBS.

	W.	L.	P. C.
Crescent Athletic Club	8	0	1.000
New York Athletic Club	5	3	.625
St. Nicholas Hockey Club	5	3	.625
Hockey Club of New York	2	6	.250
Wanderers Hockey Club	0	8	.000

By defeating the Hockey Club of New York last night at St. Nicholas Rink, Sixty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue, in the final game of the season, the New York Athletic Club tied St. Nicholas Hockey Club for second place in the Amateur Hockey League championship. The contest was one-sided throughout, and was won by the Mercury Foot seven by the score of 6 to 1. At no time was the Hockey Club dangerous to the New York Athletic Club. They shot poorly and played an erratic, uncertain passing game.

The only score tallied by them was rather the result of accident than design, while the points scored by the winners were all earned, and the outcome of excellent play. Neither team played its best, but the New York Athletic Club players early realized the weakness of their opponents, and, while they played fast, they were not required to exert themselves unnecessarily.

For five minutes after the start of the game there was little to choose between the rival teams. Coolican was the first to break away, scoring the first goal for the New York Athletic Club after a clever dodging run. Keefe and Dillabaugh became mixed up in unnecessarily rough work, and both were put off the ice for one minute. Fast work followed by both teams, and the goal tenders at each of the cages were several times called upon to stop hard shots. From a scrimmage Dalton tallied the second goal for the Mercury Foot. Poor shooting robbed the Hockey Club of at least two goals, while the New York Athletic Club's forward line improved in this department. Castleman ran the gauntlet for the entire distance of the rink and wound up his run with a goal from a well-directed difficult angle shot. The Hockey Club's forward line made several unsuccessful attempts to tally, but the New York Athletic Club's defense proved too good, and the first half ended with the score 8 goals to 0 in favor of the Mercury Foot.

The second half started with the New York Athletic Club again the aggressor, Coolican and Dalton showing excellent team work and passing. A clever stop by Ellison robbed Castleman of a goal. The Hockey Club goal continued to be the scene of the playing. Twice the pressure was relieved until Dalton finally broke through the defense, and registered the fourth goal for the New York Athletic Club. The Hockey Club forwards, by eluding their opponents' forward line, penetrated the defense, when Dalton scored the first goal for his side. A few seconds later Dillabaugh shot the puck into the Hockey Club net, and Bryan was laid off for one minute for tripping. Just before time was called Coolican found an opening, and scored again for the Mercury Foot seven. The line-up:

N. Y. A. C., 6.	Position.	Hockey Club, 1.
Mills	Goal	Ellison

The Brooklyns will play a league match against the Caledonians on the grounds of the latter to-morrow afternoon, and the Brooklyn Zingaris will meet the Bensonhurst Thistles at Marquette Oval. Another hard match, arranged for Sunday afternoon, will be played between two Brooklyn teams, the Clan MacDonalds and the Arcadia Thistles, at the Visitation Ball Grounds.

Emerson Wins with Cue.

C. Emerson had a comparatively easy victory over E. Brown in the pool tournament at John T. Doyle's Billiard Academy last night, winning by the score of 50 to 18. Emerson played an almost perfect game. He had but two misses, and these occurred in the fourth and eighth innings. Brown was unable to get into his stride. He tried several hard combination plays, but invariably failed to complete them. Emerson had a high run of 10, and Brown's best effort was 6. The score:

Emerson—1 10 2 0 1 2 8 0 7 2 4 2 8 4 4. Total—50. High run—10. Scratches—1.

Brown—0 1 1 4 0 0 6 2 0 0 2 0 0 2 0. Total—18. High run—6. Scratches—2.

Amateur Billiard Championship.

CHICAGO, March 12.—The committee in charge of the National amateur billiard championship at the Chicago Athletic Association has arranged the schedule of the opening games. As a result of the draw for opponents Demarest, the present champion, representing the Chicago A. A., and Jackson of the Illinois A. C. are paired for the opener Saturday night. Monday afternoon Gardner of Passaic, N. J., and Conklin of the Chicago A. A. are to meet, while Monday night Poggenburg of New York is to play Wright of San Francisco. Tuesday afternoon the loser of the Demarest-Jackson game will play the loser of the Gardner-Conklin match.

Cassignol Loses Another Game.

F. Cassignol, the French billiard champion, played very poorly against George F. Slosson at 18.2 balk line last night at Slosson's Academy. The "Student" ran out his string of 500 points in twenty-two innings, and the best that Cassignol could do in that time was to gather 229 tallies. Cassignol had poor control of the ivories. Slosson had a high run of 110 in the ninth inning.

Slosson—0 0 4 12 23 6 8 7 110 40 13 45 25 0 41 7 50 7 5 53 24 25. Total, 500; average, 22 16-22; high runs, 110, 53, 50.

Cassignol—0 5 23 9 10 49 3 40 21 10 5 1 1 1 7 2 0 24 17 1 0. Total, 229; average, 10 19-21; high runs, 49, 40, 24.

Lewis Ahead in 14.2 Game.

Although hard pressed in the final innings H. B. Lewis did not have to play hard to take C. E. Dunn into camp in the 14.2 amateur Class B billiard tournament at the Knickerbocker Academy, Brooklyn, last night. In sixty-eight innings he made 200 points, with an average of 2 64-68, and high runs of 18 and 12. Dunn scored 173 points in as many innings and had an average of 2 37-68, with high runs of 18 and 17. To-night's game will bring M. V. Larkin and George D. Baxter together.

Hoppe Beats Schaefer in Two Games.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 12.—Jacob Schaefer and Willie Hoppe played two games of billiards here to-day at 18.2 balk line. Hoppe was winner in both events. The afternoon score was: Hoppe, 300; high run, 104; average, 25. Schaefer, 97; high run, 11; average, 8 9-11. The evening score was: Hoppe, 400; high run, 102; average, 28 8-14. Schaefer, 370; high run, 87; average, 28 6-13.

Harris Easily Defeats Martin.

In a game lasting seventy innings J. Harris (scratch) defeated G. Martin (5) by 30 points to 12 at Maurice Daly's Academy last night. Each had high runs of 2. Harris was slow at the start, but in the last ten innings he secured a commanding lead. P. Leidig and W. Baldridge, playing twenty-five points each, will meet to-night.

YANKEES DROP FIRST GAME TO ATLANTA

CHESBRO IN OLD-TIME FORM

Blanks Georgians in First Three Innings—Neuer Afraid to Take Chances in Cold with His Arm.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 12.—Pitcher Neuer's wildness in the fifth inning of to-day's practice game with Atlanta caused the defeat of the New York Americans by a score of 5 to 2. The Yankees had considerable difficulty in locating the curves of Johns and Atkins, who during the three innings each officiated in the box allowed their opponents but two hits. Viebahn, however, was not such an enigma, and it was off him that the Yankees made their runs.

Jack Chesbro started the game for the visitors, and held the Atlantas safely. He was followed by Neuer, who was afraid to pitch a curved ball on account of the chilly weather, and, taking advantage of the opportunity, the Southerners piled up four runs before the Yankees could really tell what happened.

The New Yorks played a steady game, and could easily have won it had Chesbro remained in the box. Kid Elberfeld was spiked while blocking a runner at second, and was forced to retire from the game in the sixth inning. The injury is slight, but Elberfeld will not practice to-morrow. The feature of the game, aside from the pitching of Johns and Atkins, was Kleinow's catching. He handled the pitchers nicely, and caught two men off first by lightning throws to Chase. The Yankees and Atlanta will play again to-morrow and Saturday. The score:

YOUNG GIANTS WIN.

Special to The New York Times.

MARLIN, Texas, March 12.—One four-inning game in the morning and a nine-inning contest this afternoon, around which was sprinkled about four hours of grueling practice, was the Giants' task to-day. If any balky muscles were in camp this morning, they were either completely wiped away to-day or will be absolutely helpless to-morrow. This morning's short battle was won by the regulars by a score of 4 to 1, they being able to reach Malarkey and worry the youngsters at critical moments.

This afternoon Manager McGraw thought to even matters up a bit, and sent Bresnahan, Ames, and Taylor to reinforce the Cubs. They did their work well, and after six innings surrendered their jobs, leaving the youngsters to maintain the lead of three runs they had amassed. Ames twirled splendidly to-day for the juveniles, and his work was well matched by Crandall, who was in the box three innings for the regulars. Mathewson hit a long one over the fence in left centre field, bringing Bridwell in ahead of him, thus preventing a shut out for the big boys. Score by innings:

Batteries: Colts—Ames, Taylor, Beecher, Bresnahan, and Snodgrass; Grown-ups—McGinnity, Mathewson, Crandall, Needham, and James.

Wagner to Quit Baseball Again?

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., March 12.—It was reported again to-day that Honus Wagner, the famous shortstop of the Pirates, had retired from baseball, but it is generally believed that Wagner will go with the team to Hot Springs to-morrow and the big player will be found in his old position this Summer. Wagner has saved considerable money since he became prominent in baseball, but he is hardly in a position to give up the game now with a fat salary at his disposal.

N. Y. U. Nine Out on Field.

The baseball candidates of the College of the City of New York were out in full force yesterday afternoon on Jasper Oval, which adjoins the college buildings. The field has been in a bad condition, due to the melting snow, but the strong sun of the last few days has hardened the soil considerably. The prospects are exceedingly bright for turning out a good nine this Spring.

At the conclusion of the shoot a dinner will be served for the members and their friends by the steward. Prominent among the club's best marksmen are George Bechtel, B. S. Bottome, Col. Big Entry List for Twenty-second Regiment Games on Tuesday Night.

Although the majority of the events on the programme for the annual indoor games of the Twenty-second Regiment Athletic Association, to be held at the armory, Sixty-eighth Street and Broadway, Tuesday evening, March 17, are closed to members of the National Guard of New York, the entry list, which closed last night, shows a most representative list of competitors. The Twenty-second Regiment Athletic Association includes among its membership Forrest Smithson, the world's hurdle record holder; Melvin W. Sheppard, J. P. Sullivan, Dan Frank, R. Koch, G. Smith, J. J. McEntee, and many other prominent Amateur Athletic Union athletes, and exciting contests are assured.

The military relay will bring together all the best middle-distance men in the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, and this event promises to be one of the best decided this Winter. The three-mile cross-country event will be contested by representatives from the New York Athletic Club, Irish-American Athletic Club, Pastime Athletic Club, Star Athletic Club, Mohawk Athletic Club, Mott Haven Athletic Club, and Xavier Athletic Association.

Mild Weather Brings Out Athletes.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 12.—Yale track athletes to-day took their first outdoor practice of the season at Yale Field. The track was in poor shape, and they used it for only sprints, working on the turf in the oval for most of the practice. They expect to work regularly outdoors till the season closes.

Capt. Tad Jones said to-night that no attempt to leave the cage had been made by the 'Varsity nine, and that none would be made until next week, although Harvard players have been outdoors several days. The nine is working regularly indoors.

With the mild weather of the past two days all the oarsmen have left the gymnasium for the harbor who can be accommodated in the small boathouse. Nearly all the freshman squad and 'Varsity have moved to the boathouse. Robert Hale Noyes of St. Paul, Minn., the former 'Varsity oarsman and Captain, was to-day announced head coach of the freshman eight for the coming season.

Hackenschmidt to Arrive To-day.

The arrival of the world's champion wrestler, George Hackenschmidt, has been delayed. He is a passenger on the Lusitania, which will arrive at her dock this afternoon. A committee from several of the Russian organizations here will be on hand to welcome the champion. He will go to the Hotel Astor, where his manager, W. W. Wittig, has engaged a suite of rooms for him. "Hack" has several invitations for this evening, both here and in Brooklyn, but he will decline them all, as he wants to rest up before the match at Grand Central Palace next Monday night.

George Bothner has been engaged to wrestle a Brooklyn man in one of the preliminary bouts. Alexander Swansen will probably figure as one of the men against Hackenschmidt.

Gotch Pins Lundin on Mat.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 12.—Frank Gotch, the American wrestler, to-night defeated Hjalmar Lundin, the Swedish champion, in two straight falls. The first fall, catch-as-catch-can, soncumed 12 minutes 30 seconds, while the second bout, Graeco-Roman style, lasted 17 minutes.

Important Change in Auto Trade.

An important change in the automobile industry that vitally affects two prominent concerns was announced yesterday from Detroit. Two of the leading members of the Ford Motor Company, W. E. Flanders, general factory manager, and Thomas Walburn, general Superintendent, have resigned, and, joining forces with B. F. Everitt and a group of Detroit capitalists, have secured a financial interest in the Wayne Automobile Company, of which Mr. Everitt and Mr. Flanders have been elected President and general manager, respectively. While the plans of the new organization are not yet ready for announcement in detail, it may be stated that they contemplate the production of automobiles on a larger scale than hitherto. Mr. Flanders has had complete charge of the manufacturing department of the various Ford plants from the time the concern began the manufacture of its 10,000 four-cylinder runabouts.

The Stearns

Best of the World.

A Ball-Bearing Car

The Stearns ball-bearing, 4-cylinder engine is capable of the greatest efficiency. All motorists are familiar with the feats of Stearns stock cars.

The great speed and power of Stearns cars is due in a large measure to this free use of the highest grade imported D. W. F. ball-bearings.

Properly tempered chrome nickel steel only is used in making the transmission gears and shafts. Ball-bearings are used in the transmission, the outer end of the sprocket shaft being similarly equipped.

The free use of these bearings in the clutch mechanism results in an increased ease of operation and smoothness of engagement. The clutch takes hold so easily that the car will start on any of the 4 speeds without the slightest jerk.

Mineral Water in Large Bottles to Pay 30 Cents Per Dozen.

In a decision by Judge Somerville the Board of United States General Appraisers overruled yesterday a contention filed by J. H. Rosenfeld of New York regarding the rates of duty to accrue on importations of mineral water in colored glass bottles.

The merchandise was returned for duty under the provision in the Dingley tariff providing for bottles containing over one pint and not over one quart, with assessment at the rate of 30 cents per dozen. On the other hand, the importer claimed that the articles are dutiable at 20 cents per dozen, on the ground that the bottles do not contain more than one pint.

Other importers' protests overruled were filed by Hensel, Bruckmann & Lorbacher, the Syndicate Trading Company, New York, and Michael Gangiano, Boston.

The board sustained claims filed by Brucato Brothers and others, and Sun Kwong On, New York.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Show Irregularity—Call Money Rates, 2@1¾ Per Cent.

EXCHANGE PROBING IGNORED

English Bank Showing Good—Discount Rates Easier at Foreign Centres.

The stocks which figured so prominently in Wednesday's sharp upturn were heavy yesterday, and the selling of them, which was partly in the nature of profit taking and partly owing to reviving courage among bearish traders, served to give to the market as a whole an air of extreme irregularity. The general movement was downward through the greater part of the day, but late in the afternoon covering purchases stimulated prices sufficiently to raise the average a trifle above the level of the previous night. The work of cliques was readily found in the advances in shares which are ordinarily neglected, and issues of this kind were among the strongest of the trading. Included in this list were Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 'Frisco second preferred, Colorado Southern issues, and Erie preferred stocks. For the activity in the Colorado Southern shares a favorable financial statement for the last calendar year appears to have been responsible, while the growing belief that Erie will find it feasible to extend its maturing obligations around the first of April was a factor in the rise in these shares. The volume of trading fell some 300,000 shares under that of Wednesday, and was much more professional in its character. Very little attention was paid to news developments. The announcement of an approaching investigation of the Stock Exchange was without apparent effect. The general feeling among members of the Exchange seems to be that, with the institution subject to such free criticism as it has been for some time, such an examination will do more good than harm. There are confessedly a number of things which might be changed for the better in the machinery of the Exchange. In the first place, the leniency displayed toward corporations whose shares are admitted to the so-called "unlisted" department in the matter of annual reports is properly a subject of censure. Again, there is present the opportunity, at least, for flagrant manipulation in stocks under existing rules, and all avenues toward such practices should be tightly closed. Threats of a strike on the part of soft coal operators were passed over, but some little encouragement was derived from the successful sale of New York State bonds, and another advance in the price of copper metal.

Only a small reduction in their previous loss to the Sub-Treasury was reported by the banks yesterday, and the drain to the Government institution since Friday of last week amounts now to $8,100,000, as against a loss of $219,000 in the corresponding period of last week. The Bank of England returned a strong statement, reporting substantial additions to its gold holdings and reserves. The proportion of reserves to liabilities stands now at 50 per cent., as against 49.59 per cent. last week. The present percentage is the highest reported at this season of the year, with two exceptions, in a decade. Berlin discounts fell yesterday, following a momentary advance on Wednesday, and similar declines were reported from London and Paris. Foreign exchange rates also weakened.

Option for Eastern Railway Bonds.

The holders of first mortgage bonds of the Eastern Railway of Minnesota, part of the Great Northern system, which mature on April 1, will have the option, it was announced yesterday, of exchanging the bonds for 4 per cent. bonds of the Northern Division of the Eastern Railway. Those who do not accept the offer of exchange will have their bonds paid on and after April 1 upon presentation to the Great Northern Railway Company or at the office of Lee, Higginson & Co.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 12.—The local market was inclined to be dull this morning, but the undertone was strong, and under the lead of Amalgamated prices began to work higher. It is expected that the Washoe Smelter will be in operation to full capacity within a few weeks, which means that copper will be coming out ready for market by the first of June. The balance of the list is fractionally higher all around as a result of the day's trading.

Reaction in Curb Stocks Keeps Market Back and Prices Sag on Lessened Trading.

MARKET LEADERS DOWN

Cumberland-Ely and Nevada Consolidated Both Make Losses in Diminished Market—Trading Dull.

Curb trading was less active yesterday, and, except for movements in the low-priced issues and in a few of the coppers, which made small advances, the market was generally weak. The two copper issues which were the leaders of the advance in Wednesday's market were conspicuous yesterday for the reactions which were apparent in both. Nevada Consolidated dropped from 11¼ to 10⅞ on transactions of 4,500 shares. Cumberland-Ely lost ⅛ on reported sales of 9,600 shares.

The principal transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee continued very quiet yesterday, with prices partly lower under moderate offerings. Sales for the day were reported of 6,000 bags, and the market closed barely steady, net unchanged to 5 points lower.

The market opened steady, unchanged to a decline of 5 points. The French market was ¼ franc higher early, but lost the advance, closing net unchanged, and Hamburg was also net unchanged. Rio reported a decline of 25 and Santos of 50 reis. Receipts at the two ports were 19,000 bags, against 21,000 the previous day, 55,000 last year, and 11,000 two years ago. Jundiahy receipts were 10,000 bags, against 3,000 two years ago. New York warehouse deliveries were 22,468 bags, or in excess of the receipts at the two Brazilian ports. The visible supply of coffee of the United States, Brazilian, is reported at 3,797,005 bags, against 3,994,944 last year.

Spot coffee was quiet on the basis of 6¼@6 3-16c for Rio No. 7.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—Local trading was much less active, but it was due largely to a contraction in business in the leading arbitrage stocks, notably United States Steel. Reading continued the active leader, furnishing over one-half of the day's sales. Prices were firm and practically unchanged, the only exception being Cambria Steel, which eased off under selling of a few small lots. Total sales, 32,470 shares.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Sentiment Veers Little.

Sentiment has suffered no material change in the last two or three days, and the spirit of hopefulness has not been eliminated by any temporary reaction in the market. Probably it would only require one bad day, or two at most, and a few alarming dispatches from Washington to eliminate completely the tendency toward a bullish attitude on the important stocks. Yesterday's market indicated at times that the professionals are not entirely willing to accompany the procession indefinitely, and that they are willing to take a position where they can change their opinion and make their commitments in accordance with the daily developments. If it be a fact that the market is wholly professional, it must be demonstrated very soon, inasmuch as a change of attitude on their part would mean changed conditions in the market. In addition, however, to the more generous attendance uptown, some of the wire houses report more numerous queries from their clients.

Week of Anniversaries.

One broker took occasion to remind his customers yesterday that this is the time for reminiscences. Yesterday was the anniversary of the great blizzard of 1888, and to-morrow will be the anniversary of the silent panic of 1907, which was the precursor of the financial panic of October and November. Incidentally, to-day is Friday the 13th. Consequently, there is enough gossip for the week-end, and no doubt many veterans of the panic will live over again their emotions of that day. Some of the brokers have occasion to remember it, also. The intervening twelve months have not been particularly propitious for wiping out debit balances which good nature on their part permitted at the time. Many members pointed out to their customers that the situation today is altogether different from a year ago. The panic, or series of panics, exhausted themselves. Recuperation has begun, and even if it be retarded by hostile legislation, the tendency is toward improvement. One brokerage house had pasted on its tickers the dates of the various anniversaries and this little advice: "Don't live in terror of something that happened a year ago. If you do you will probably be more disgusted with your short sightedness a year from now than you are to-day with what happened to you during the last twelve months. Good times are coming in spite of the politicians."

⁂

Margins and Mystery.

No one found time to be excited yesterday over the announcement from Washington that there is going to be an investigation of stock trading by the Commissioner of Corporations. The only comment brokers would make was that they hoped that Mr. Smith would go into the situation fully and take his evidence where he found it. There are many important books published on the economic functions of the Exchanges. One house suggested that an exhaustive analysis of the Exchanges made by one of the professors of one of the leading colleges a decade ago ought to be in the hands of the investigator before he began his work. There is nothing in the world more puzzling to the novice than the mechanism of Wall Street. Margins and mystery apparently go hand in hand. Members of the Exchange who are in authority say that every possible facility will be granted to those conducting the investigation. One member of the board remarked yesterday: "I wonder if it would be possible to obtain an absolutely unbiased report on the New York Stock Exchange, its functions, its necessity, and the admirable way in which its business is conducted. Do you think there is any other corporation or any other business combination in the world that can make such a clean, thoroughly businesslike, and absolutely untainted showing as the Exchange?"

⁂

State Bond Comparisons.

Bond men recalled yesterday that New York State bonds have sold as low as a 2½ per cent. basis, and ventured the prediction that he bonds allotted on Monday might be expected to duplicate this performance in the next ten years. If the bonds sold on Wednesday were to sell on a 2½ per cent. basis ten years from today it would mean that the market price would be 138, or a difference between the average purchase price and the price then prevailing of more than 30 points. No one can predict what may happen in the money market or the bond market in ten years; consequently, while it may be nothing more nor less than idle speculation to assume such a possibility, there is a basis for the assumption of wisdom on the part of those who had the temerity to bid relatively high for this particular State issue. Naturally, if the State bonds were to make such a substantial advance the New York City bonds would share in proportion. Possibly the city's tangled finances may be unraveled in the next ten years.

Union Pacific Gossip.

Gossip continues busy with Union Pacific, and imaginative details are not lacking of the plan which it is assumed the Directors or those concerned will make public in the next few weeks or few months. The proposal involving the segregation of the investments of the company has been a matter of discussion for months, but the talk has been a little more emphatic of late, and the expectant ones have been figuring Union Pacific as a 6 per cent. stock with valuable rights accruing to them in some way on account of the investment holdings. One theory is that the investments would be set aside, certificates of participation issued to the stockholders, and the dividend on these certificates paid from the revenue returned by the investments. Details, of course, are always furnished with every rumor, and promptly forgotten when the facts are published and the real details become known. There is a semimonthly revival of the Northern Pacific melon talk, and at the moment this is a matter of interest for those who prefer to anticipate possibilities rather than await actualities.

TO SUE HARRIMAN FOR ELEVEN MILLIONS

Union Pacific Stockholders Call on Directors to Bring Action on Illinois Central Purchase.

NOT INSTIGATED BY FISH

So His Counsel Declares—Other Directors Made Defendants—Profits Made on Sale to Union Pacific.

A demand was made yesterday on the Directors of the Union Pacific, through counsel representing a number of stockholders, that suit be instituted by the road against E. H. Harriman and other Directors to compel the payment to the Union Pacific Railroad of all profits made by Mr. Harriman and other Directors through the sale to the Union Pacific of stock in the Illinois Central, the Railroad Securities Company, and the St. Joseph & Grand Island.

This demand was made in the name of Lewis A. Storrs and Henry R. Buck of Hartford, William A. Arnold of Willimantic, and Arthur C. Bates of East Granby, Conn. Their counsel is Leonard M. Wallstein, who is associated as counsel with Stuyvesant Fish in the Illinois Central fight. Mr. Wallstein said yesterday that it was not to be inferred from this fact that Mr. Fish had anything to do with this new move against Mr. Harriman. Mr. Fish, he said, had no more connection with the demand made on the Union Pacific Directors yesterday than he had to do with the Government suit against the Union Pacific.

The demand that the company institute a suit against Mr. Harriman for the payment to the road of profits made out of stock sales to the Union Pacific was a necessary legal formality, Mr. Wallstein said, as a preliminary to a suit by stockholders for the same purpose. He did not expect, he said, that enough votes could be had in the Union Pacific board to bring such suits.

Besides the stockholders in whose name this demand was made yesterday many other Union Pacific stockholders, Mr. Wallstein said, were interested in the movement, but he could not reveal their identity at this time. Mr. Wallstein's clients estimate that out of the sale of these stocks to the Union Pacific and of others, the purchase of which became known through the Inter-State Commerce Commission's investigation into Union Pacific affairs, there were profits amounting to $20,000,000, of which he said $11,000,000 represented the profits made out of the sale of Illinois Central, Railroad Securities, and St. Joseph & Grand Island stocks.

One reason for making the demand at this time, Mr. Wallstein said, was to prevent any change in the status of Union Pacific affairs, such as might result from the carrying out of the proposed plan for the segregation of the Union Pacific's investments. It was desired, he said, to serve notice on the Directors so that no steps should be taken which might in any way frustrate the effort to obtain for the Union Pacific the profits which it is alleged Mr. Harriman and other Directors made out of the sales of stock to the road.

Mr. Harriman was at his office yesterday for the first time in a week. When he left for the day he refused to discuss the demand made by Mr. Wallstein's clients.

"Where did you get that?" he asked. "I won't talk about it. I have nothing to say."

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Bearish weather and crop news from the Southwest wiped out an early advance yesterday. Increased clearances of wheat and flour, together with an advance of ⅜ to ½d at Liverpool also had an effect, and throughout the day the May option was relatively stronger than new crop positions. Late cables from Paris were 5 to 20 points lower, while Berlin showed 1⅞c advance, and Budapest was ⅝c higher. At the decline a little export demand was noted, total sales reaching five loads. Cash wheat in New York closed irregular, as follows: No. 2 red, 99½c elevator, and $1.00½ free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.13⅝, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.11¼ free on board, afloat.

CORN—Prices sold off rather easily in the afternoon, part of the late selling being on reports of a larger crop movement at interior points. Liverpool closed ⅛ net higher. Cash corn in New York was quoted as follows, prices being nominal: No. 2 corn, 73½c elevator and 67c free on board afloat; No. 2 white, 67½c, and No. 2 yellow, 67½c free on board, afloat.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Moderate Increase in Trading on the European Bourses.

LONDON, March 12.—Money continued to be fairly scarce on the market to-day, but the demand was good. Discounts were quiet.

Trading on the Stock Exchange recovered from yesterday's uneasiness, as the settlement was concluded with only one small failure. First-class securities and home rails were absorbed quietly. Investors received a further stimulus in the shape of a good Bank return, but consols closed below the best on the forthcoming issue of £3,000,000 of New South Wales stock. More cheerful advices from Paris assisted foreigners, Kaffirs, and De Beers, while copper shares were supported on firmness in the price of the metal and better American advices.

American securities received moderate attention on more cheerful news from Wall Street in anticipation that the Administration will favor increased freight rates. Prices opened above parity and made further fractional gains in the forenoon. The market reacted later in the day, and with no support from New York prices eased. They hardened fractionally, however, near the close.

Bar silver was steady at 25 9-16d per ounce.

PARIS, March 12.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm on the advices from New York.

BERLIN, March 12.—Trading on the Boerse to-day was quiet, but American shares generally were active.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Dull, with New Low Records—Closes Steady 1 to 11 Points Down.

Cotton continued quiet yesterday, but most positions made new low records for the current movement. The market closed steady, but at a net decline of 1@11 points. Sales for the day were estimated at 125,000 bales.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4@5 points, and after a little hesitation advanced on better cables and some New Orleans buying. But offerings increased, and during the afternoon the market became quite easy on unfavorable trade reports. Mississippi mills, it was reported, will curtail production by one-third and that New England mills, with the exception of Fall River, would reduce wages 10 per cent. Advices said that the mills in the vicinity of Birmingham, Ala., had decided to run on full time. Dispatches from Memphis, Birmingham, and Galveston reported an absolute absence of spot demand.

The range of contract prices in the local market was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Wednes. Close.

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, with prices 10 points lower, at 11.30 for middling upland and 11.55 for middling Gulf. Sales, 1,600 bales.

Southern spot markets were telegraphed as follows: Mobile quiet, unchanged at 11⅛c; sales, 250 bales. Savannah dull, unchanged at 11c; sales, 948 bales. Norfolk dull, unchanged at 11⅝c; sales, 181 bales. Augusta quiet and steady, unchanged at 11⅝c; sales, 280 bales. Galveston steady, unchanged at 11 15-16c; sales, 856 bales. RAILWAYS MUST PAY TAX ON STORED COAL

New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals Holds It Is Not Within Inter-State Trade.

FIGHT OF LONG STANDING

Test Case Will Probably Be Carried to the United States Supreme Court by Coal Carriers.

A decision of much importance to the railroads owning anthracite coal properties and to the whole coal trade of the Eastern States has been handed down by the Court of Errors and Appeals in New Jersey. It comes as the final determination, so far as the Jersey courts are concerned, of the long-standing dispute between the Assessors of the Western counties and the coal companies, whether the great coal accumulations at the various stations near the Pennsylvania border are taxable by the State of New Jersey.

The Court of Errors and Appeals holds that they are taxable, upholding the lower court before which the matter came, but there are certain aspects of the case which give to it a wider importance than appears in the bare settlement of the tax dispute.

The contest was between the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company and the Assessors of the town of Junction, about twenty miles over the border from Pennsylvania, where the Assessors sought to tax for local purposes 100,000 tons of coal in storage. It was a test case for the various other coal companies with similar deposits, and was taken up on certiorari proceedings.

In the trial, at which the principal witness was President George F. Baer of the Reading Railway, the company sought to establish the point that the coal stored at Junction was in transit and that the storage was merely an incident of inter-State transportation from the mines to tidewater.

Hence, it was alleged that the coal came under the protection of the commerce clause of the Federal Constitution, and was not locally taxable. Evidence was introduced also, showing that the coal company paid the railroad freight of $1 a ton on the shipment from the mines to the storage depot, which amount was added to the price charged to the purchaser at tidewater.

The opinion of the Court of Errors and Appeals was handed down by Judge James B. Dill. It holds, first, that the coal stored as described acquires a situs in New Jersey, and therefore becomes subject to local taxation.

In the second place, it laid down that in order to claim protection under the commerce clause of the Federal Constitution there must be a continuous movement from State to State in pursuance of a definite contract existing of sale or assignment, and, thirdly, the opinion declares that transportation by an owner for his own order as consignee from one State to another for the convenience of the owner for storage en masse and subsequent sale in specific quantities, is not inter-State commerce in the sense that the merchandise so handled becomes exempt from local taxation.

On this point, Judge Dill says:

> While inter-State commerce necessarily involves inter-State transportation, the converse is not always true. A manufacturer who sends his goods, manufactured in Connecticut, to his own entrepot or store in New York City transports the products from one State to another, but the transportation by such owner is not of itself, so far as the owner is concerned, inter-State commerce, in the sense that the City of New York has no power to tax the goods thus stored and awaiting sale in New York, although the merchandise may be intended for a foreign market. The transportation lacks the essential element of trade, namely, sale or exchange.
>
> In accordance with these principles it is clear that the transportation of the coal in question by the prosecutor from the mines to the storage plant was simply the act of dominion exercised over the property by its owner, and although the intention was that the coal should be ultimately sold and thereafter distributed to other States, it cannot justly be said that there was any traffic in the coal or any business of selling or consignment, or that the transportation was incidental to any existing contract of sale or assignment. * * *
>
> The fact is clear that the purpose of the storage plant was more for the control of the output for the convenience of the coal company in the economical distribution of its product than to facilitate transportation to another State.

The decision, if upheld in the United States Supreme Court, to which it is understood the case will be taken, will have an important bearing upon the control of the coal situation by the companies both at the mines and at tidewater. It has long been known that the coal depots across the New Jersey line and out of the way of strike disturbances were of great value as enabling the companies to control the situation at the mines, and their utility as regards the tidewater supply of coal has been quite as readily admitted.

The imposition of a local tax on top of the taxes that the companies have to pay on their Pennsylvania properties would be a very material drawback to the further maintenance of the huge coal depots in New Jersey. There is a bearing of the case also upon the struggle between the coal companies and the Government over the commodity clause of the Hepburn bill forbidding a railroad to transport in inter-State commerce any product except lumber and its own materials in which it is interested.

One of the devices that has been suggested as a means of getting around this provision is for the nominal purchase of the coal to take place at the mines so that the purchaser might become the shipper in all inter-State transportation.

But as it has been deemed inexpedient to maintain coal depots in Pennsylvania on account of the strike situation any such plan receives its death blow in the establishment of a doctrine that the storage of coal in New Jersey cannot be considered a part or incident of inter-State transportation.

ROAD MAY PASS DIVIDEND.

Southern Railroad's Directors Meet To-day to Consider Action.

The Southern Railway Directors will hold their regular monthly meeting to-day. This is the date for action on the semi-annual dividend on the preferred stock, but it is considered almost certain that no dividend will be declared.

At the time of the last semi-annual payment there was declared on the preferred stock a 1½ per cent. dividend, payable out of accumulated net earnings, instead of the regular semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent., payable out of current earnings. The further declines which have occurred in the road's earnings during the last six months are generally regarded as precluding any dividend declaration to-day.

FINANCE COMMITTEE MEETS.

Preparing a Report to the Chamber of Commerce on Currency Question.

The Finance Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which was charged with the consideration of several resolutions introduced at the last meeting of the Chamber regarding currency matters, met yesterday to discuss the questions and formulate a report.

James G. Cannon, Vice President of the Fourth National Bank, Chairman of the committee, said that the work of the committee had not gone far enough to make it possible to indicate what recommendation the committee would make.

The committee has before it resolutions calling on one hand for an expression of opinion on the bills now before Congress and on the other to ask Congress to appoint a Currency Commission to take up consideration of the whole currency question.

OLD CROOK AGAIN IN TOILS.

"Kentucky Colonel" Angry Because He Couldn't Get a Drink.

One of the most picturesque figures in the criminal records of the last fifty years in America appeared at Police Headquarters yesterday in the person of Daniel S. Ward, now in his seventy-fourth year, who is known at all the principal prisons throughout the country as the "Kentucky Colonel." Ward was arrested for passing forged checks on a department store.

He is a tall, angular man with a sour smile, pointed chin, and with his long-tailed coat and wide-brimmed soft hat, looks the ideal Kentucky Colonel, as depicted on the stage.

The old man showed fight when the detectives started to put him through an examination. He told Inspector McCaffrey to go to a warmer clime, and threatened to thrash Lieut. Dunn when he attempted to make him stand up in line.

"It's pretty tough on a man used to his forty drinks of whisky a day," said Ward, "not to be able to get an eye-opener in the morning. That's what makes me sore."

The prisoner was charged with passing forged drafts in a Broadway store, where he made some purchases, and received the change in cash.

Ward casually remarked to Inspector McCaffrey that he had been at Headquarters thirty years ago and had had his picture taken, but was liberated afterward.

Just a month ago Ward married a young Canadian Indian girl and took her to Rhode Island, where he posed as a Kentucky Colonel on his bridal tour, and was presented to members of the State Legislature, and received the freedom of the legislative chambers.

Ward's last arrest in this city was in 1885, when he was sent to Sing Sing for three years for grand larceny. In 1890 he got four years for the same offense in Kansas City, and was again sentenced in Boston for three years in 1895. Ward's most palmy days were spent on the old-time Mississippi passenger steamboats, when he was the leader of a band of professional gamblers that traveled up and down the river.

When Ward was arraigned before Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court later in the day he was held without bail to await extradition papers from Boston.

FATHER LEO'S SLAYER GUILTY.

Jury Says Alia Must Hang—No Evidence of Plot Against Priests.

DENVER, Col., March 12.—Giuseppe Alia, who shot and killed Father Leo Heinrichs in St. Elizabeth's Church in this city Feb. 23, was to-day found guilty of murder in the first degree. Hanging was the penalty fixed by the jury.

The evidence for the defense was completed yesterday. Only two witnesses were called, and only one of them, Dr. Baron G. Tosti, the Italian Consul, testified that he considered the slayer of Father Leo insane, basing this opinion upon the fact that the murder was without apparent motive. No explanation of Alia's terrible act other than that given by him in jail was offered, and no evidence of any plot against Father Leo or priests in general had been presented at the trial.

First Assistant District Attorney John Chiles asked the jury to find a verdict of murder in the first degree. He reviewed the testimony to show that the murder was willful, malicious, and premeditated.

Robert H. Wildecombe, attorney for the defendant, dwelt on the fact that the State presented the evidence of experts to show that the defendant was sane, when the law itself presumed him to be sane. This act was taken because Alia's act was one to indicate to the District Attorney that the defendant was crazy. He asserted that the experts had not sufficient time without corroborative testimony to determine Alia's mental condition.

COTTON MILLS CUT WAGES.

Seven Lowell Manufacturers Say Business Outlook Is Discouraging.

LOWELL, Mass., March 12.—Notices announcing a wage reduction of 10 per cent. were posted in seven of the large cotton factories in this city during the noon luncheon hour to-day. Nearly 25,000 operatives will be affected by the cut.

The manufacturers state that the business outlook is most discouraging, and that the situation is without a parallel in many years, the whole cotton manufacturing industry, North and South, being seriously impaired. It is also stated that further curtailment of production may become necessary.

The corporation where the notices were posted to-day comprise practically all of the large manufacturers. They are the Boots, Tremont and Suffolk, Hamilton, Middlesex, Lawrence, Appleton, and Merrimac corporations.

Reports received from Manchester, N. H., and Lawrence, Mass., indicate that the action of the Lowell manufacturers may be followed in both Manchester and Lawrence.

COAL COMPANY DENIES FRAUD

Says Its $3,000,000 Mortgage Was on Surface Land, Not on Its Coal.

The preliminary skirmish in what is expected to be a long-drawn out legal battle for a stake of $3,000,000 began yesterday before Justice Martin in the United States District Court when argument was heard on demurrers filed by defendants in the suit begun by the Slater Trust Company of Providence, R. I., to recover $3,000,000 in mortgage bonds issued by the Randolph-Macon Coal Company on 47,000 acres of coal lands said to be owned by the company.

Delphin M. Delmas, counsel for the trust company, will reply to the demurrers this morning, and will, according to the complaint, allege that fraudulent representations were made to the Slater Trust Company at the time it took over the bonds of the coal company and distributed them among its patrons.

The defense contends that the mortgage applied only to the surface of the 47,000 acres and not to the coal beneath, and that therefore the suit is without a legal basis.

The defendants in the case are, besides the coal company, John R. Hegeman, William A. Read, and James T. Gardiner, President of the Randolph-Macon Coal Company.

COMMODITY PRICES.

The prices of commodities, as estimated by Bradstreet's, were lower on March 1 than on any date since July, 1905. The decline has been steady during the last twelve months, and the "index number," by which the course of prices is figured, is now 12.5 per cent. below the figure on July 1.

Expressed in figures the "index number" of commodity prices on March 1, as estimated by Bradstreet's, was 7.9862, which represents a decline of 1.7 per cent. during February.

Out of the thirteen groups of staples which are included in the calculations textiles show the greatest reductions. Provisions follow this group closely in the extent of the declines, and hides and leather, oils, and miscellaneous products are all notably lower. Building materials, coal, coke, and breadstuffs show less important declines. Live stock and metals are the only two groups which advanced in price during February.

Compared with the conditions of a decade ago the prices are still at high levels, being, in fact, 40 per cent. higher than the "index number" of July 1, 1896.

Pennsylvania Road Opens New Branch

The Pennsylvania Railroad has just opened for operation the short line known as the West Seneca Branch, which is expected greatly to facilitate the handling of freight around Buffalo. The construction of this line was decided on because of the rapid development in recent years of commerce on the great lakes.

COURT CLERKS TO GET PAY.

Exemption of Thirty $3,000 City Officials Upheld by State Board.

ALBANY, March 12.—By a decision of the State Civil Service Commission today thirty assistant clerks to the municipal courts in New York, appointed last year under the general Municipal Court act, will be permitted to draw their salaries of $3,000 annually. The Civil Service Reform Association of New York objected to the proposition to make the places exempt from competitive examination, with the result that the pay of the clerks has been held up.

The commission also approved the exemption from competitive examination of ten additional auditors in the office of Controller Metz of New York.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN District of New York.—In the matter of SHIPMAN McKINNEY COMPANY, Bankrupt.—No. 10,251.

To the creditors of the above-named bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that John Ewen, the Trustee herein, has filed with me his petition for leave to sell at private sale on competitive written bids certain assets of the bankrupt, consisting of scenery and properties for a play known as "The Quicksands," and that a special meeting of creditors to consider, act, and pass upon the said petition will be held at the office of John J. Notice is hereby further given that the competitive written bids for said property should be sealed, and sent to the Trustee at his office, No. 45 Cedar Street, New York City, plainly marked "Bid for Shipman McKinney Co. property," and that such bids will be publicly opened by said Trustee at the special meeting of creditors at the time and place aforesaid, to be acted upon by said creditors. The said property is now located at the Jersey City Storage, 585-591 Montgomery Street, Jersey City, N. J., and can be inspected on any day prior to the above meeting.

The Trustee will not accept without the approval of the creditors and the referee any bid unless it is sealed, and at least equals the appraised value of said property, and each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or cash for at least 10% of the amount of the bid, to be returned to the unsuccessful bidders, or in the event that a private sale be not authorized. The court also reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Notice is hereby further given that in the event that the bids submitted be rejected, and no order is made by the referee to sell such property at private sale, the said property shall then be sold at public auction under the direction of John Ewen, the Trustee, by Charles Shongood, U. S. Auctioneer, at Jersey City Storage, 585-591 Montgomery Street, Jersey City, N. J., on the 26th day of March, 1908, at 12 o'clock noon.
